The recognized leader of the rebels at the present time is Venustiano Carranza.

His younger brother, Jesus, is a minor rebel leader and one of those who recently attacked Monterey.

Venustiano Carranza is one of the few upper class Mexicans to take an active part in the effort now going on to restore constitutional government in Mexico.

The rebels claim this is their object in taking the field, such government having disappeared with the downfall of Madero. How sincere are their motives can only be told if they are successful in overthrowing Huerta. Even then it is doubted by most foreigners in Mexico and many Mexicans if there are enough of the sincere rebels to establish and maintain a really constitutional government.

Carranza Active in Politics.

Carranza is a large property owner. Under the Porfirio Diaz régime he was a deputy in the national congress. He was Madero's secretary of war. Later he was elected governor of the state of Coahuila. When the Madero government fell, but before Madero's death, he endeavored to enter into communication with the new government in Mexico City.

For this purpose he approached the American consul in Saltillo, who notified the American ambassador in Mexico City. Carranza wanted the new government to guarantee him his position as governor of Coahuila, saying that if this was done he would not go into the field against them.

Though telegram after telegram was sent, no definite answer was received, until, after considerable delay, word came from Ambassador Wilson advising Carranza to surrender himself to the Huerta government and accept their decision, as all foreign governments had or would soon recognize it.

Carranza Feared for His Life.

Carranza, knowing how much consideration or mercy he might expect once in Huerta's hands, refused to do any such thing and promptly took the field with the considerable force he always has had behind him since the beginning of the revolutionary troubles.

The federal government, following the Mexican custom when prominent officials are to be arrested, or when they oppose the government, promptly accused him of embezzlement of state funds while governor of Coahuila. As he is far from poor and there could be no temptation for him to commit such a crime, the charge is probably false.

Carranza is a quiet, thoughtful, and studious man generally well liked. He probably is perfectly sincere in his expressed desire to put Mexico on the basis of a true constitutional republic.

Since he took the field against Huerta he has gradually succeeded in getting all the northern leaders to recognize him as the supreme chief of the revolution. His greatest difficulty has been to get them to act in concert and to really obey.

Hard to Get Concerted Action.

Two great troubles have always confronted any revolutionary chief in Mexico. One is to get the rebels to look beyond their local or state troubles and realize that the issue is a national one.

The other is to in any way control the leaders, who are in it for what they can get and who the more disorderly they are the larger the following which they attract. Naturally such a leader soon has under him all the most vicious and disorderly elements, who resent too much of any kind of control and who have no desire to settle down to a peaceful life.

One of the principal revolutionary leaders and one who always has a large force under him is "Pancho" Villa. Villa in the days of Porfirio Diaz was a very successful bandit. Porfirio, in spite of many years' effort, never succeeded in catching him. When Madero's revolution broke out he joined it. Like Orozco, he probably went in it for what it was worth. However, this much must be said in his favor: While Orozco has changed sides and would surprise no one by doing so again, Villa has remained faithful to the original revolution of which the present one is a continuation.

Ignored Orders from Huerta.

When Huerta was fighting his northern campaign during Madero's régime Villa refused to obey his orders. Huerta arrested him and was going to execute him when one of the younger Maderos interceded and saved his life. He was sent to Mexico City and put in jail, where he re-

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—Another week of bad weather is ahead for the eastern part of the country, according to the weather bureau.

"The eastward movement of a disturbance now over the lower Arkansas valley," the Weekly Bulletin says, "will result in a continuance of the unsettled, rainy weather during the early days of the week over the eastern half of the country, with possibly some snow over the extreme northern districts.

"Generally fair weather will follow for a day or so after, but the eastward movement of another marked disturbance now over Arizona will probably be attended by rains over the southern and rains and snow over the northern districts from the Rocky mountains eastward, beginning about Monday morning along the eastern slopes of the mountains, reaching through the plains states into the central valleys and the upper lake region about the middle of the week, and the lower lake region and the east about Thursday or Friday.

"This disturbance will be followed by fair and colder weather that will reach the central valleys after the middle of the week and the eastern states by the end of the week. However, temperatures will not be unusually low."

Multitude of Accidents, Many of Them Serious, Causes Commissioner Waldo to Adopt Drastic Methods.

New York, Nov. 30.—[Special.]—Twenty-four motorcycle policemen ordered into Manhattan and the Bronx by special order of Commissioner Waldo have served more than 500 summonses on automobile drivers since Saturday morning. Such a multitude of automobile accidents, many of them serious, has come to perplex the police and alarm citizens lately that Police Commissioner Waldo adopted this unusual means to stop speeding and careless driving, not only by taxicabs but private vehicles as well.

SUFFRAGISTS ASK AN AMENDMENT TO U.S. CONSTITUTION

Massmeeting at Washington Calls on President to Embody Request in Message.

CONFIDENT HE WILL HELP

PLAN TO ATTEND HOUSE HEARINGS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National American Woman's Suffrage association, struck the keynote of the forty-fifth annual convention being held in Washington, "A suffrage amendment to the constitution of the United States during the sixty-third congress," in her opening speech at the Columbia theater massmeeting this afternoon.

The plea for immediate action on the amendment was repeated by each speaker, and finally when Dr. Shaw asked for a unanimous vote on a set of resolutions read from the platform by Senator Helen Ring Robinson from Colorado the crowded theater responded with only one dissenting voice.

What Resolution Calls For.

Following are the resolutions:

Resolved, That this meeting of the forty-fifth convention of the National Woman's Suffrage association calls upon the president of the United States in his forthcoming message to congress to adopt the woman's suffrage constitutional amendment as an administrative measure and urge congress to take immediate and favorable action upon it; and

Resolved, That the meeting calls upon the United States senate to act favorably on the woman's suffrage constitutional amendment now before it; be it further

Resolved, That the meeting urge the rules committee of the house of representatives to report favorably on the resolution creating a standing committee on woman's suffrage in the house.

Hope in National Congress.

"The path of the suffragists in the United States has been marked by anxiety," Dr. Shaw said. "It has changed to a path of great hope, from the summit of which we can see the promised land, the national congress. Deliverance is to come to us through the national congress with the aid of the president of the United States, a man who has been able to distinguish the new freedom. Democrats are beginning to understand real democracy.

"We are looking at victory; the enlightenment has come, and this enlightenment must now be converted into action, the government's action on the suffrage amendment. The granting of the franchise to women is the next orderly step in democratic evolution. No body is so representative as this body, for it does not distinguish between sex, class, nor color."

Change in Political Presentment.

"We are on the eve of a new change in the presentment of politics," Miss Jane Addams declared in her address. "Just as there has been a change in the attitude of the political economists, philanthropists, criminologists, and leaders of education, there has now come a change in politics.

"The voter has been regarded merely as a unit in a political party; his loyalty to certain emblems, to marches, national music, and to certain other means employed by politicians to rouse his patriotism have been relied upon in the past. Now that is changing. The voter is being regarded as a human being, his wants and needs are considered, his condition considered.

"Let us take, for an example of this new idea, the government investigation, which cost three-fourths of a million dollars, of the condition of the immigrant; the half million dollars spent in studying the conditions of the women in industry. The government is getting at the facts of life, and this new development is called social sympathy. It can be translated into political action, and in the new idea of government the women will naturally take part. The movement cannot possibly go on without them.

Foreign Countries Take Lead.

"In looking over the history of suffrage in various countries we find it a subject for discussion in moments of high hope, at times when human life is regarded from the basic side.

"In the pioneer countries, Australia and the seven great western states of our own country, where women have borne their full share of the burden of pioneer life, and where the men have not had a chance to grow too sophisticated, the women have been given the vote.

"During moments of revolution women are always included, and at times when there are such wretched social conditions that the women are forced to take a part, in the betterment of food, tenements, streets, or for the protection of women and children, the woman has an equal share. There are some women working in New York and Chicago that nothing shall stop in their unremitting struggle for an amendment to the constitution giving them the suffrage."

Leaders of Women Workers Speak.

Miss Mary Anderson of Illinois, a member of the National Boot and Shoe Workers' union, said that the women would not have had any trouble in securing their ten hour law in the state at Springfield last spring had they been able to bring direct influence to bear upon the legislature, the partial franchise which has since been given to the women.

WOMEN BID STATE MAIL EGGS HERE

WILL TELL HOW TO SHIP.

Mrs. John C. Bley of Chicago, president of the Clean Food club, yesterday issued a call to the 300,000 members of woman clubs throughout Illinois for cooperation and assistance in a plan to eliminate men from the state egg markets.

The call is the first step in an effort to bring the housewives of both city and farm together into an organization for the direct marketing of fresh eggs chiefly by means of the parcel post. The women are determined to cut out the commission firms responsible, it is said, for the prevailing high prices of eggs.

1,500 Women in Boycott.

Mrs. Bley is one of Chicago's original campaigners for "32 cents a dozen eggs or none." Already 1,500 Chicago women have enlisted in a boycott which has brought overtures from the Chicago butter and egg board. The activities of the women also have brought the attention of the government to present high prices.

The woman residents of the towns and villages of Illinois will be a necessary factor in the proposed state cooperative combination. Mrs. Bley already has received assurances that some of them are anxious to help the women of Chicago in their fight on the commission firms. The appeal for their assistance is being made through the various woman's clubs, which are strong and influential in almost every locality.

Mrs. Bley is certain the women of the state who do not live in cities can sell eggs at 32 cents a dozen, pay the parcel post rates out of that, and still make a big profit. The first move will be to get the address of those who produce eggs to sell.

Teach How to Ship Eggs.

"We are going to interest the responsible members of woman clubs downstate," said Mrs. Bley. "We will teach the egg producers how to handle them to prevent loss in shipments by parcel post and otherwise. We are going to enlist the women of the city clubs and instruct them how to get eggs from the country, how to prepare eggs cheaply for the table, and how to take care of them after they have bought them. We are going to the bottom of every phase of the egg question.

"Women sell eggs and buy them. Between the sellers and the buyers there is a lot of unnecessary juggling on the part of the men.

"The campaign will prove of great value in developing the brains of women. Most women have got into the groove of serving eggs for breakfast every morning. They don't know what else to prepare. The boycott will develop their culinary ingenuity and thereby set their brain cells to working where they have performed through habit before. The boycott on eggs will force women to devise new breakfast menus—ones which do not require eggs.

Farmers Get 18½ Cents.

"We have investigated the problem thoroughly already, but we have not arrived at the complete solution. We have found at the present time the farmers are getting about 18½ cents a dozen for eggs. We know it costs 1 cent a dozen for six months for storage. That would be 30 cents for six months for a case of eggs holding thirty dozen. We have arrived at 32 cents as the fair price for eggs to retail. We shall maintain the boycott on eggs from city firms until they are brought down to that figure. Our price allows for a fair commission to wholesalers, the railroad companies, storage men, and retailers. Meanwhile we will get eggs from the country.

"The boycott and campaign should prove of great interest to women all over the country. Forty and 45 cents for a dozen eggs in Chicago at this time of the year is absurd and ridiculous. I certainly am glad the department of justice is to carry on an investigation. We certainly need it."

PRAISE FOR MRS. BLEY.

New York, Nov. 30.—[Special.]—Mrs. Julian Heath, president of the National Housewives' league, sent the following telegram to Mrs. John C. Bley, executive director of the league in Chicago, tonight in response to a message from Mrs. Bley that women in Chicago and vicinity have joined in the countrywide egg boycott:

"Happy congratulations to you and the women of Chicago, particularly the Woman's club. All members of the league well in line; nonmembers joining crusade daily. All will join when the situation is understood.

"We must not retrench locally until national victory is assured. We are holding the main points well, and Chicago is doing great work."

Mrs. Heath said the crusade in New York is progressing rapidly and that cheaper eggs practically are assured. As fast as conditions are understood by housewives generally, she explained, they join in the boycott promising to stand by the league until the prices for both storage and fresh eggs are reduced.

AUTO JUMPS WALL; DROPS INTO LAKE

MR. BARLEYCORN ALONG?

John McLaughlin of 309 South Halsted street, a chauffeur for the Universal Motor livery, was driving along Sheridan road late last night. Down Grace street came a big limousine. McLaughlin checked his car barely in time to avert a collision.

The limousine whizzed in front of him, turned south, and then zigzagged across Sheridan road, through a light guard chain, over the parapet at the lake shore, and over a fifteen foot drop into the lake.

McLaughlin left his car and ran to the brink. In the water, six feet deep at that point, the limousine lay on its side. Perched on the top was the chauffeur, lustily yelling for help. McLaughlin ran back to his car and found a rope, which he slung over the wrecked car.

"Going to pull me up?" bawled the other.

"Catch hold, you rummy!" cried McLaughlin.

Hauls Chauffeur from Lake.

McLaughlin induced him to tie the rope around himself instead and hauled him out. Then he turned him over to the police. Eventually they identified him as J. H. Gallagher of 401 West Oak street.

There was no one with him at the time of the accident except a man generally known as John Barleycorn, the police surmised. This suspicion is shared by Mrs. Gallagher, to whom her spouse was restored, wet and shivering, but otherwise unhurt.

When interviewed he was seated in the kitchen, lightly clad, demolishing the relics of a Thanksgiving turkey and happy at the interruption. The stern expression of Mrs. Gallagher's face indicated why he was happy to have a new subject for discussion. He started to explain.

"Wouldn't Believe Him," Wife Says.

"Don't mind him," Mrs. Gallagher said. "He can't talk when he's eatin', an' if he could talk I wouldn't believe him. I have a few words to say to him alone."

Gallagher looked pleadingly, but he was left.

Meanwhile the police, suspecting there might have been some one else in the car, had called for fire department apparatus, and one of the firemen dived into the cold water and explored the interior of the limousine and the water nearby, but no trace of a body was found. At a late hour they were still trying to rescue the car.

The Maxwell street police are looking for the driver of a car which struck Edward Cleary of 1422 West Fourteenth street a short distance from his residence. Pedestrians saw some one in the car lean out and peer at Cleary lying in the street, then duck back and put on full speed. The license number could not be deciphered. Cleary was taken to the county hospital. He has several scalp wounds.

CANCER 'CURE' LED TO WOMAN'S DEATH? JURY ASKS INQUIRY

FUNERAL WILL BE DELAYED

Body to Be Subject of Post-Mortem Today to Determine Cause of Embolus.

PROSECUTOR READY FOR ACTION

Mrs. Jacob Mey, wife of a farmer living near Lisle, Du Page county, died on Friday at her residence. The woman had been receiving treatments at Freeman's Cancer institute at Moline, Ill. The treatments consisted of the application of a powerful salve to a cancerous growth, by which it is charged that Dr. Freeman represented the growth would be eliminated.

On Saturday Coroner W. V. Hopf of Du Page county ordered an inquest. After hearing the evidence of the woman's husband, who had paid $100 for her treatments at the institute, and the testimony of ethical physicians, who were familiar with the patient's condition before and after she took the treatment, the jury returned the following verdict:

"We the jury find that the death of Mrs. Jacob Mey of Du Page county was caused by an embolus [blood clot] on the brain. We recommend that an investigation be made by county authorities to ascertain if the embolus was caused by a caustic salve applied to reduce cancerous growth."

Funeral Will Be Delayed.

By order of State's Attorney William Hadley and the coroner and sheriff of Du Page county, the funeral of Mrs. Mey will be delayed today while a post-mortem examination is made of the woman's brain, to follow out the recommendations of the coroner's jury.

"We intend to go to the bottom of this matter," said State's Attorney Hadley last night, "and if any one is responsible for the woman's death we will try to hold them criminally responsible. I am having an analysis made of the salve which was applied on Mrs. Mey.

"I find from ethical physicians that embolism is frequently caused by the administration of this so-called salve cure for cancer. Usually the salve contained some powerful caustic—arsenic—which completely burned away the cancerous growth.

Declares Treatment Obsolete.

"Medical authorities, I find, have abandoned the arsenic salve treatment, which has been obsolete for twenty years. The reason for its abandonment was the great danger of death by embolism. As the salve burns in the tissue becomes painfully inflamed and the blood coagulates around the region.

"When one of the blood clots is taken through a vein to the heart and from there through an artery to the brain, death results from embolism. The blood clot or embolus, resting on the brain brings on paralysis and quick death. All the physicians who examined the body and learned the history of the woman's case traced her death to this cause.

"By a post-mortem examination of the brain we hope to ascertain this beyond any doubt. We will then take up the possible criminal liability of anyone who would administer such a dangerous treatment, in view of the present medical knowledge."

Doctor Tells of Case.

Dr. M. L. Puffer, who attended Mrs. Mey before she placed confidence of a cure in Freeman's institute, testified at the inquest. He is a practitioner at Lisle. In an interview with THE TRIBUNE he said:

"About three months ago Mr. Mey brought his wife to my office. She was so weak she had to be carried almost. I found her to be suffering from carcimona of the left breast. She was too weak to undergo an operation at that time. I built her up with a tonic. Her strength increased so that she could go about her house. The cancer was such that it could easily be removed by either an operation or the X ray treatment.

"About six weeks ago I met Mr. Mey on the street and he told me his wife feared an operation and that they were going to the Freeman Cancer Institute for treatment. I told Mr. Mey at that time that his wife would never be able to stand the salve treatment; that it was not a cure for cancer and that it probably would kill her.

Calls Coroner for Investigation.

"That was the last I heard from them until last Friday, when Mr. Mey telephoned me that his wife was very ill. I jumped into an automobile and reached their house in twenty minutes. She was dead. I immediately called the coroner, as I believe the woman's death is a proper subject for official investigation.

"From the suddenness of the woman's death, and from the hundreds of cases of death following the arsenic salve treatment, I believe that Mrs. Mey's death was caused by embolism. An embolus broke off from the crust left by the burning salve. It entered the circulation, went to the brain, and killed her.

Salve Long Discarded.

"All reputable physicians have discarded the discredited salve cure for the last twenty years, on account of its dangers and also its absolute inefficiency. It is only used on rare occasions in cases of epithelial cancer—that is, cancer of the skin—where there is no danger of particles entering the circulation.

"The dangerous and obsolete use of this painful burning method has been adopted by practitioners who rely for their patronage upon the patient's inherent fear of the knife. An expert physician in fifteen minutes can painlessly remove a cancerous growth without fear of embolism. Under the burning system it would take almost a month and the danger of death by embolism is great."

Analyzes Jar of Salve.

Dr. A. B. Conors of Wheaton will report today to State's Attorney Hadley on his analysis of the glass jar of salve and the bottle of liquid which Mrs. Mey was using before her death.

DRAWING SALVE.
Good for Cancer, Tumor, Fistulas, Gangrene, etc.
Use this salve as directed for your case.
FREEMAN'S CANCER INSTITUTE, MOLINE, ILL.

"I have not completed my analysis," Dr. Conors said at night, "but the paste undoubtedly contains arsenic. In my opinion Mrs. Mey died as many women like her have died—namely, of embolism, caused by the use of these treatments. The bottle of tonic, I believe, is nothing more than a laxative acting upon the stomach and the kidneys."

The label on the tonic bottle reads:

DR. FREEMAN'S BLOOD TONIC.
Alterative Stomachic Tonic by diuretic.
DIRECTIONS:
One tablespoonful a short time before and after meals three times a day.
Prepared for

Dr. Freeman Talks.

Dr. D. B. Freeman was reached over the long distance telephone at the institute in Moline. He said he had heard of the death of his patient, Mrs. Mey.

"If Mrs. Mey died of embolism," he said, "it may have been caused by many other things than our treatment. We have used it in over 3,000 cases. There is greater chance of embolism in cases of operation. Mrs. Mey was sent to us by some friend of hers. She did not want to be operated on. We operate or give the paste treatment either. I have not seen her since her visit here a week and a half ago. At that time she was in excellent condition."

"What is in your paste, doctor?" asked a reporter.

"It is an organic compound."

"How much arsenic is there in it?"

"There is only a trace of arsenic in it. It is mostly an organic compound."

"What is the organic compound?"

"That we are not ready to give out until we have completed our experiments with it. We have tried it in 3,000 cases. After we have completed our experiments we intend to lay it before a medical commission for investigation and use if they want it."

Inherited It from Father.

"Who invented it, doctor?"

"My father has had it for years."

"Is your father a physician?"

"No, but he employed a physician to administer it here at the institute. That was before I graduated from the University of Iowa, two years ago."

"Where did your father get it?"

"He got it from his uncle. But we have greatly improved upon it."

"Do you belong to any medical association, doctor?" was the next question.

"Not now, but I will be a member of the American Medical association at the next meeting. I can refer you here to Dr. Seizs and Dr. Ringnell, and other doctors in Rock Island."

CHICAGO WOMAN LOSES RACE; HUSBAND SUICIDE AT BOSTON.

Mrs. Robert J. Campbell Leaves to Cheer Up Mate, but Telegram Reports His Death.

Robert J. Campbell, a former employé of the Benjamin Altman department store in New York, according to a dispatch, committed suicide on Saturday in Boston while his wife was on the way from Chicago to lift him from his despondency.

The Campbells lived in Chicago at 117 East Twentieth street. Campbell said he resigned his position in the Altman store just before the death of the merchant prince and thereby lost a legacy to the old employés. The Altmans said the man would have had no claim.

Neighbors of Mrs. Campbell say she left for Boston on Friday after receiving a letter from her husband to the effect that he would have drunk himself to death by the time she received the letter.

"OLD DOC" ROGERS EULOGY SUBJECT

Tells of Himself, Then Hears Others Call Him "Noble Head."

STARTS AFTER THE CASH.

A meeting replete with masterful eulogies on Dr. L. D. Rogers by Dr. L. D. Rogers himself and several of Dr. L. D. Rogers' friends took place yesterday afternoon at Dr. L. D. Rogers' National Emergency and Maternity hospital and Dr. L. D. Rogers' National Medical university, all located at 1428 Wells street.

Besides one baby, there gathered in the hospital the ten students of the alleged university, one nurse, a stenographer, ten or twelve other persons, occupation unknown, and a reporter for THE TRIBUNE. The purpose, according to an announcement addressed to Dr. Rogers' "loyal friends," was to organize an aid society to solicit funds from the public to purchase ground on which to build Dr. Rogers a hospital to take the place of the one just closed by the health department for violation of the health ordinances.

Praise the "Noble Head."

The aid society was organized and speeches were made by persons, selected by Dr. Rogers, who told of the "wonderful" good and the "big heart" of the "noble head" (noble head being Dr. L. D. Rogers).

The president of the aid society is the Rev. C. W. Johnson, who says he is a minister of the Christian denomination, being at present unattached. Mrs. I. D. O'Bienre was selected as vice president, although she was not at the meeting. Dr. A. J. McCullough, house physician of the closed hospital, was named as secretary, and Paul Francis Compart, friend of Lyman Rogers, son of Dr. L. D. Rogers and a sort of legal representative of the doctor, was selected as treasurer.

After that ordeal was over Dr. Rogers announced that out of the audience of twenty-five he would be pleased to hear from those interested. A slender person who gave his name as the Rev. Claude O. Booth, member of the Baptist denomination, also unattached, arose and told the audience about Dr. Rogers and his work.

Will Build It on Prayer?

"The new hospital which we want to build," he said, "must be built on prayer. Dr. Rogers, I understand, is a noble man, and has done a noble work as the noble head of this hospital."

A woman who gave her name as Dr. Margaret C. Johnson volunteered information that the witnesses for the health department lied when they testified to the insanitary conditions of Rogers' hospital. The jury, however, found Rogers guilty of operating without a license.

J. B. Devoney, president of the International Savings bank, was present, and said his bank would handle all the money which solicitors collected for a new hospital.

"We intend to send out thirty-six teams," Dr. Rogers said, "to ask aid in all parts of the city. We have a work to do and the people will be with us."

The meeting closed with prayer by the Rev. Booth.

OSTENSORIUM DEDICATED FOR BLESSINGS OF ST. RITA

Catholic Church Named After Saint Has Relic of Great Value Through Gratitude of Parishioners.

Gratitude to St. Rita was responsible for an ostensorium dedicated yesterday by the Rev. J. F. Green, pastor of St. Rita's Catholic church. Its intrinsic value, aside from its sentimental value, is such that Father Green says the mass of gold, silver, and jewels must be kept in a safety deposit value through the week and exhibited only on Sundays.

Going to make up the beautifully wrought example of the smith's and jeweler's art were 300 wedding rings given by widows.

"There was a chest of such tokens," Father Green said. "Notice the small cross at the top. It was given by a young woman in Indiana whose sister came here to be healed through the prayers of St. Rita. The girl can trace its history back eighty years. She gave in gratitude to St. Rita. It was her most precious treasure."

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT LOSES VALUABLE JEWELS TO THIEVES.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Scotland Yard announced today that valuable property, including the insignia of the Order of the Garter, was stolen recently from the Duke of Connaught, uncle of the king and governor general of Canada.

The duke is at present in Canada and it is not stated from which of his residences the jewels were stolen. He has a country place, Bagshot Park, Surrey, and a town residence, Clarence House, St. James.

The list of jewels missing, which has been published, includes the Garter, of dark blue velvet edged with gold, bearing the motto "Honi Soit Qui Mal y Pense" in gold and a buckle and pendant of chased gold; the ducal crown in white enamel and gold, two gold watches, four diamond pins, one of which is a garter pin with the duke's initials A. W. in diamonds, and three pairs of sleeve links.

SLEUTHS OPEN THEATER DOOR; SWISH—A BARREL OF WATER.

Detectives Who Respond to Knock at Emergency Exit Give Chase to Boys and Arrest Seven.

Everything was tense in a moving picture house at 343 East Fifty-fifth street about 10 o'clock last night. Only the whirr of the rapid-running film broke the silence.

Suddenly a series of knocks came on a side door, used as an emergency exit. Detectives James Wolf and W. O'Brien stood up. The others kept their seats, abandoned the pictures and watched the sleuths. They crept quietly to the door. They opened it.

Swish! Down on their heads came a barrel of water. Then came the barrel.

Pearl Waite, who says she ran away with A. H. Harding on his promise to marry her and then lost not only Harding, but $18 and a ring, set out a week ago to find him. She is 18 years old. She led the police last night in a raid on 1401 La Salle avenue, where Harding was arrested. He is charged with larceny by the girl, who was a telephone operator at the Drexel Arms hotel when he met her, and also is charged with defrauding the Saratoga hotel, where they lived together for a week.

BATTEN UP MINE TO KILL OUTLAW

RELY ON DEADLY GASES.

Bodies of Two of His Six Victims Are Recovered from Shaft by Posse.

Bingham, Utah, Nov. 30.—While Ralph Lopez, slayer of six men, was attempting to batter down a bulkhead at the entrance of the Darnell tunnel in the Utah-Apex mine today, a posse penetrated the Andy incline and brought out the bodies of Deputy Sheriffs Douglass Halsey and Tom Mandrich, the victims of the desperado's aim in a subterranean battle yesterday.

Outwitted a dozen times since Lopez began his career of bloodshed on Nov. 21, the sheriffs of seven counties today decided to batten up the mine and attempt to asphyxiate the fugitive with poisonous gases. Accordingly, all the fifteen exits except that to the Andy tunnel were stopped with bulkheads.

However, the generation of the gases was delayed by the failure to recover the bodies of the two deputies. But with this accomplished, it was expected the plan would be carried out.

It was reported today that Mike Cranovich, who shot his wife five times and seriously wounded her, several days ago, also was at bay in the mine and was coöperating with Lopez.

Lopez's bullets so far have made four widows and fifteen fatherless children.

"The Figure Was Changed for the Better"

IN our long and varied retail experience in Chicago we have never fitted a woman to one of our corsets but that "the figure was changed for the better," and the change was immediate.

Printed words afford a poor opportunity for us in attempting to describe the improved figure, when correctly fitted to a Gossard Corset.

Illustrations are more potent. In them you see the perfected figure. A fitting, however, is conclusive, and since no obligation follows a fitting, we suggest one today. Ask to see the two models shown. Both are perfectly adapted to the styles in vogue.

'PULL' EXPOSED BY SPEEDERS' JUDGE

ADVOCATES JAIL TERMS.

Proposes Law Change Making Bridewell Sentences Compulsory for Drunken Drivers.

"In this court, strange as it may seem, dealing not with down and outs, but with respectability, and often wealth, the element of pull was the first defense offered."

That is Municipal Judge Fry's summary of the principal obstacle to justice offered in the Speeders' court, over which he completed last night his first full year. In celebration of the event he made a detailed report of the twelvemonth—the longest tenure of the Automobile court assignment yet recorded.

Judge Fry confesses he would like to leave that court and take up other branches of judicial labor, but says he expects to fill out another week of service.

Advocates Jail Sentences.

The report for the fiscal year, which begins today, indicates one signal accomplishment of his administration—the elimination of "pull." It also contains important recommendations. Principal of these is the suggestion that punishment for speeding be not limited to fines, but that the judge be empowered to assess a fine, fix a bridewell sentence, or use both punitive measures as reminder to the persistent speeder. That, says Judge Fry, is the only solution to the speeding problem.

He also recommends compulsory sentencing of the drunken chauffeur to the bridewell. Also he points out that owners of motor vehicles are not compelled to take examinations and obtain licenses, and recommends that this remedy be instituted. All this is in line with a program for greater public safety.

Uniform, he says, was the admission of every defendant that twenty-five miles an hour is too fast for safety in city travel. Accordingly he recommends that this limit be placed on country travel, twenty miles for outlying districts, fifteen for closely built residence districts, and ten for business streets.

Tells of Use of "Pull."

But special stress is laid on the difficulties thrown in the way of the court in the shape of pull, principally demonstrated by the desire of the state's attorney and the city prosecutor to nolle pros suits. To it Judge Fry devotes a big part of his report.

"It has been a trying court and one shunned by judges," he says. "For three months after Dec. 2, 1912, I occupied a chambers unbeknown to the public on another floor, and when the clerks had the sheets ready the bailiff telephoned me and I went direct to the bench. I am happy to say that this condition has changed, and for the last six months there were practically no efforts to see the judge.

"Lest a misconstruction be placed on this element of pull, let it be understood that politicians and officials were the least offenders, and they were the first to advise their friends that there was a bar against intercession. It was plain, everyday friend, father, mother, or brother who came with tales calculated to minimize penalties.

Hits Prosecuting Officers.

"At the outset of the year's work I found another element of pull operated through the prosecuting officers, in the nature of nolle prosequis and nonsuits. These two avenues of favoritism had been used by influential violators of speed laws since the establishment of the Municipal court. The present state's attorney and city prosecutor were only following a well beaten path. It was humiliating to have this species of favoritism shown, and other defendants in court on several occasions declared it was favoritism.

"Believing the court had an inherent power to prevent abuses of this character, I announced on March 28, 1913, that thereafter the court would entertain no motions to nolle. More than eighty speeding cases had been dismissed by nolle from Dec. 2, 1912, up to March 28, 1913. My investigations showed that the prosecuting officials had not in a single case interviewed the police officer who made the arrest before dismissal. The announcement made March 28, 1913, has been strictly adhered to, and since that date there has not been a single nolle or nonsuit in speeding cases.

"Another species of favoritism was the frequent cases dismissed for want of prosecution. That practice was discontinued soon after Dec. 2. Every case thereafter was tried.

"Auto Public Travels Too Fast."

"Chicago's automobile public is traveling too fast; the fast pace is the pace that kills and injures. A compilation of the 1,527 speeder cases tried in June, July, and August, 1913—and I believe the same ratios would follow on an analysis of the 4,976 cases tried in the year—shows the number of cases brought in and the rates of speed charged:

| Miles per hour. | Number of cases. | Miles per hour. | Number of cases. |
| 20 | 4 | 36 | 11 |
| 21 | 1 | 37 | 7 |
| 22 | 6 | 38 | 8 |
| 23 | 4 | 39 | 2 |
| 24 | 12 | 40 | 8 |
| 25 | 404 | 41 | 2 |
| 26 | 271 | 42 | 5 |
| 27 | 246 | 43 | 2 |
| 28 | 178 | 44 | 2 |
| 29 | 89 | 45 | 4 |
| 30 | 113 | 46 | 3 |
| 31 | 36 | 47 | 1 |
| 32 | 35 | 48 | 3 |
| 33 | 22 | 49 | 1 |
| 34 | 17 | 50 | 1 |

Growth of Auto Trade Shown.

The report shows the extraordinary growth of the automobile business, with 13,000 chauffeurs licensed in 1913, against 8,000 last year, and while 20,285 automobiles paid wheel taxes last year, 25,509 already have been paid in the seven months since the tax went into effect last May. Accordingly Judge Fry does not see reason for grave alarm over the increase in fatalities within the city limits, exclusive of park property, from 54 to 61. There were 4,976 arrests for speeding, or close to 14 a day.

The privilege of allowing violators to sign their own bonds was seldom abused, there being fewer than 70 forfeited out of 12,897. The fining system added $86,091 to the city funds.

It is also noteworthy that the card index system has discouraged violators from respecting their performance. For example, in October there were 285 first offenders, 36 who were making their second appearance, and only five who had been there twice before. One had offended on three previous occasions.

Opium User Shoots Man.

Viola Smax, a negress said to have been under the influence of opium, shot through a door at a negro man attempting to enter a flat where she lived, at 1207 South State street, last night, and wounded him in the abdomen. The two were locked up and an opium outfit confiscated. The man is Eugene Newman of 14 West Forty-seventh street.

Mrs. Bishop's Assorted Family of Orphans As It May Be.

Mrs. L. Brackett Bishop will begin the accumulation of her international family as soon as she returns from Washington, D. C., this week. She is at present attending the national equal suffrage congress at the capital, and during her stay will lay before the suffragists her plan to adopt fifteen babies representing as many races and nationalities.

Mr. Bishop, who is in sympathy with his wife's plan, yesterday said the principal idea of the international family is to attempt to break down the race and color barriers now existing between peoples.

The Bishops contemplate an early abandonment of their apartments in the Chicago Beach hotel and removal to a country estate large enough to house the children.

BISHOP SAYS WORLD SUFFERS FROM EPIDEMIC OF IMPURITY.

The Rt. Rev. A. J. McGavick Deplores Ragtime Steps and Teaching of Sex Hygiene in Public Schools.

Eugenics, the tango, sex hygiene in the schools, and other present day "fads" were condemned by the Rt. Rev. A. J. McGavick, titular bishop of Chicago, speaking at the Church of Holy Angels, 605 Oakwood boulevard.

"There is an epidemic of impurity," he said, "which has grown and spread in the last few years. It is evident in the so-called attempt to teach purity to our children in the schools.

"This epidemic is shown particularly in the modern dances—dances which are mere imitations of the animals. They have descended to that—to the animal and to worse. The special dance over which the world seems to have gone mad is a dance of sin. It comes from the haunts of sin and the houses of infamy. Its history is a history of sin. And yet parents send their children to schools to learn this dance.

"Young girls, gayly decked, with smiling faces, rush out from their homes, from their fathers and mothers to engage in this dance of sin. Shame on you! Shame on you young girls who dance this dance! Shame on you, parents who teach it to your children, or allow them to engage in it!"

HYMAN'S MISSING $4,700 GEMS STILL MYSTERY TO POLICE.

Victim of Alleged Robbery Refuses to See Reporters—Sergeant Expects Jewelry to "Show Up."

T. J. Hyman, secretary of the Illinois Steel company, who told the police that $4,700 in gems had been stole from the safe in his office, but to reporters denied any robbery, has heard nothing further of the missing gems. At least he would say nothing yesterday on that subject, and intimated that reporters generally were distasteful to him.

After being denied admittance to his residence a reporter called on the telephone. A woman answered. Yes, Mr. Hyman was there, but he would not talk to newspaper men.

"Was there any insurance on the jewels?" the reporter asked. There was nothing to say at the other end.

William Morgan, detective sergeant, declared there was nothing in the way of clews. He said he didn't think Francis G. Porter, son-in-law of Hyman, knew anything of the affair.

"They'll turn up in a few days," said Morgan.

A man in Porter's room at the Congress hotel said Porter was not in, and would give no information as to when he would return. Attaches of the hotel said Mr. Porter was in his room.

AURORA HAS PURITAN SUNDAY WITH EXCEPTION OF MOVIES.

First Blue Law Sabbath Quiet, Though Police Wink at Violations by Picture Houses.

Aurora, Ill., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—Except for a chosen few it was a crime to work today in Aurora, a new blue law ordinance going into effect. Restaurant keepers, street car crews, and owners of confectionery stores were allowed to pursue their vocations. The moving picture theaters were open, but not by permission. The ordinance was passed at the request of Aurora barbers, the majority of whom wanted to close on Sunday but could not persuade a remaining few to their way of thinking.

The measure makes it possible for persons with grievances to cause the arrest of their enemies by swearing out warrants against them. Carrying out ashes technically would be a violation of the new ordinance.

MORGAN PARK HAS 'GOTOCHURCHDAY'

Result Is an Increase of 45 Per Cent in the Morning Attendance.

ALL INVITED IN PERSON.

Rain Interferes with Plan, but "Fair Weather Crowd" Responds at Night.

Yesterday was "go to church day" in Morgan Park.

The result was an increase of 45 per cent in the morning attendance, and in the evening "fair weather" congregations were on hand, despite the rain.

Leaders in the plan, in which eight churches were interested, said if it had not been for the bad weather the innovation would have proved even more successful.

Invitations Given Personally.

"We aimed to invite every person in Morgan Park personally," said E. R. Alderson, chairman of the committee in charge. The result shows how successful we were. The committee of forty men went out two by two on Saturday afternoon, and before church this morning, stopping at each house. We told families of the movement and invited them to help make 'go to church day' a success.

"'I would go to church today if I had to crawl there on my knees,' said one old woman. This was the spirit that pervaded the community. All received us pleasantly when we gave the invitations, and promised to come if they possibly could."

Grew Out of Religious Census.

The plan of having a "go to church day" grew out of a religious census taken on Oct. 12. Every family was visited and a record was made of the preferences of individuals as to their church affiliations.

It took five weeks to tabulate the results. Then it was found that there were many families with no church preference, others who were members of some of the denominations represented, but were not connected with any individual church in Morgan Park. This gave the incentive for the plan. Today showed the outcome.

The pastor of the Roman Catholic church cooperated with the Protestant pastors and shared in the results. There were 1,460 in attendance at the morning service in the Protestant churches. The Roman Catholic church reported a large increase, but did not give figures.

Churches in the Plan.

Baptist—The Rev. W. B. Behan; A. MacArthur, committeeman.

'LOVE GOAT' FACES NEW SUIT

Chauncey C. Foster Draws Wrath of Girl's Father.

WILL CONTEST ANY ACTION.

Medium Declares Relations with "Patient" Were Proper.

Chauncey C. Foster, a mental healer who has been disowned by the Christian Science church and who is known to the public as Mrs. Maude W. Charter's "love goat," says he won't be made any kind of a "goat" again.

He has received intimations from relatives of a former patient of his, a Miss Eunice Eloise Southwell, that they intend to bring a damage suit against him, making charges as sensational as those in the Charter case.

In the Charter case Mr. Foster testified he had paid "alimony" of $3,500 to James A. Charter and had agreed to pay Mrs. Charter $100 a month if the details of his "treatment" of her were not made public.

Girl Enamored of "Doctor"?

Miss Southwell, when she came to Chicago from Thomas, Okla., was only 15 years old. Her brother-in-law, Harry F. Rech of 615 East Fiftieth street, says she became enamoured of the "doctor" and insisted on a continuance of the treatments for almost four years.

Her mother supported her wishes. Her father, C. T. Southwell, a prosperous ranch owner, stopped payments last July. Then, according to Rech, there was a split in the family, three of the children siding with the mother, the rest with the father. A suit for separate maintenance, it is understood, was begun by Mrs. Southwell.

"They are an envious, treacherous, intolerant, ignorant, slanderous—I could go on all night," said Foster when a reporter asked him about the girl.

Tired of Being the "Goat."

"But I learned something from that other case. I won't be made a 'goat.' I won't pay anybody a nickel. They can't 'shake me down' for any more. I wouldn't have paid Charter a cent if I had known what I do now.

"Nothing will come out of this—absolutely nothing."

SWAN
The Gift PEN of Quality

This Pen $3.50

A "SWAN" Pen is the gift with which to delight your friends and relatives Christmas morning. It breathes the true Christmas spirit, for it is a gift of beauty and utility. Beauty of design and symmetry of contour do not measure the merit of "SWAN" pens. These intangible qualities are full measure, pressed down and running over. The "SWAN" claims merit because it fits your hand snugly, writes instantly, will not leak or blot; because it is fitted with the justly famous "Ladder Feed" and with the best gold pen made.

CARRANZA FACES TRIALS OF MADERO

Discontent Among Mexicans Handicaps Constitutional Government.

MANY REBELS INSINCERE.

Northern Chief Will Have Hands Tied if He Succeeds in Ousting Huerta.

mained until he was allowed to escape a short time prior to Madero's downfall. He went to El Paso, where he was entertained and made much of by the Maderistas. On Madero's death he crossed the border and took the field against Huerta.

He has large sums of money stowed away, the result of many successful raids. While fighting in the original Madero revolution he sacked Parral after capturing it. His soldiers took, among pretty much everything else, a large supply of American hats and shoes, which they afterward were selling for 50 cents Mexican apiece for the hats and a pair for the shoes.

Conflicting stories are told concerning Villa's actions after the recent capture of Torreon. The terror excited by his name among the Spaniards and Mexicans was so great that some of them, leaving with the routed federal garrison, came away in such a hurry they left their families behind.

Levied on Bank Deposits.

The truth seems to be that, while the rebels carried out their customary executions and destruction of the property of their most active enemies, Villa, on the whole, maintained very good order. He, of course, levied a forced loan.

The story is that he put some of his men who had formerly been employed in banks to work on the books of the Torreon banks and then levied a pro rata contribution, according to what the bank books showed the holdings of various individuals to be.

That Villa is the most energetic and most pugnacious of the rebel leaders there can be no doubt. There is as little doubt that he will not submit to any too much control nor abandon a line of action which benefits him most for one which would benefit the revolution as a whole more.

This difficulty of obtaining united action is one which continually confronts Carranza. Each rebel chief wants to operate in his own locality and is not at all disposed to join in any general movement which takes him out of it.

Want to Fight Locally.

The Sonora rebels want to stay in Sonora. Villa prefers Chihuahua and Durango, and so it is with all of them. In the recent attack on Monterey by Jesus Carranza and Pablo Gonzales with Nuevo Leon rebels they expected and undoubtedly asked for aid from Lucio Blanco with his rebels from Matamoras and vicinity.

He neither came nor sent any help. He has been too busy dividing up some of the big estates in his vicinity, among others one belonging to Felix Diaz. In the same manner throughout the Monterey attack the rebels were sure that another rebel force was attacking Saltillo. None was, however, with the result that the federal troops there instead of having their hands full defending Saltillo, were able to send 3,500 infantry, 1,500 cavalry, and a number of field guns to the relief of Monterey.

Had Saltillo been attacked and had Blanco joined in the attack on Monterey the latter city would have been easily captured. Then the united forces could have finished off Saltillo, only sixty miles away, with the result that all of northern Mexico with the exception of Juarez and the city of Chihuahua would have been in their hands. Such a blow would be a hard one for the Huerta government to withstand.

No Control Over Small Bands.

Besides the difficulty of getting the larger forces to cooperate is the still greater one of getting the small bands all over the republic to unite in larger forces.

Most of these prefer to remain as they are, keeping out of the way of the large federal forces, attacking small parties, destroying culverts, bridges, and the rolling stock of the railways, and generally looting and robbing as well.

As is to be expected, the discipline in the larger rebel commands is poor. Men and officers gather around the leaders and offer suggestions when conferences are going on. There is no real order in their camps, the men settling down pretty much as they please. Such a thing as a few dead horses lying around bothers nobody.

Having no real supply departments, the question of food and other supplies for the men and horses is a serious one. This is further complicated by the fact that northern Mexico consists of immense tracts of country with few towns and widely scattered ranch houses.

Split Into Small Bands.

Unless in possession of a large town these conditions frequently compel the rebels to split up into small parties to live. This, of course, makes neither for discipline nor unity of purpose. This living off the country and necessity to seize supplies in towns gives every rascal in the country and the mob in the city the opportunity to do as they please while claiming to be rebels. Needless to say, they are not slow to take advantage of the opportunities offered.

The rebel force which entered Topo Chico the day before the attack on Monterey maintained excellent order. All intoxicating liquor was destroyed. They offered pay for all food supplies taken. The next night in Monterey, while the rebels as a whole behaved well, there were many of them who were drunk and assisted the mob in its looting.

Carranza's position, with the best of intentions on his part, is an extremely difficult one. If he succeeds in overthrowing Huerta and obtaining possession of Mexico City, he will be confronted with the same difficulties which, due to Madero's inability to settle, led to his downfall.

These conditions follow:

1. An upper class absolutely opposed to him and his ideas.
2. A middle class in many cases opposed, in too many cases indifferent.
3. A lower class, all ignorant, many indifferent, and the balance eager and insistent for the immediate righting of their wrongs, something which in most cases can only be done in a very long period of time.
4. A large number of Mexicans and foreigners eager to do anything to prevent the annulment of concessions obtained under the Huerta government. Carranza has announced he will bring about such annulment and execute any congressman who has dared vote to approve these concessions.
5. People like Zapata, the men under him, and thousands of other rebels who have no desire to quit the profitable and disorderly lives which they are now leading.

TWO SESSIONS OF CONGRESS BLENDED INTO SINGLE ONE.

Interest Generally Surrounding Opening Will Be Lacking—Status of Legislation Unchanged.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—The interest usually surrounding the opening of a new session of congress will be absent from the events of tomorrow.

While the first session of the Sixty-third congress will end at noon and the second session will be ushered in by formal proclamation of the vice president and the speaker of the house, the status of legislation will be little different from what it was when senate and house adjourned Saturday afternoon.

President Wilson will appear before the house at 1 o'clock Tuesday to read his annual message at a joint session in the house chamber. Aside from this formality and the presentation in the house tomorrow of the annual estimates for federal expenditures, the first days of the new session will be scarcely distinguishable from the closing days of the old.

For the first time in many years congress will step over from one session to another without a break in the routine of business.

Almer Coe Eyeglass Service is founded on the simple principle that the optician is for the benefit of the people who have to wear glasses—not that people who have to wear glasses are for the benefit of the optician—that eyeglass necessities ought to be administered to, instead of exploited.

Almer Coe Eyeglass Service is devoted faithfully and conscientiously to those who need it, because for more than 28 years it has been controlled by a conviction that one who knows how to meet the optical need of the public is under a social responsibility to do so with singleness of purpose.

The Concord Gate-Leg Table

We are offering at a very low price an exact reproduction of a celebrated Old English Table—the type that was used in England and her American Colonies in the early and middle 18th Century.

They are again in great demand owing to the fact that they make an individual and smart looking living room table and can also be used as a card or breakfast room table and for many other occasional uses.

Particular attention is directed to the quaint turnings and decided oval shape of the top. Made entirely of solid mahogany, finished in Old English Antique brown. Size of top when open, 45x33, height 31 inches.

In introducing the Concord table we are continuing the Colby policy of placing on sale at special prices meritorious reproductions of historical pieces of period furniture.

The very great success of our Christy Chair, the Howard Table, the Hampton Gate-Leg Tea Table and others convinces us that the public appreciate our sincere efforts in this direction.

Uncommon Bargains in Oriental Rugs

While this sale is a semi-annual event with us, we say frankly that we have never seen more for the money—more unusual specimens at a moderate price—than we are able to offer right now.

Conditions all tend to place these rugs in your hands at prices that will be a revelation to you when you come here. The Russian conquest in Persia, causing the natives to sell their rugs before the invaders seized them, a very successful buying trip by our Mr. S. H. Nahigian, and a lower tariff—all these are factors in lowering the prices during this sale.

¶ Every rug here is a genuine Oriental, critically judged by Mr. Nahigian, and plainly marked with both regular and sale prices.

PREPARE ADVANCE ON MEXICO CITY

Villa Says Rebel Forces Will Be United After Capture of Chihuahua.

CONTROL VAST DISTRICT.

Federal Gunboats Bombard and Destroy Port of Altata, Held by Rebels.

Juarez, Mexico, Nov. 30.—Northern Mexico, embracing the states of Sonora, Chihuahua, Coahuila, Nuevo Leon, and Tamaulipas, and including the territory from the border to a line 500 miles southward, will be wholly under the authority of the rebel forces within two weeks. The forces which are fighting Huerta will then join at Guadalajara with a view of marching on to Mexico City.

Gen. Francisco Villa, the rebel leader, so announced today. This campaign, he said, contemplated not only the capture of Chihuahua city, but also the spreading of the rebel, or constitutionalist authority further south.

He is to be joined in the interior later by Gen. Carranza, the head of the revolutionary movement.

Compares Strength of Armies.

So far as the north is concerned, Villa said the campaign is between 14,500 federal troops, mostly in garrisons, and 20,300 rebels or Constitutionalists.

The approximate strength of the opposing forces in the north, as gathered from official sources by Villa, and made known by him today, is:

At Chihuahua City, 5,000 federals, commanded by Gen. Salvador Mercado.

At Monterey, Neuvo Leon, 2,000 federals.

Make Start for Chihuahua.

In preparation for the attack on Chihuahua city, 3,500 troops with sixteen machine guns and equipment, which filled three trains, had left Jaurez up to today and had reached a point fifty miles south. Villa expects to join his men within a few days and if possible to keep open train and telegraph service behind him. He said he would be in Chihuahua city within ten days. But the capture of the city, he insisted, will be only an incident of a further advance, later in conjunction with Carranza and other rebel leaders.

Villa pointed out that the only important points along the United States border not held by the rebels now are Nuevo Laredo and Piedras Negras, and that his forces already had captured every city in the north except Guaymas, Chihuahua city, Saltillo, Monclova, and Monterey.

PORT DESTROYED BY GUNBOATS.

Mexico City, Nov. 30.—The federal gunboats Tampico and Guerrero have bombarded Altata, destroying the port and expelling the rebels. The gunboats then sailed for Mazatlan to participate in a combined land and sea attack on that place.

The possible treatment of the Mexican question by President Wilson's coming message has aroused interest among the Mexican government officials, but there is notable absence of alarm because of the conviction that neither intervention nor the supplying of arms and ammunition to the rebels will be recommended.

The continuation of the financial blockade President Huerta will not regard as a vital blow to his administration, however enfeebling it may be. Anything short of these measures will be regarded with comparative complacency by Huerta, who is prepared to pursue a dogged course of resistance against his enemies, although he realizes it means indefinite warfare.

Huerta May Force Loans.

But his friends point out that although the government may be bankrupt, the provisional president is far from being without funds, and is not likely to be without money as long as private institutions and corporations possess funds.

They are of the opinion that the president will not fail, for the sake of what he considers right, to resort to forced loans. Indeed, persuasive methods have been used, and in several cases have borne marked similarity to the forced loan system.

Special taxes have been announced, which will become effective tomorrow and will net at least $17,500,000 annually to the government. It would be quite feasible, it is pointed out, to augment this amount materially by the simple method of still further increasing the taxes. No avenue which might produce funds for the government is being overlooked.

NOTES FROM FOREIGN LANDS.

LONDON.—The United States battleships Arkansas and Florida sailed on the return voyage to the United States.

SOFIA.—King Ferdinand of Bulgaria arrived from Vienna, where it is said he obtained the support of Austria, which will enable him to keep his throne.

AMSTERDAM.—Burglars entered a diamond cutting factory, murdered the overseer, and stole a box of precious stones. Two finger prints are the only clews.

LONDON.—Premier Asquith's daughter, Elizabeth, was operated on for appendicitis. Her condition is satisfactory.

Lincoln Park Lion Dead "of Grief."

Prince, the big African lion at the Lincoln Park zoo, is dead "of a broken heart." The jungle animal was buried on the hill back of the birdhouse overlooking the lake at the side of Nellie, former mate. Nellie died early last summer after having been Prince's partner for years. For weeks thereafter Prince did not eat. Cy De Vry, keeper, couldn't coax the lion with any amount of food. However, when the cold weather started in the fall the beast started to eat again. Mr. De Vry administered the last rites of the animal kingdom.

FORUM AUDIENCE DERIDES SPEAKER

PASTORS COME TO HIS AID

Radicals, Atheists, and Agnostics Question Divinity of Christ at Open Discussion.

Excitement at the free speech forum in the Grace Episcopal church at Wabash avenue and Fifteenth street last night made it necessary for the Rev. William O. Waters and others to aid Dr. Bernard Iddings Bell in maintaining order.

The theme for discussion was the "Social Messiah" and the main address was made by F. E. J. Lloyd, member of the state legislature. Despite the rain the crowd taxed the extra standing and sitting room of the large hall. Radicals, atheists, and agnostics predominated and leveled criticism at the church in nearly every impromptu speech.

Attack Religious Concepts.

Several questioned the immaculate conception and the divinity of Christ. One young man, who said he was the son of a preacher, but did not believe in "God, Christ, heaven, hell, or the devil," said nothing in profane history outside of an interpolation in Josephus substantiated the belief Christ ever lived.

Mr. Lloyd called Christ the world's greatest factor in bringing about social justice. He said divorce "uproots chivalry, encourages selfishness, mocks manhood, derides womanhood, and brutalizes children." His statement working men were happier than rich men was met with laughter.

Made to Answer Query.

Dr. Bell ruled Mr. Lloyd did not have to answer questions not pertinent to the discussion at hand. A man with a foreign accent asked:

"Was not the Episcopal church founded by the profligate King Henry VIII.?"

Dr. Bell was about to rule the question out, but Dr. Waters said:

"No, no; you must answer that question. That is a good and pertinent question."

Mr. Lloyd said the Episcopal church was founded in the Magna Charta nearly three centuries before Henry VIII. lived. Dr. Waters said the church was founded in Jerusalem.

Arthur Dale O'Neill cherished a spiritual over a material life. He had said he personally was in favor of an eight hour law for working women, when a woman arose in the rear of the room and cried:

"Women ought to have a two hour working law."

She became so aroused the audience cried, "Put her out," but she swung her umbrella until Dr. Bell made her sit down.

One man held divorce necessary because of economic conditions. A woman said marriage was "a scheme to hold those in wedlock whom God does not wished joined." One favored free love and another said the birth of Christ as recorded in the New Testament degraded woman

GIFTS TO PARIS ACTRESS DON'T WORRY CHICAGO WIFE.

Mrs. Kennett Cowan When Told of Lavish Floral Contributions by Hubby Merely Laughs.

Cable dispatches from Paris that Kennett Cowan of the brokerage firm of Kennett Cowan & Co., the Rookery, had startled the gay set with lavish presentations of flowers to a certain dancing star, did not cause any excitement at the Cowan residence at Highland Park yesterday. When told of the cabled report that her husband had presented 300 orchids to Martha Urban just before he left Paris for London last Saturday, Mrs. Cowan remarked:

"There is nothing about that to get excited about that I can see. Mr. Cowan is in Europe on a combined business and pleasure trip. He more than likely is having a good time. I certainly hope so."

When asked if she were not the least bit surprised that her husband had made such a lavish gift to the dancer, Mrs. Cowan replied with a laugh that her husband probably had had a good reason for sending the flowers.

The Latest Hudson Seal Coat Creation, $150

Read, if you please, this brief description of a fur garment altogether novel and charming in its youthful, graceful lines. The model is of such singular originality—it transcends so far the accepted style ideas of the present—that we know it will be the sensation of 1914.

No. D-2660

The fur, a soft, lustrous quality of Hudson Seal (French dyed muskrat), is fashioned with a high cutaway effect and scant 34-inch length, suggesting at first glance a short draped wrap.

Front is smartly double breasted, and fastens at extreme side with large self finished buttons. From the shoulders the supple fur droops in adorable fullness through the lower back. An exquisite contrast with the darker fur is the leopard skin collar, with a "disappearing" over-collar of Hudson Seal.

Lining is richly figured brocade of a golden tan shade. Huge kimono sleeves complete a silhouette of delicious charm and of the most advanced fashion shown this year. Priced at $150.

Our $110 Hudson Seal (seal dyed muskrat) Coat is a superb value, the merits of which cannot be duplicated elsewhere at this very low price. Made in various fashionable lengths and with the season's style features. Beauty of the garment is evident on sight—the lasting worth of fur and makeup are guaranteed by the old-established house of Shayne.

CLOISTERED IGNORANCE.

There has been no sadder prophet since Jonah than Prof. Fred N. Scott of the University of Michigan, who was pathetic, because helpless, describing for the national convention of teachers of English the "evil that comes from the newspapers."

When this academic type discloses itself, and when consideration is given to the fact that a mind so narrow is charged with the duty of broadening the horizon of young people, we almost fall into despair of the republic.

"The newspaper comes into the home every day," said Mr. Scott—to select merely one paragraph from his address. "If a man came into our homes and used vile language, talked slang and scandal, we would eject him, but the newspaper tells filthy stories and is just as bad as the bad man and is tolerated."

Into the cloistered precincts of Mr. Scott's life there should come only Walter Pater and the only window in his wall should look into a rose garden.

The fragrance of his thoughts and the serenity of his mood should never receive even the suggestion of the world without where pain and work, sin and saintliness are woven into the fabric. But Mr. Scott, in a cloister protected from inelegant diction and guarded from the crudities of life, is not a teacher. There is or ought to be something else in that term, and there ought to be in the character of the man who assumes the title restraints which would make such ill considered, untruthful statements impossible of his utterance.

THE NEW HISTORY.

The rapidity with which Gov. Gen. Harrison, acting for the Wilson administration, is making over the Philippine government machinery to the Filipinos is bringing out some pungent comment from the American press of the islands. Of this the most novel is the following from the Mindanao Herald of Oct. 11, quoted in the Army and Navy Journal of Nov. 22:

"The basis of their unfitness is physical. Intestinal parasitism and paludal fevers have sapped their vitality to an extent that will require a generation of strenuous sanitary campaigning to overcome. The Filipino harboring intestinal parasites and a malarial spleen has ample excuse for lacking initiative, and generations of this depleting influence have had their basic effect upon Filipino character."

Mindanao is a Moro province and no love is lost between the Moros and the Filipinos, a hostility which is likely to bear fruit when the Philippines have been turned over to the Philippine peoples or before.

But the comment is interesting as a rare instance of medical science at work in statecraft. Here is no assertion of inherent race superiority or inferiority, color, or religious prejudice. Perhaps the greatest contribution to historic method in the nineteenth century was the economic interpretation. Who knows but that in the twentieth we may have history rewritten with the aid of the sanitarian and bacteriologist? Enter the bacteriological interpretation of history!

Pascal wrote: "If the nose of Cleopatra had been shorter, the whole face of the earth would have been changed." An epigrammatist of the future may write: "Had the large intestine of the Filipino remained in charge of the American government the Japs could not have digested the Philippine archipelago."

TO THE ALIEN.

A little emigrant girl of 17 came out of a pastoral hill country where she had patiently undergone wholesome but fatiguing labor. She came to relatives here—thus being fortunate—and brought a little brother. The latter, being so young, caused her to be detained at Ellis island until assurance could be given that proper care was waiting the boy.

Her experiences in detention did not do the government of the United States much credit, even if they did it no positive discredit. There was, at least, in the herding of anxious newcomers an element of indifference almost suggestive of hostility, and there was bare subscription to the elemental decencies.

As a welcome it was discouraging. Possibly many an impressionable, hopeful future citizen of this country gets this disconcerting cold shoulder and bases an opinion on it not easily changed. The little girl came to Chicago with new impressions crowding in upon her mind. America, as she saw it across country and as she found it in the aggressive crowds of city streets, might easily appear as something to which she must always be alien and in which she must always be unconsidered—too small and insignificant to be accounted for.

Soon after her arrival she received a letter from Miss Grace Abbott, director of the Immigrant Protective league, asking if she had reached her destination safely; if she had been the victim of extortion at the hands of cab drivers or busmen; if she were cared for and favored by circumstance.

She was as unknowing of the league as she had a right to think herself unknown to it, but it was as if a friendly, protective hand suddenly had been reached out of the mass of people in a tremendous city and the spiritual stimulus was beyond calculation.

She was not an unconsidered alien in an indifferent land, but a person of value in that land. Luckily she did not need the practical protection which the league would have offered, but the stimulus towards citizenship was none the less valuable.

What the government officially does not see an association of citizens does, and this little incident may feebly illustrate the value of their work.

TO RESTORE CONFIDENCE.

The address of Mr. Samuel Untermyer before the Economic club of Boston is of especial interest because of the favor Mr. Untermyer is known to enjoy as an adviser of the administration. As counsel for the Pujo "money trust" committee, Mr. Untermyer laid a good deal of the basis for the financial legislative policy and, to some extent, of the whole corporation legislative policy of the administration. A consideration of the views of Mr. Louis Brandeis and of Mr. Untermyer probably would enable one roughly to outline the economic legislation to be attempted by Mr. Wilson and the party leaders acting with him.

The concrete suggestions made by Mr. Untermyer at Boston are not new, having appeared in the Pujo report, a number of which are of little consequence to the country at large and of dubious value even to the "outsiders" in Wall street. Others, such as the better protection of minority stockholders, checks upon unscrupulous reorganizations, publicity, etc., have the approval of most Americans who have given any thought to the evils of corporate management and high finance.

The significant part of Mr. Untermyer's address is his frank recognition that we are drifting, perhaps rapidly, into "hard times."

It is time for Washington to recognize this. We may talk all we please of the soundness of underlying conditions, meaning by this that the production of wealth is enormous, that business is fairly active, that enterprise is not overextended. But the fact remains that confidence is steadily weakening, capital is anxious and reluctant, uncertainty is slowly deepening rather than disappearing, and in some important directions it is not exaggeration to say that a critical point is at hand. Mr. Untermyer's assertion that a sudden and alarming cessation in business activity has taken place is not accurate. It is truer to say, perhaps, that his realization of the case is sudden or recent, and that it is alarming from the administration standpoint, at least. But if, as is hoped, Mr. Untermyer expresses the sense of the administration, it is the brightest of harbingers of danger escaped and of returning health and energy in business. His analysis of the situation is fairer than comes from most conservatives or most radicals, the former charging lack of confidence to the remedy and the latter to the disease, whereas both contribute. The emphasis, we believe, should be laid at this time not on "investigations," which only corroborate the known, but on constructive remedial measures. A quarter century of high finance has taught us the major evils which afflict us. We ought to be able now to frame laws which shall restrict the destructive license of the past, while releasing and supporting the full power of American financial and commercial genius within the field of legitimate activity at home and throughout the world.

MAYOR HARRISON'S impatience towards the dance restaurant becomes him. Evidently he thinks that the boundaries of bedlam are widening and that if the good citizens of this fair city cannot keep their feet still long enough to eat their dinners quietly it will not be long before appropriations for asylums will be enormous and appalling.

HEALTH COMMANDMENTS.

THE following is taken from the Toronto health bulletin. (Incidentally, this excellent bulletin adopts as its motto a quotation from Gladstone: "The first duty of a statesman is the care of the public health.")

"Sir James Sawyer, a well known physician, believes it is by no means a difficult matter for any human being to live to be 100 years old. He recently has declared that anybody can attain this age unless killed by accident, if he or she will religiously observe the following Commandments of Health:

"1. Eight hours' sleep every night.
"2. Sleep on your right side.
"3. Keep your bedroom window open.
"4. No cold bath in the morning, but a bath at the temperature of the body.
"5. Exercise before breakfast.
"6. Eat little meat and be sure it is well cooked.
"7. Avoid intoxicants.
"8. Allow no pet animals in your living rooms, for they carry disease germs.
"9. Live in the country if you can.
"10. Watch the three D's—Drinking water, Damp, Drains.
"11. Have change of occupation.
"12. Take frequent and short holidays.
"13. Limit your ambition.
"14. Keep your temper."

Metchnikoff tells us that some of those who have lived to be one hundred have lived proper lives and some lives that were quite improper. He sums up that the best evidence is with those who have lived Sawyer's commandments in the main.

Personally, I see no force in No. 2. I think No. 4 will not be good for young and middle aged people. The objects of cold baths are three: 1. In hot weather they help to get rid of the surplus heat. A fat man, like a carcass of beef, needs to be chilled out. 2. A short, snappy cold bath followed by a rub is exhilarating. It is as good as a cup of tea and much better than a drink of whisky.

The third object is the most important. Cold hands and cold feet and legs is a common affliction in people past middle life. It is very unpleasant. A cold-footed old age has its drawbacks. In cold feet there are two factors, heat production and heat distribution. Our warm house, warm car, warm work place routine does not make good heat makers of us. A daily warm bath—water, air, or both—trains us to be better heat makers.

The young, vigorous individual who rubs out in a glow and who then feels like a fighting rooster for a few hours will be helped by cold baths. For the afternoon of life, however, commandment 4 stands.

PSORIASIS RARELY CURED.

G. F. M. writes: "I have a skin trouble that is called psoriasis. I have had this skin trouble since I was 12 years of age. I am now 24. Will you tell me whether it can be cured? Will you tell me the best remedy to use for it? Will blood medicine do any good?"

REPLY.

Occasionally a case of psoriasis is cured. It is the exception. Occasional use of a wet pack and a well carried out toilet of a psoriasis patch are serviceable. Blood medicine does no good.

VIOLATION OF SPITTING ORDINANCE.

Constant Reader writes: I noticed in your column about enforcing the spitting ordinance. I think it is almost time that they go after these people that spit on elevated steps and public places. I get on at the Sixty-first street elevated station on the south side and it is almost impossible to step anywhere without stepping on some one's decayed lungs. I think it is high time there is something done, as it certainly is a menace to health. I know you are getting thousands of letters a day, but trust you will use your influence in this matter and see if it cannot be stopped.

REPLY.

I judge that if every objector wrote I would get thousands of letters a day. The spitters are a very small minority, yet for their misdeeds the great majority must suffer.

YOU ARE NEURASTHENIC.

Miss G. L. writes: "Would be pleased to have you answer the following questions:

"1. Does wheezing mean anything serious? This is noticeable probably three or four times during the day.

"2. When a slight cough or tendency to constantly clear throat accompanies the wheezing, would this indicate lung trouble, even though one is in good condition otherwise; that is, no fever, eats well, and feels good generally?

"3. After a hearty laugh, would nervousness due to excitement cause a white substance to come into the throat (not by coughing) and be raised easily, simply by raising the head or neck? I am told my trouble is all nervousness.

"4. Always find a pain in some part of my body and tire very easily. Is this nervousness?"

REPLY.

1. 2. No.
3. Yes.
4. You are neurasthenic.

PLAN CALLED RISKY.

Mrs. H. H. writes: "1. Is it harmful to take a warm bath and to change underwear during menstruation? 2. Have heard that doing this sometimes causes epilepsy. Is this true?"

REPLY.

1. It might do no harm, but it is risky.
2. No.

QUARANTINE RULE BROKEN.

Mrs. F. writes: "A neighbor's child has diphtheria. They have a card on the door, but the other children of the family (they have seven) play outside their own yard and mingle with other children. When the same family was quarantined last spring for scarlet fever, they did not stay on their own premises. Is not diphtheria a highly contagious disease, and is not a quarantine supposed to keep any of the family at home except the one who is at present sick? Do they quarantine for measles in Chicago?"

REPLY.

1. Diphtheria is a highly contagious disease. The quarantine keeps in all those in contact with the case as well as the case itself. It keeps out all those who do not belong in. In large, roomy places the health department sometimes gives permission for well people to live in the house with sick ones without being quarantined, if they are not in contact with the case or with any one who is.
2. Yes. The house complained of is near Seventy-ninth and Aberdeen streets.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright: 1913: By the Brentwood Company.]

"COUNT PAUL VASSILI," whose name figures as author of a book entitled "Behind the Veil at the Russian Court," had no first hand information of the matters which he professes to relate, and the comments of the reviewers on both sides of the Atlantic, to the effect that it is "evidently the work of a person with an intimate knowledge of St. Petersburg society" are altogether erroneous.

The author of the book in question, who, as admitted by the publishers, died a year or so ago, was a Russian doctor of the name of Zion [afterward transformed into "De Cyon"], who, after having played a certain rôle in Paris as one of the agents of the Russian treasury department, was dismissed by the Russian government, and deprived not only of his decorations but even of his Muscovite citizenship, and forbidden to reënter Russia.

Moreover, subsequent lack of money led him to resort to questionable devices. He was incriminated in several unsavory scandals in Paris, notably that connected with the blackmailing of the late French sugar fortune heir, Max Lebaudy, popularly known as "Le Petit Suerier."

He narrowly escaped conviction, although he suffered the indignity of arrest and prolonged detention in prison in Paris, and finally died in such complete obscurity and destitution in Paris that most of his contemporaries had forgotten his existence.

His career was an extraordinary one. As Elias Zion he was one of the most brilliant students of the St. Petersburg and Moscow universities; graduated with high honors, and, as a physician, soon distinguished himself by the production of several scientific works, which attracted a good deal of attention, both at home and abroad.

His work on "The Principles of Electrotherapy" received the $2,000 Monthyon prize of the Paris Academy of Sciences. Another work, on "Human Physiology," brought him a professorship of the St. Petersburg university.

Belying all the expectations that had been formed for him by the scholastic world of Russia, he developed, after his appointment to the professorship, into a champion of reactionary doctrines and a pronounced foe of everything in the nature of liberalism.

This ended by arousing the students to such a degree against him that his professorship became untenable, and, abandoning science in disgust, he turned to politics, became one of the lieutenants of M. Katkow, the owner of the Messenger of Moscow, which for a time was the most powerful organ in Russia, representing, as it did, Russian nationalism.

Prof. Zion went as representative of M. Katkow's paper to Paris, with the mission of his chief, to promote in every possible way an alliance between Russia and France, and was eventually able, through the tremendous influence which M. Katkow possessed with the government of Alexander III., to obtain the appointment of Russian treasury agent, to which was eventually added the titular distinction of councilor of state.

Prof. Elias Zion had meanwhile transformed his name for French purposes into Elie de Cyon, and became quite a conspicuous figure in French journalistic and political circles, being credited, thanks to his cleverness, with a great deal more power and influence on the banks of the Neva than he really possessed.

For a time he was editor in chief of the Paris Gaulois. But it lost so much money under his direction that it had to be sold. Then Mme. Juliette Adam, the founder and editor of the Nouvelle Revue, associated him with her in the direction of that periodical.

It was in those days that he brought out in the Nouvelle Revue, under the pen name of "Count Vassili," the series of works known as the "Société de Madrid," "Société de St. Petersburg, "Société de Vienne," "Société de Londres," "Société de Rome," and "Société de Paris."

All of these were written by him from second hand information on the lines of the "Société de Berlin," the work of Auguste Gerard, who has recently retired from the French diplomatic service.

Thoroughly unscrupulous, M. de Cyon had had his measure already taken by Count Sergius Witte before he succeeded M. Wychnegradski as minister of finance, and when Count Witte became the head of that department he declined to have anything to do with M. de Cyon, and would not even accord to him an audience when he visited St. Petersburg for the purpose.

With his head utterly turned by the deference accorded him in Paris on the ground of his supposed influence at the court of the Czar and with the Russian government, M. de Cyon set to work to prove to Count Witte that it would be more politic for him to make a friend instead of a foe of him.

Accordingly, he started in attacking the count's administration of the finances of the Russian empire by means of pamphlets and communiqué to the newspapers of the most calumnious character.

The French scarcely knew what to make of the matter. On the one hand, they heard that Count Witte was the most powerful minister in Russia, the statesman of the day, in fact. Yet there was M. de Cyon, supposed to be an emissary of the Russian government, and one of the principal factors, as they believed, in the alliance with Russia, openly attacking the imperial treasury.

The consequence was that Muscovite credit began to suffer in France, and, indeed, everywhere abroad. It became imperative, therefore, that something should be done at once to put an end to a course of conduct which was developing into a public scandal.

Accordingly a summons was dispatched to M. de Cyon to proceed to St. Petersburg without delay. He was shrewd enough, however, to realize that obedience to this order would be equivalent to placing his head in the lion's mouth, and that it would probably result in his being packed off to Siberia.

Hence, on the pretext of sickness, which did not prevent his being seen at Trouville, Dieppe, Vichy, and other French watering places much frequented by Russians, he declined to return to St. Petersburg.

Thereupon the czar issued orders for the degradation of M. de Cyon from his titular rank of councillor of state; deprived him of all the Russian decorations which he possessed, and finally decreed the forfeiture of his Russian citizenship.

The result of this was that M. de Cyon, who had been for twenty years one of the best known and most conspicuous Russians in France and western Europe, was rendered an outlaw.

His friends then began to fall away from him. Mme. Adam quickly severed her relations with him, and he ceased to have anything whatever to do with her Nouvelle Revue.

It was then that, as mentioned above, lack of money led him to resort to those questionable devices that landed him in prison and that culminated in his death in obscurity and destitution.

WHAT ORPHEUS PLAYED.

When Orpheus played in ancient Thrace,
From thickets where boughs interlace
Crept Pan, with all his woodland kin;
And dryads fair came dancing in
With joy, to fill their trysting place.

Anon, the feral forest race,
To hear his music, came apace;
Then hushed was all their merry din,
When Orpheus played.

The minstrel, with transfigured face,
Tossed back his locks with easy grace;
Then nestled softly 'neath his chin
Herr ——'s* wondrous violin!
No twanging harp did he embrace,
When Orpheus played!

THE recent drizzly, foggy days—not the rainy ones—were excellent for golf. For the man who drives a straight ball it is a pleasure to watch it vanish in the mist—a pleasure denied to the poor devils who cannot hit a ball without slicing it.

DR. HACKETT is the most amiable of critics, but even he permits himself, now and again, a soupçon of annoyance. The good Doctor attended the extra concert by the orchestra on the afternoon of Thanksgiving day, and discovered that the persons who complain because they can't buy tickets to the Friday concerts were conspicuous by their non-attendance. It is discouraging, sighs the Doctor.

IT always was. Why do people complain that tickets for the Friday concerts are not to be had? Because they wish to hear the orchestra? No, my children; they wish to get in because the hall is filled. If we should ever engage in the uplifting game—and heaven it knoweth we have no wish to—we should do our uplifting in a hall no larger than the Little Theater, and we shouldn't turn a wheel until every seat had been subscribed five years in advance.

SWEDE RIDGE.

Albert Schultz and wife were callers Sunday on Irish Ridge.

ADVERTING to persons who stick close to their work, there is Will DeLay, Esq., attorney and counselor at law, Cleveland, Miss.

WE must set right Old Alec Miller of Washington, Ia., who maintains that we are "very much in for a fight with Mexico." We are not a war fan, and are not even prepared to "sacrifice our wife's relations," as was A. Ward. But we can discern no alternative to American intervention in what the Mexicans are pleased to call their "affairs." There was only one man who was able to preserve a semblance of peace in Mexico and he left no successor.

IN WHICH WE OBSERVE THE RESULTS OF A SUPPER OF PICKLED PIGS' FEET AND SAUERKRAUT.

[From the Congressional Record.]

MR. THOMAS. Mr. President,

What has caused this frenzy of the nations? What dangers menace their several pathways to avoid which they waste their huge resources? We are told that each harbors its fell designs against the others. England resents the growing supremacy of Germany, and would crush her if unprepared. Germany hates England and must strengthen her sea power. France remembers Sedan, and builds her navies while she waits on time and fate. Austria and Italy glare at each other across the Adriatic. Japan, victorious over Russia, must find new domains for her crowded population, and Russia may seize her by the throat unawares; so she must have ships and more of them. Mastery of the Pacific, the Yellow Peril, the maintenance of the Monroe doctrine, expanding commerce demanding armed protection, securing that respect of the other powers which comes only with the count and the caliber of cannon; assuring peace by extending preparations for war.

"THE story about Prof. McCoosh of Princeton, who said 'It's me' when the students asked 'Who is there?' and then retreated because of his mortification for not having said 'It's I,' might be occasionally reprinted with good results," writes C. E. S.

IT'S a good story, but it would not be appreciated in England, where "It's me" is common. One runs across it in Bennett and other writers. The English apparently borrowed it from the French. "L'Etat," said Louis XIV., "c'est moi."

Signs of the Times.

On a sausage factory in Edmonton: "Beware the Dogs." In Milwaukee: "Bachelors Hotel—Family Entrance." On a Detroit saloon: "D. T. Boozer." In Beardstown, Ill.: "Tonsorial Bath Room." In the hall of the Germania Benevolent society, Menasha, Wis.: "The following dances are strictly forbidden to be danced in this hall: Tango, Turkey Trot, Hesitation, Grisly Bear, Wiggle-Woggle, Grape Vine, and Bonny Hug."

THE Kansas City Star has received a note from Shamus O'Shaughnessy of Valley Falls, who disclaims relationship with the O'Shaughnessy in Mexico. "No man with a French name like Chargé d'Affaires can claim kinship with our family," he sez, sez he.

THE Gentleman at the Adjoining Desk ventures that the present rain must be Victorian—it is such a long one.

MECHANICS' LIEN.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—If a contractor agrees to put up a residence for a man for $5,000 upon which a first and second mortgage has been taken out, the first mortgage of $2,000 and a second mortgage for $2,000, for which notes have been signed, and the balance of $1,000 has been paid at the time the roof was put on, can the subcontractor collect any balance which is due him from the contractor who has agreed to put up the house from the owner? Can he place a lien on the building for which the owner has to pay? Is there any law which compels the contractor to pay the subcontractor, such as the plasterer or carpenter, in case a lien had been placed on the building? Can the owner secure a waiver of lien and if he can on the first and second mortgage plan, is it advisable to do so, although the contract may seem to be all right? R. S. T.

The owner of the property can protect himself from mechanics' liens by having the principal contractor give him a waiver of all mechanics' liens at the time the contract for the work is made. When this is done, the only recourse of a subcontractor is against the principal contractor, and he can make no valid claim against the owner of the property. The owner can further protect himself by requiring the principal contractor to make affidavit as to payment of subcontractors and supporting his affidavit by receipts.

The brokerage or bank through whom this loan has been obtained can give you further advice on this matter if you desire it.

NOT GROUNDS TO BREAK LEASE.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Has a landlord the right to hold a key to a rented flat without the permission of the tenant? In case some objects or valuables disappear, could he be held responsible for them? Is it absolutely necessary to furnish the tenant with a copy of a lease, if difficulties should arise in the above case, or can the tenant be held responsible for breaking the lease? J. R.

The fact that the landlord has a key to this flat does not give the tenant the right to break the lease without being liable for rent. The ordinary form of lease provides that the landlord may enter the premises in certain cases. The tenant is entitled to have a copy of the lease.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DON'T PAY IT.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A few years ago I subscribed for a magazine. The terms were cash in advance. I paid for one year in advance, but upon the expiration of my subscription they continued sending it to me. They now seek payment. Are they entitled to it? F. J. C.

You are not liable to pay for this magazine. A subscription does not renew itself automatically.

DISTURBED BY WALKING TENANT.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I have a tenant living over me in apartment building who disturbs my rest and sleep by pacing up and down the floor until midnight. Can I swear out a warrant? 2. She also runs a grocery store in her flat. Has she a right to do this against the owner's consent? H. H.

The rights of the landlord and tenant depend upon the terms of the lease which was signed when the tenant went into possession, or when there is no written lease, on an agreement which was made at the time the tenant moved in. Where there is no written lease and the tenant pays rent by the month the landlord can force the tenant to move by giving her a notice in writing thirty days before a rent day.

1. The disturbance which you mention is not sufficient ground for you to put the tenant out of possession, or to have her fined for disorderly conduct.

2. The right to run the grocery store in this flat depends upon the terms of the lease, or the agreement made when the tenant went into possession. We cannot advise you definitely without a knowledge of this lease or agreement.

A LEGAL MARRIAGE.

Waterloo, Ia., Nov. 23.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A person of illegitimate birth is contemplating marriage. Would a regular marriage ceremony be legal and would her rights of inheritance be affected should the husband at his death leave her property? J. P.

This marriage would be legal and valid, and the wife could claim a widow's share in her husband's property, or take under a will which he might leave.

DISPOSAL OF PROPERTY.

Mishawaka, Ind., Nov. 20.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can a married woman give a note if she has more than enough property of her own to pay it when due, it having been her own individually prior to her marriage? If note should not have been paid before her death would it be paid from her estate afterward? She had no children. 2. Before I was married I acquired a small farm and $200 through saving and from inheritance. Can I will this property to my relations, or does my husband hold a claim on it? If so, what? There are no children. 3. To whom do the household goods belong? My husband bought them for me when we were first married. M. M.

1. Yes, although if the note is secured by a mortgage or trust deed on the real estate, the mortgage or trust deed should be signed by her husband.

2. Your husband can claim a widower's share of this property regardless of any will which you make. The balance of the property may be disposed of as you provide by will.

3. Household goods belong to the husband unless you can show that they were presented to you.

PROGRESSIVES AND NONPARTISANISM.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—In the interest of candor and fair play I am certain that you will want to supplement this morning's editorial under the head of "Poor Policy." It seems possible that the editorial may be based on inadequate report of Mr. Robins' speech, or possibly on incomplete information as to the action of the Progressive county committee regarding the aldermanic election last April or the one which will be held next April. Before the last campaign the Progressive county committee offered to join the Democratic and Republican committees in securing the nonpartisan nomination of all aldermanic candidates. Their offer was not accepted. This year the offer was repeated and again was not accepted. Indeed, the Republican executive committee has announced that it is the purpose of the Republican organization to nominate candidates in all wards.

During the last session of the legislature it fell to my lot to introduce in the house of representatives of the general assembly the nonpartisan municipal elections bill approved by the Chicago city council. This bill was blocked in committee by Republicans and Democrats, and when finally it was reported out Democrats and Republicans blocked it on its way to third reading. They were as little favorable to it as they were to woman suffrage. They succeeded in preventing its coming to a vote because it was introduced too late in the session, and because, unlike the suffrage bill, public opinion had not been organized in its support.

I think these facts prove that the Progressive organization has made a sustained and conscientious attempt to secure genuine nonpartisan nominations and elections in Chicago, and that the other party organizations in no sense have coöperated with them.

Mr. Robins in his speech pointed out that unless nonpartisan elections were provided by legislative enactment or by coöperation between the three major parties, any effort in that direction by the Progressive organization alone could result only in the nomination of Republican and Democratic candidates, between whom Progressives, if they voted, would have to choose. Under these circumstances it would be profitless for the Progressives to refrain from making partisan nominations, as it would be injurious to the Progressive cause for the Progressive party to permit the reactionary elements represented in the old parties to discipline and build up their organizations in a local campaign which the Progressive party workers in wards and precincts remained idle and bereft of the benefit which activity and discipline confer upon any organization.

It is ridiculous to ask one party not to nominate candidates for municipal offices unless the same demand be made of the other two parties. It is grossly unfair to criticise one party for making such nominations unless the other parties be criticised likewise.

I do not know if THE TRIBUNE'S political inclinations be Progressive or Republican or if it be its purpose to maintain a neutral position between the two parties, but I feel sure that it is prepared to see that "what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander." If Democrats and Republicans persist in making partisan nominations for municipal offices they must expect partisan opposition from the Progressive party.

It is not too late for the Democratic and the Republican county committees to join with the Progressive county committee in an effort to secure nonpartisan nominations for the city council next spring. It is a consummation devoutly to be wished, and although I have very little hope that the Republican and Democratic committees will be willing to join in such a movement, I trust that newspapers like THE TRIBUNE may put forth their best efforts to accomplish this end.

EDUCATION AND MIXED RACES.

Waukesha, Wis., Nov. 27.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Your editorial controverting Dr. Dufestel's attempted explanation of the apparent backwardness of American pupils as compared with those of Germany is just. Were his contention true that such backwardness is due to our heterogeneous ethnic elements, pupils in states and communities purely American would be free from this alleged handicap, and the schools of the Carolinas would far surpass those of Wisconsin or Minnesota. # ULLIVAN CLAN PLANS POWWOW

ity, County, and State Campaigns Will Be Formally Opened on New Year's.

EAL WITH DUNNE SEEN.

"Boss" May Be Backed for Senate in Return for Support of O'Connell for Mayor.

Roger C. Sullivan's actual entrance in the United States senatorial campaign will date from New Year's day when the Sullivan-Burke wing of the County Democracy will hold its annual first-of-the-year celebration. This was decided yesterday at a meeting of the organization in Musicians' hall.

The same day will mark the opening of city, county, and state campaigns so far as the "regulars"—as the Sullivanites call themselves—are concerned. The gathering will be held at the Second regiment armory. Arrangements now are being made for a big powwow.

Dunne-Sullivan Deal Seen?

The manner in which Sullivan leaders have rallied to the defense of County Treasurer William L. O'Connell since he was attacked by the bureau of public efficiency for alleged neglect to make a full accounting of interest on public funds is indicative, politicians believe, of an understanding between the Sullivan and Dunne forces.

This reported compact, it is asserted, will assure Roger the support of the Dunne lieutenants. In return O'Connell, who is the governor's political "man Friday," will receive reciprocal treatment from the Sullivanites should he enter the mayoralty campaign in 1915. The only stumbling block to the reported desire of City Clerk Francis Bonnery to make a try for the mayor's job.

"Flirters" Asked to Explain.

Sullivan leaders in the County Democracy are resorting to artful methods to determine the loyalty of certain supposed Sullivanites in the county board who have been under suspicion of late because of their penchant to flirt with "Battling Peter" Bartzen, the Hearst-Harrison spokesman.

Commissioners Bartley Burg and Daniel J. Harris, both of whom vote regularly with Bartzen, were called on at Sunday's meeting to let the faithful know where they stand. Both apparently took the hint. They declared "undying fealty" to the Sullivan organization and asserted they are bending their energies to land new members.

Inscription Becomes Issue.

The meeting also was enlivened by a discussion regarding the inscription to be placed on the monument to former Gov. John P. Altgeld.

"Tom" Sullivan, drainage trustee, thought the "I Still Live" inscription on the Daniel Webster monument in Boston would be suitable. John P. Tansey of the Fifteenth ward opposed this suggestion. He declared Altgeld left enough of his own sayings behind without borrowing any from Boston. "Bobby" Burke stepped the debate by gently hinting that the monument committee might resent any one "butting in" on their plans.

Rose is charged with altering ballots in the Fifteenth precinct of the Eighteenth ward in the interest of State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne, Peter Bartzen, and Leland S. Rapp, Republican candidate for clerk of the Municipal court.

More than seventy other indicted men will be tried in order.

MOOSER TO RUN IN THIRD WARD

J. F. Longenecker Announces Candidacy Under Progressive Flag.

WILL BE NONPARTISAN.

G. P. Englehard Expected to Oppose Congressman Thomson in Tenth District.

Joel F. Longenecker, the unsuccessful candidate of the Progressive party last spring for city clerk, yesterday announced his candidacy for the Moose nomination for alderman in the Third ward. He also failed of election for the council in 1912, when he was defeated by Ald. Si Mayer by a narrow margin.

"The city council as now constituted is sadly lacking in the right kind of initiative," says Longenecker. "When Ald. Merriam and others attempt to supply that quality they find it almost impossible to make headway against the asinine stupidity of some and the worse than stupid gangsters. If successful I shall conduct myself in a way that will meet the approval of all right minded people. Although I shall be a candidate of the Progressive party, I am a firm believer in nonpartisanism."

Others Coming to Front.

Other candidates for various offices next year are coming to the front. George P. Englehard, Progressive, is expected to oppose Congressman Charles M. Thomson for the Moose nomination in the Tenth district. Former Congressman George E. Foss, Republican, also will try to regain the seat now occupied by Thomson.

Ald. Patrick J. Carr of the Fifth ward is nurturing his candidacy for congress in the Fourth district. The incumbent is Congressman James T. McDermott.

Flanagan in Race.

Joseph F. Flanagan, president of the Flanagan-Biedenweg Art Glass company, and State Senator Al Gorman have been put in the race for the Democratic nomination for sheriff by friends in the Sullivan camp. E. T. Farrar, Republican member of the legislature from the Twenty-first district, is a candidate, his friends assert, for the sanitary board, while Ald. Frank J. Wilson is expected to contest with Johan Waage for state Senator from the Twenty-fifth district. If Wilson does seek to enter state politics former Ald. Jens Hyldahl will try for his council job. Hyldahl last to A. Trebing in the primary a year ago.

Charles J. Murphy, member of the state board of equalization, has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for congress in the First district. He would oppose Congressman Martin B. Madden, Republican. Andrew Donovan, who ran against Madden as a Democrat in 1912, is expected to enter the race next year as a Progressive.

"Sanatogen promises to pick you up when run down—it does so"

—Father Bernard Vaughan

THESE words of the celebrated preacher reveal the secret of the immense success of Sanatogen as a food and tonic for weak and run down people. Those who take it find that Sanatogen does things, that it does invigorate the nervous system when run down through overwork, worry or illness, that it does enrich the blood and assist digestion and assimilation. But there is no false or harmful stimulus. To quote the Hon. Wm. E. Chandler, Former Secretary of the Navy: "Sanatogen strengthens without irritating and promotes vitality in feeble folk."

Thousands of people are daily gaining new nerve power, new vitality and strength, through Sanatogen. Over 18,000 physicians have written of the remarkable benefits they have observed from its use it their patients. Their attitude toward Sanatogen is well summed up by Surgeon-General Tillmanns, Professor at the University of Leipzig, who says: "I am and shall always remain a great admirer of Sanatogen."

Is not such testimony worthy of your earnest consideration?

Write for a Free copy of "Nerve Health Regained." If you wish to learn more about Sanatogen before you use it, write for a copy of this booklet, beautifully illustrated and comprising facts and information of the greatest interest.

Sanatogen is sold by good druggists everywhere, in three sizes, from $1.00.

Prof. C. A. Ewald, of Berlin University, Doctor honoris causa University of Maryland, states in his contribution on "Typhus abdominalis."

"I can say that I have used Sanatogen in a great number of cases (that is, in those disturbances of metabolism which were mainly of a nervous or neurasthenic origin) and have obtained excellent results."

His Excellency Prof. Dr. Von Leyden, Director First Medical Clinic, Berlin, writes:

"I have gladly and frequently prescribed Sanatogen in cases of delicate patients in my clinical as well as my private practice, and am extremely satisfied with the results."

John Burroughs The distinguished naturalist and author, writes:

"I am sure I have been greatly benefited by Sanatogen. My sleep is fifty per cent. better than it was one year ago, and my mind and strength are much improved."

"DRYS'" PAGEANT GIVEN IN CHURCH

CIRCULATE PETITIONS.

Women of Clubs Will Aid in Getting Voters Out to the Polls.

A temperance pageant took the place of the usual sermon last night in the River Forest Methodist Episcopal church, of which the Rev. Edward G. Schutz is pastor. The pageant is a part of the educational plan of the Proviso Township Anti-Saloon league to obtain signatures to petitions now being circulated among the voters to remove seventy saloons in the villages of Proviso township.

River Forest, Melrose Park, Maywood, Forest Park, Bellwood, and Hillside are in the township, with a population of 24,000.

Seek 400 Signatures.

"We have ten men in each of the eighteen precincts of the township as a committee to circulate petitions for names," said W. A. Warman, secretary of the new Proviso Anti-Saloon league. "It is necessary to get a number of names equal to 25 per cent of the votes cast at the last election in order to be able to vote on local option. There were 1,700 votes cast. This reduces the number of names we need to carry our plan to about 400. Melrose has eighteen saloons, Forest Park has about forty saloons, while Bellwood has about five, and Hillsdale two. We will depend upon River Forest and Maywood, already dry, to give us support."

The two women's clubs in Maywood and the strong woman's club in River Forest are classed with the "drys." Mrs. Watson Thatcher, Mrs. H. W. Yalding, Miss Mary F. Balcomb, and Mrs. L. E. Balcomb, Mrs. C. Harmon Johnson, Mrs. Edward G. Schutz, and Mrs. Rose Douglas are arranging to have the women voters at the polls in the different villages, assisting C. W. Widney J. A. Cost, H. C. Pegram, and President Hanley of the league.

Churches Join Pageant.

The pageant given by the Young People's Civic league included all the young people of the two churches in River Forest—the Presbyterian and the Methodist—under the direction of Miss Balcomb. All classes of people were represented in costumes as arrayed for temperance by the children of the Sunday schools—from the aboriginal redman down to the modern drunkard's child in rags.

Eleanor Mary Schutz represented the rich little girl giving a basket of food to Miriam Stewart MacMurphy, who took the rôle of a poor little daughter of a drinking man.

Hope Kingsbury and Agnes Laatz were Indian maidens who had not known of the evils of "fire water" until after the entrance of the white man. Miss Ruth Eveleth bore the burdens as Miss Columbia and Helen Kallenberg was flag bearer.

ASK AMENDMENT TO U.S. CONSTITUTION

from New York, named Lincoln as an American man because he thought of the whole people of the United States, not the fellow next door.

Miss Rose Winslow, a stocking weaver, advised the well-to-do suffragists not to build homes for working girls, claiming that such intended kindness merely plays into the hands of the employer who sweats his hands, the department store manager who amasses his pile at the expense of the salesgirls, who do not receive a living wage.

Senator Helen Ring Robinson of Colorado, the only woman senator in the United States, claimed that with women in the legislature there would not be a new heaven and a new earth. She has not found it so.

"But the women will bring something of far greater importance—the woman's point of view. That has been all I have been able to do in Colorado."

Confident Wilson Will Act.

The interest in the possible favorable action of congress on the suffrage amendment to the constitution of the United States has relieved the stress felt over the suffrage constitution to be voted upon by the national suffrage body. Many of the suffragists are confident that President Wilson will incorporate recommendations on suffrage in his message to congress which is to be read on Tuesday.

Three hearings have been arranged for the consideration of a new committee in the house to deal before the house rules committee: the first on Wednesday, the second for the "antis" on Thursday, and one in rebuttal for the suffragists will be held Friday morning.

While the Illinois delegation has not the confidence of the Washington women in the general belief that the president will speak favorably of suffrage in his message, they approve of the work being done by the congressional union of the National Woman's Suffrage association in pushing the suffrage amendment.

Stepping Stone to Amendment.

They are also much in favor of the resolution passed by the Kentucky Suffrage association, which is to be presented by Miss Laura M. Clay. It recommends the national association work for the passage of a bill giving federal suffrage to women—the power to vote for congressmen and senators. This can be given by a majority vote in each house, while the amendment cannot be made law unless it has a two-thirds vote in the house and senate, is signed by the president, and ratified by forty-eight states.

"It is really a similar proposition to the one we had to meet in Illinois," Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout said. "It is a good thing to work for the suffrage amendment. There should be no cessation of that work. However, the federal bill could be passed into effect at any time by congress, and the partial franchise which it would give, would be a valuable weapon in attaining the full franchise."

May Oust Belligerents.

The National Suffrage association has not been entirely satisfied with the work of the congressional committee, it is said, and it is probable an attempt will be made to remove some members who have been serving on this committee.

It is claimed they have formed policies and carried out their work without going into consultation with the national officers.

The members of the committee are Miss Alice Paul, chairman; Mrs. Crystal Eastman Benedict, Miss Lucy Burns, Mrs. Lawrence Lewis, and Mrs. Mary Beard.

There is a possibility of little change in the national officers, with the exception that the eastern women will make an attempt to create a new office, that of third vice president, Mrs. Rutz-Rees, a member of the constitutional committee. The officers are as follows:

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president.
Miss Jane Addams, first vice president.
Miss Charlotte Anita Whitley, second vice president.
Mrs. Mary Ware Benett, corresponding secretary.
Mrs. Susan W. Fitzgerald, treasurer.
Mrs. Harlett Barton Laidlaw, first auditor.
Mrs. Joseph Tilton Bowen, second auditor.

Business Session Begins Today.

The regular business session of the convention, to be held in the new Masonic temple, will start tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. In the evening Illinois' victory will be celebrated, with Mrs. Catharine Waugh McCulloch, Mrs. Ella S. Stewart, officers of the national association for several years and past president of the Illinois organization, and the suffrage lobby; Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout, Mrs. Sherman M. Booth, and Mrs. Antoinette Funk, and Mrs. Medill McCormick.

Mrs. Trout made an attempt to meet Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge of New York, president of the national association opposed to woman's suffrage, and Mrs. A. J. George, organizing secretary of the Massachusetts anti-suffrage organization, who have been in Washington making the final arrangements for their hearing before the house rules committee.

Both Mrs. Dodge and Mrs. George expressed extreme pleasure that the president of the Illinois delegation of suffragists should wish to meet them, but on account of their many duties in connection with the hearing, so they said, it would be impossible to arrange for the meeting.

Miss Addams to Retain Office.

Miss Jane Addams, first vice-president of the National association, who had asked to be relieved of her responsibility of the office the coming year, has been persuaded to reconsider her decision and will stand as a candidate for that office.

The new method of assessment arranged for in the constitution to be voted upon by the convention meets with the approval of Mrs. Medill McCormick, who arrived in Washington on an evening train.

Barrett to Battle Graves.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 30.—Lee Barrett and "Kid" Graves, two local welterweights, have signed to meet in a ten round go at the South Side A. C. on Thursday. In the semi-windup Jack Redmond and Hal Clarke, lightweights, will be the principals.

MAY CURB RUSH OF CONSUMPTIVES

Government Will Seek to Induce Patients to Take Treatment at Home.

WEST RESENTS INFLUX.

Public Health Service Aims to Aid Both Victims and Other Travelers.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—Drastic regulation of the transportation of victims of tuberculosis from state to state is contemplated by the federal government as a result of an investigation now being conducted by the public health service.

The move will have the effect of curtailing to a great extent the migration of tuberculosis patients to the dry climate of the west and southwest. The service will puncture the belief that a dry climate is necessary to the cure of the disease.

Already the investigation has disclosed that Chicago harbors more transient consumptives than any other city in the country. Because it is the greatest railway center in the country and the gateway of the west thousands of victims of the white plague pass through it annually seeking a salubrious climate.

Chicago Stations Catch All.

These sufferers change cars in Chicago, stopping a few hours in a railroad station generally. The conditions under which these patients spend this waiting interval in Chicago have been investigated during the last fortnight by agents of the public health service. The investigators also counted the number of sufferers arriving and departing on all the lines.

From Chicago the agents have proceeded to the southwest, investigating the conditions under which patients travel and mingle with healthy passengers.

The findings of the investigation will be embodied in a report setting forth exactly what danger the traveling public runs of infection from tuberculous passengers. It also will lay down a set of regulations for preventing consumptives from coming into contact with healthy passengers both on trains and in railway stations.

Demand Springs from West.

The demand for this investigation came originally from California, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, and other western states which have been endeavoring for years to stem the tide of tubercular immigrants.

In many western communities "lungers," as they commonly are known there, constitute a large part of the population. They are regarded as undesirable citizens by the natives, who complain that the sufferers are a menace to public health.

There is good ground for stating that the report of the health service will recommend transportation regulations which will tend to curtail the migration of consumptives.

It is suggested that such regulations might prohibit a consumptive from going far from his home unless he could give satisfactory assurance that he would not become a public charge.

But the main point the report will make is that it is unnecessary for consumptives to seek the arid region in order to be cured. The national health officers take the position that such a migration furnishes the patient no treatment that cannot be procured at home.

DUBLIN SUFFRAGISTS OUTWIT POLICE AND MEET AT PRISON.

Militants Hold Demonstration Outside Place Where One of Their Number Is Serving Sentence.

DUBLIN, Nov. 30.—Militant suffragists outwitted the police today and held a demonstration outside Mountjoy prison, where Mrs. Sheehy Skeffington, who was sentenced Friday to seven days' imprisonment for interference with the police during the visit of Andrew Bonar Law, is a prisoner. One of the speakers, Mrs. Kathleen Emerson, was arrested in a scrimmage which followed the appearance of the police.

A Christmas Message

Two months ago we began a series of messages to the people of Chicago and vicinity.

Our purpose was to make more people better acquainted with the house of Spaulding & Company and the advantages it offered.

The result of these messages is a largely increased clientele.

We have made a host of new friends who have found our merchandise invariably of the highest quality and by actual test become convinced that our prices are exceedingly reasonable—more than that, they have found every department of the store filled with goods which come within the reach of those who, for one reason or another, wish their expenditures to be moderate.

To Christmas Buyers

this MESSAGE, and those which have preceded it, should have especial significance, particularly to those who demand the best.

We solicit your business on the merit of our goods and the fairness of our prices.

Our consistent adherence to the policy of maintaining the highest standard of excellence in our wares has made the name of Spaulding & Company synonymous with all that is best in DIAMOND, PEARL and PRECIOUS STONE JEWELRY, WATCHES, SILVERWARE, LEATHER GOODS, etc.

Hence, a gift from Spaulding & Company carries with it a prestige and a guarantee of excellence which means pleasure to the recipient and satisfaction to the giver.

Our present method of advertising denotes no change in that policy which has made the house of Spaulding & Company what it is today.

On the splendid foundation of twenty-five years' successful merchandising, in accord with this policy, we are building a greater business by making a larger acquaintance.

ROYAL DIVORCE NO SURPRISE

AT ODDS SINCE WEDDING?

Gossip Connected Princess with Russian Spy System in Stockholm.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 30.—Incompatibility of temperament is believed here to be the real reason for the expected divorce of Prince William, the second son of the king, from his wife, who was the Grand Duchess Maria Pavlovna, daughter of the Grand Duke Paul Alexandrovitch and a cousin of the czar.

The princess left Stockholm about the same time the Russian minister, M. Savinsky, took his departure. The minister departed soon after the military attaché, Col. Assanovitch, was practically dismissed from Sweden for spying.

Rupture Not Unexpected.

All sorts of gossip was caused by this exodus of the Russian contingent. Some reports had it that the princess had been engaged with the minister in the espionage which caused the downfall of the attaché.

In court circles, however, it is said that the rupture between the young royal couple was not unexpected.

The atmosphere of the Swedish royal household is about the most homely, and even puritanical, to be found in any European court, while the grand duchess came from a set of quite opposite tendencies.

The prince, although only 29, is a man of serious and scholarly tastes, and without great personal magnetism. He is a captain in the navy but prefers his books to the quarterdeck. He has some reputation as a poet.

Found Life Dull in Sweden.

The gay and lively young princess of 23 found life in Sweden, under the chaperonage of her husband's extremely conventional parents, very dull. Hence, it is said, she fled to her father in Paris and refuses to return.

A high court official, the Marshal Printzskjoeld, is in St. Petersburg negotiating terms for a separation of the royal couple.

Prince William has renounced that part of his wife's fortune that would have come to him according to the terms of the marriage settlement.

The young Prince Lennart, the 4 year old son of the prince and princess, will inherit Oak Hill castle near Stockholm. William is starting for Africa on a big game shooting expedition.

STREET SPACE TERMINAL ISSUE

ALDERMEN GET THE LIST.

Plan Commission Presents Program in Connection with Pennsylvania Scheme.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

If a vote on the location of the Union passenger station were taken at the meeting of the council committee on terminals this morning, it would be in favor of Adams street, the site selected by the Pennsylvania group of roads. A decisive majority now favor this recommendation. Chief interest centers on whether enough aldermen will change their attitude so as to compel the removal of the station to Harrison or Twelfth street when the council vote on the ordinance is taken about Dec. 15. Few believe there will be such a switch.

Whether the Pennsylvania will be permitted to locate its freight terminal at Van Buren street, as it desires, or at Harrison street, as recommended by Expert John F. Wallace for the committee, is a different question. The representatives of the roads give the impression they believe they have the votes for one or the other of these two sites. Others think the roads are mistaken.

More Streets Needed.

If, however, the roads get either or both, it is reasonably certain they will be forced to make a number of concessions, especially regarding public space. One organization after another appears to be awakening to the need of more streets, the opening of additional thoroughfares, and the widening of existing streets.

The Chicago Plan commission and Jarvis Hunt, architect, have been trying to hammer this idea into the aldermen for more than six months. The Illinois Manufacturers' association has now realized the importance of more room for street traffic. That organization will appear before the terminal committee this morning to make a plea for the opening of more streets, especially north and south thoroughfares.

Street Program Proposed.

Representatives of the Plan commission will be present to urge, if given the opportunity, the following street program which they desire incorporated in the ordinance to the Pennsylvania group of roads:

1—Widening of Canal street (to 108 feet) between north branch of river and Archer avenue.

2—Widening and extension of Clinton street north to Canalport avenue.

3—Widening of Desplaines street from Harrison to Twelfth streets and extension to diagonal street running from Twelfth and Canal to Sixteenth and Halsted streets.

6—Widening of Milwaukee avenue.

Want Diagonal Streets Opened.

7—Building of road along river bank from Fulton to Twenty-second street.

8—Opening of three diagonal streets, one from Jackson and Desplaines to Madison and Clinton streets; another from Desplaines and Mather to Sixteenth and Chicago river; and another from Twelfth and Canal to Halsted and Sixteenth streets.

Adhere to City Plan.

"All of those recommendations were made in the original plan of Chicago as presented by the Commercial club," said Walter D. Moody, director of the plan commission. "While these improvements may be susceptible of change in detail to meet changes in conditions, the officers of the plan commission believe this structure of the plan should be adhered to."

Any one who has read the proposed ordinances of the Pennsylvania group of roads knows the above street program cannot be carried out if the ordinances are passed as now worded, yet several persons connected with the situation are assuring the public the plan of Chicago will be preserved.

In addition the plan commission wants several streets on viaducts over the present tracks between Canal street and the river.

Want River Straightened.

The Manufacturers' association will urge that several north and south streets east of the river be extended southward, and that the river be straightened and new streets be laid over east of the river.

Bion J. Arnold, the expert of the Citizens' Terminal committee, returned from Toronto yesterday afternoon. He and Expert Wallace are expected to report this evening to the terminal committee whether they have reconciled their differences. Mr. Arnold has recommended the passenger station be located at Harrison street, saying that Adams street should be selected "only as a last resort."

"DEAF AND DUMB," BUT CURSES

Man Prevented from Taking Death Plunge Turns Upon Fellow Prisoners and Policeman.

A man who refused to give his name was prevented from jumping into the river from the West Madison street bridge early yesterday by Policeman George Barker. Taken to the station he professed to be deaf and dumb, but when placed in a cell cursed the other prisoners and the policeman.

Cairo Woman Aviator's Passenger.

Cairo, Ill., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—Tony Janus, an aviator, made three successful flights here today. Miss Grace Lawler and J. V. Brown of Cairo and Will Perks of Mound City went up with him. Miss Lawler is the first woman in this section to make an airship flight.

SEES "L" SERVICE FREED OF "KINKS"

President Budd Says Through Route System Has Reached the Normal.

BUY 120 STEEL CARS.

Number Raised from 100 in Order the Better to Meet Rush Hour Demands.

Kinks that arose from the introduction of through routing on the elevated lines, beginning on Nov. 3, are nearly ironed out, according to Britton I. Budd of the Chicago Elevated railways. To the gratification of the elevated managers the increase of new passengers has more than offset the loss in fares caused by the universal transfer system.

Mr. Budd announced the directors have authorized the purchase of 120 steel cars instead of 100, as first planned. The new cars will have forty-eight inch end doors, and the construction will permit the use of center doors when the capacity demands their use.

Seek to Deaden Noise.

The first move toward deadening the racket on Sixty-third street from the elevated structure will be started next month when eighty pound steel rails of sixty feet length will be laid from Stony Island avenue, continuing as far west and north as Indiana avenue.

Another improvement soon to take place will be the installation of trackage for the holding of two or three trains for rush hour emergency at Eighteenth street on the south side and Chicago avenue on the Northwestern. In case of accident or an unusual drop in the traffic these trains can be rushed in to fill the gaps.

Complaints had been made to THE TRIBUNE that while the south side trains are making better time than before through routing, the Northwestern service is slower. This was denied by Mr. Budd, who insisted the same running time from terminus to loop of each line is being made today, although more trains are run. The average through route rush hour time from Congress to Kinzie, or more than half the distance around the loop, is made in 9 minutes, as against 21 to 25 for the old loop trip, he said.

Transfer Problem Solved.

One of the worst kinks in the new system is the transfer station at Adams street and Wabash avenue, but this, Mr. Budd thinks, has been overcome by the doubling of platform length and the double stoppage for the unloading and loading of passengers for the north side. Passengers have solved the system and few now have to be told about it by station guards.

The elevated management has made periodical checking at the different loop transfer stations, and on one occasion recently, between 5 and 6 p. m., at Adams and Wabash, 4,100 were checked going to the Northwestern trains from the west side lines and 1,700 vice versa. This is considered a sample of the avidity with which the people have seized upon the free transfer privilege.

SPEED UP, BOYS; BE GOOD FELLOWS!

Time to Get Busy and Join the Movement for Christmas Service.

CHURCH LEAGUE ACTIVE.

Epworth Members Plan to Carry Cheer to Forty or Fifty Needy Families.

Good Fellows, get busy and renew your membership in the honorable legion of joy excursionists. Time flies, says the old adage, and Christmas joys wait for no man. Get busy.

The Good Fellow who does the most good and gets the most enjoyment out of his Christmas excursion, it has often been demonstrated, is the one who is prepared for the event. The best preparation is effected by early application for your list of names, early shopping, early investigation, and early satisfaction with your labors.

A Few Dollars Will Do It.

A few cents or a few dollars spent by a Good Fellow means happiness to children who are hungry and sad nearly 365 days out of the year. The blessings the poor mother heaps upon you when you present food and toys to her children are things you never will forget. The brightness which you take into the crowded rooms of destitute families on the evening before Christmas will last for weeks.

The Good Fellow parties are now being formed. They will be organized groups of Good Fellows, who will obtain names from THE TRIBUNE and make their purchases and deliveries in a body. The first organization to inquire about Good Fellow work this year is the Epworth league of the Woolley Methodist Episcopal church at Fifty-sixth street and Indiana avenue.

League Asks of Movement.

The president of the league writes:

"The league members have been thinking of entering your Good Fellow band. Their plan is to see how many they could get in the chapter to be Good Fellows for one or more children, to figure on how many they could care for in this way, and then to bunch it in small groups on Christmas eve or early Christmas morning and play Santa at different homes selected where children are. I think we could care for forty or fifty children in that way.

"We would naturally like to radiate around the church as far as our energies could extend, making that the center. Would such a plan work in with your plan and could you furnish us the names from your lists so as to cover as much ground as possible and not duplicate your effort?"

The league plan coincides with the party plan of the Good Fellow movement.

The United Charities, the Visiting Nurses' association, and the Juvenile Protective association are compiling lists of names and addresses for the Good Fellows. An effort will be made to give all applicants names of families living near the Good Fellows. When this is impossible and the person has the inclination to be a Good Fellow, but no means of transporting his or her Christmas presents, the Orphans' Automobile Day association will furnish automobile service.

The Tribune Again Good Fellows' Agent

The Tribune again will undertake this year the work of putting the Good Fellows of Chicago in touch with the children who must look to them or have no Merry Christmas.

Plans for securing the names and addresses are complete. If you cannot play Santa Claus yourself, The Tribune will do it for you. But you will miss the spirit of the thing if you don't do it yourself. And do it early.

To join the Good Fellows, write a letter to The Tribune something as follows:

"I live at No.— ———— street. I will be Santa Claus to (any number you wish) children. Please give me the names of the children in ———— (State what section of the city you prefer to have assigned to you.)

"John Jones."

Your letter will go to Santa Claus. He will indorse it with the names and addresses of the children. The letter will be remailed to you. There will be no publicity. Then you get busy. That's all.

RED CROSS SEAL SALE TODAY

Motto of Campaign Will Be "2,000,000 for Chicago."

AIDS TUBERCULOSIS WAR.

Institute to Benefit from Annual Christmas Stamp.

The motto, "2,000,000 seals for Chicago," will be adopted today when the Red Cross Christmas seals for the support of the Chicago Tuberculosis institute will be placed on sale. The support of the institute is derived almost entirely from the annual December sales of the seals.

The seals in red, green, and white decorations, give a holiday appearance to Christmas packages and convey to the recipient the interest of the sender in the anti-tuberculosis crusade.

Sell for One Cent Each.

The stamp will sell for 1 cent each. They can be procured at drug stores and from individuals who are connected with the institute's campaign.

"In no city in the United States has the anti-tuberculosis movement developed more strength or accomplished more than it has in Chicago," states a report sent out by the institute. "The Chicago Tuberculosis institute has founded a program for the municipal anti-tuberculosis campaign which is not equaled in any other city."

Outline of Work.

The program at present consists in:

1. Exhibit. The most comprehensive educational tuberculosis exhibit at present in the United States, which, in the last two months, has been shown at Sherman park, Holstein park, Seward park, and Hamlin park to an average of a thousand people a day.
2. Systematic examination and medical supervision of employés for the detection and prevention of diseases in working places; a system which is being extended to all the largest establishments about Chicago.
3. Study circle. A study for physicians and nurses to discuss the latest advance in tuberculosis treatments.
4. Bulletin of the institute. Publication giving information of the anti-tuberculosis movement and methods of treatment of the disease.
5. Popular lectures, mostly illustrated by stereopticon views.
6. Careful study made for the board of Cook county commissioners of the county tuberculosis institutions, and recommendations to the board for improvement of the service to tuberculosis patients in these institutions.

The institute hopes to have a greater sale this year than ever before.

Unveil Statue of Patrick Henry.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 30.—Gov. Dunne and former Gov. Yates today delivered addresses at the unveiling of a statue of Patrick Henry at St. Joseph's school. The unveiling was under the supervision of the Rev. Father P. J. O'Reilly of St. Joseph's church. This is believed to be the first monument in the state to Patrick Henry, who was once governor of Illinois when this state was part of the original colony of Virginia. A great crowd stood in the rain during the ceremony.

When Fashion Seeks the Southland

It demands the utmost in railroad perfection to bear it on its way.

To the Seminole Limited has been added the supreme touch in travel luxury—a sun-parlor observation car made entirely of steel and glass. A sumptuous car is this. Some people have called it a "crystal enchantment," and have counted their sun-parlor hours as the most delightful part of their sojourn in southern lands.

Seminole Limited

The Millionaire's Way to Florida

It insures a delightful transition from your comfortable home to the comfortable hotel at your journey's end. It is a train where the study of luxury has been made a science; where even the smallest details have been planned with infinite care.

Seminole Limited is a through train. There are no annoying intermediate terminals with their noise and delay. It runs over a double track road and is protected by electric block signals. It is an all steel train with a record for being on time. Above all, it gives you almost an out-of-doors trip, for its great observation car porch can be opened wide to the southern sunshine and bracing air. And it costs no more than on ordinary trains.

Ready With a Store Full of New, Attractive Christmas Merchandise

Such Exceptionally Attractive Furs Make Ideal Gifts

The rounded points, cutaway effects and generous sized sleeves have greatly enhanced the beauty of this season's fur coats. The collars of contrasting furs seen on many of the smartest coats add to their distinctiveness.

The Coat illustrated is patterned after the very latest Russian style. It is made of European dyed Hudson seal, trimmed with Sitka fox and handsomely lined. Priced at..... $350

Black Fox Sets in splendid assortments are priced at, the set, $45 to $75.

Mink Muffs and Scarfs

We emphasize these special items in natural mink muffs and neckpieces to match. Their prices are too low to indicate their real value. Muffs, $65 to $87.50, and neckpieces, $32.50 to $55.

Fourth Floor, North Room.

Sterling Silver for Gift Buyers

Space limits us to suggest but few of the limitless variety of articles in sterling silver that would make excellent gifts for women or men. A visit to this section would therefore be beneficial to you.

Sterling vanity boxes, hand engraved or engine turned, fitted with coin boxes, powder puff, space for calling cards. Priced at, ea., $12.50

Sterling top powder puff boxes, cut glass boxes..... $4.50

Sterling oval photo frames, suitable for cabinet size pictures, priced at.....(First floor, South room)..... $3.50

Sterling lemon and sugar stands, new and novel.. $2.50

White Hats

Fifth floor, South room.

White fur—white plumes—silver-white laces—all white—that is the dominant fashion note for midwinter millinery.

Sometimes there is a dash of creamy yellow paradise; sometimes a facing of black seal-like fur against the face, just to heighten the vivid snowiness of the white.

Chiffon Taffeta Blouse, $10

FOURTH FLOOR—NORTH ROOM.

Chiffon taffeta, supple and soft, molding with grace to every line of the natural figure—this is the newest and one of the loveliest of all winter blouses.

Ever so many original points give it distinction. Such, for instance, as the hooded collar, with its little silk tassel and the quaint cuff, covering the top of the hand only; or the porcelain buttons, enameled with flower sprays to match the tiny bouquets faintly stamped on the fabric. In ivory white, with stripes of shaded satin in colorings of creamy tan, silver gray, green, blue and so on, priced at $10

Linens Make Good, Practical Gifts

Dressed in the picturesque Polish costume, girls from St. Adelbert's parochial school at Milwaukee avenue and Division street gave a revival of the krakoviak and other national Polish dances yesterday at the United States land show at the Coliseum. The program was in celebration of Polish, Lithuanian, and Washington day at the exposition.

RESEMBLES MIDNIGHT BREAD LINE

WHERE 'WE WILL' THERE'S A WAY
—Chicago's New Proverb.

BY HENRY M. HYDE.

It is still dark. Since midnight the rain has fallen steadily and the pavements are black and sloppy. Up and down the long street the small yellow lights burn dimly. A couple of tall young shadows come silently out of the dark toward the glaring front of an all-night restaurant, their spurs clicking on the brick pavement.

Across the street for a mile there is a solid line of tall fences, high brick walls, huddled buildings, towering stacks, elevated tracks and runways that go twisting in and out among and over the buildings like snakes on stilts.

In some of the upper windows seen above the walls there is a sullen glow of light. About the roofs white clouds of steam settle in the heavy air. The breeze from the west is thick with a dozen mingled stenches, which it takes an expert to identify.

Half a mile off and then close at hand switch engines snort and cough. Down at one end a red glare of fire sets the sky in a glow. It is the regular morning bonfire of waste wood from wrecked cattle cars.

DOWN the dark, quiet street the first trolley rushes, gong rattling, headlight glaring, already full of men going to work on the early gangs. It is 5 o'clock in the morning. The 40,000 people who live and work in and about the stockyards are beginning to wake up to a new day.

The tired men of the loading and other night gangs tramp off home through the foggy dawn. Along all the streets which lead to the yards sound the heavy feet of the 6 o'clock gangs going to work. They may be heard before they are seen in the faint light.

Back and forth across the streets running through the yards switch engines are shunting the meat cars loaded during the night. There is much snorting and puffing of steam and smoke. Great motor trucks piled high with cuts of fresh meat tightly covered with gray canvas start out on their long deliveries. Long processions of carts, each drawn by a big gray horse, leave the barns and move slowly down the stockyards streets.

LIGHTS are burning brightly in half a dozen big offices on the ground floors of the huge squatty buildings. Inside brisk young men—the time clerks of the packing houses—are opening their check racks. Outside a long line of men stretches away from each of the closed windows. By a quarter after 6 there are 500 men waiting patiently in each line, and there are five or six windows in each office.

Over here, huddled in a long, thin line close to the side of the building, are 300 young girls and women, standing close together as if for mutual protection in the half darkness.

At the other time offices about the yards are other lines of waiting women. Most of them are young and unmarried, as the white handkerchiefs tied about their heads signify. They are Poles and Lithuanians—new immigrants fresh from the farms and tiny villages of Russia and Austria. Their faces are calm and placid, unsmiling, untouched yet by the cruel strain of highly organized industrial life. Some of them are beautiful, with a soft, ingenuous, almost Madonna-like beauty.

Hundreds of these young peasant girls are making the great adventure in the stockyards, which are a part of—and yet apart from—Chicago, all alone, thousands of miles from family or relatives. Fifty per cent of the girls and women employed in the stockyards earn $5 and less a week.

PATIENTLY they wait in the chill and drizzle of the early morning—men and women alike. Patience is a daily lesson in the stockyards, for before one may go to work he must stand in line and get his brass time check after the windows open at 6:30 o'clock. And it is best to be on hand early, for a thousand checks are passed out through each window, and to be five minutes late means to lose pay for half an hour.

But these in line are after all the fortunate—those who have "steady jobs," so far as any job in the stockyards may be called steady. So irregular and uncertain are the shipments of cattle and hogs, the packers explain, that it is impossible to keep the gangs steadily at work. Even the skilled butchers and meat cutters are almost certain to lose a day or more out of each week.

OUT through the open windows the time clerks swiftly toss the brass checks and the long lines melt. Now gathers a new army, stretched out a hundred abreast and three or four ranks deep in front of each time office. A bored policeman, waving a careful club, drives the line back across the street, leaving the roadway open. Boys on horseback, leading other horses which carry the high western saddle, canter past. Big limousines, with one man on the rear seat of each, purr by, for the big bosses of the stockyards are early on the job.

Lined up along the roadway opposite the time office waits the army of the jobless—hopeful, despondent, hungry, sullen. The men stand silent, every eye on the policemen and the petty bosses who dodge in and out of the doors.

They are casuals, the surplus laborers who gather every morning outside the time offices in the yards—often two or three thousand men and women in all—who stand and wait for an hour, from 6:30 to 7:30, in the hope that they may be given work.

THEY simply stand every morning and wait, ask no questions, make no applications. There are many young men in the crowd; some who are older, who look like veterans worn out on the killing beds and in the chilling rooms, hopeful now that an unexpected spurt of cattle may make a need for the remnant of their strength—Poles, Lithuanians, a few Greeks, many negroes, blonde, curly headed youths from little Russia, and now and then a sullen man in dirty, much patched clothes, with a hopeless face and a look in his eye like that of a poisonous snake.

The line has bulged out in the center to fill half the roadway. The policeman saunters across and casually taps a few of the foremost in the belly, waving the rest back into company front. A stocky young fellow in a long white coat which hangs to within a few inches of the ground, comes over to the middle of the crowd and the patient, waiting eyes light up with expectancy.

"ANY butchers? Any knife men in this gang?"

Up and down the long line he shouts his inquiry. Half a dozen men wriggle through the ranks to the front. Four of them are selected. Artlessly blowing his nose with his thumb and forefinger, the boss leads them across the street to the blessed workrooms.

There is a mutter of protest in the ranks that so few should be chosen. Little knots of two or three break away from the crowd and drift down the road to join the waiting army before another time office. Two or three philosophic colored men have given up hope. They are sitting down on a plank at the rear of the company, their backs to the time office.

IT is 7:30 o'clock. In the better residence districts early risers are beginning to stir. But for these who wait in the lines hope of work for the day is over. The policeman, displaying new energy, waves his club and drives the crowd before him down the road and on out of the yards.

"And now it's 'git to h——l out a'here!'" grins a red-nosed old fellow, looking more tramp than workman.

But tomorrow morning, and every weekday morning in the year, they will be back again, from one to several thousands, standing patiently in line for an hour, waiting and hoping for work which to many of them comes with painful infrequency.

CABARET SQUEAL "AD" FOR OREGON

GIRLS OF POLAND DANCE.

The porker cabaret was born in Chicago yesterday at the United States land show in the Coliseum. Three little white pigs squealed a "forward to the land" chorus in high key.

At the exhibit of the Oregon state immigration commission, C. C. Chapman, state immigration agent, hit on this novel method of attracting attention to the agricultural opportunities of his section.

The pigs form a part of the Oregon exhibit. In standing one of them up Mr. Chapman discovered it would squeal lustily and they enjoyed it. By a little practice he got the trio so they performed together creditably.

At the first outbreak of the porker trio people came running from every part of the great building. Mr. Chapman had to assign his position as musical conductor to an assistant while he took up the work of telling about his state and its possibilities.

Vetch a la Farm.

Conspicuously "planted" near the pig exhibit were all kinds of forage crops grown by dry farming, including vetch eight feet in height. The silver cup presented by the Chicago Association of Commerce for the sweepstakes on dry-land products at the recent international dry farming congress was there. It was won by the state of Oregon. It was Polish, Lithuanian and Washington day, with a special program of dances by young girls of St. Adelbert's parochial school in the afternoon and folk dances by young men and women of the Polish National School of Dancing in the evening, under the direction of Prof. Wladislaus Malinowski.

Notwithstanding the bad weather, there was a good sized crowd in attendance both afternoon and evening and it was necessary to give three performances of the Indian play "Hiawatha."

Illustrated State Lectures.

As a part of the Washington day program O. A. Atwood lectured in the Great Northern railway lecture room on the opportunities for fruit growing and home making in Washington. C. C. Morrison talked on Montana and C. C. Chapman spoke for Oregon in the same room. All the lectures were illustrated.

Today will be California day, with special features in the form of lectures and souvenirs, which will be distributed from the booths of the southern California and Tulare county exhibits.

A lecture period, continuing from 6:30 to 9 o'clock in the evening, has been set aside for the representatives from California.

STRIKERS MUSTER NEW ARMY AND MARCH THROUGH DUBLIN.

Third Force Now Actively Drilling in Ireland—Jim Larkin Makes Fiery Speech in London.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

DUBLIN, Nov. 30—The strikers' army, 1,000 strong, was mustered today under Capt. James R. White, son of the defender of Ladysmith, and, after being drilled, marched to Liberty hall. This is the third volunteer force now in Ireland, and there is nothing to prevent an indefinite multiplication.

Larkin Makes Fiery Speech.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Jim Larkin, the leader of the Dublin strikers, who is still trying to fan the smoldering "fiery cross" into flame in England, advised an audience of East Enders tonight to emulate the Dublin transport workers.

"If the trade unionists want to arm themselves," he said, "and take over the country they have only to say so and a million Asquiths can't stop them."

CALLS BAD WATER SAME AS MURDER

James R. Garfield Says Franchise Grabbers Are in Class with Horse Thieves.

TALK ON RIGHTEOUSNESS

The stealing of a city franchise or a public office was placed on the same level with the stealing of a horse, and the failure to provide a pure water supply and safety appliances for dangerous machinery was classed with common murder, by James R. Garfield of Cleveland in an address last evening at the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall on "Civic Righteousness."

Mr. Garfield, who was secretary of the interior in the Roosevelt administration, was greeted with an audience that filled all but three rows of chairs in the top gallery. He is the second son of the martyred President Garfield to address the Sunday Evening club within the month, Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams college, being the other son who spoke.

No Lawyer Needed?

"How men quibble and juggle over the word right," he said. "Yet no one needs a lawyer to tell him the difference between right and wrong.

"Civic righteousness is only the application of individual righteousness to public affairs. It is not a new law, but the old law related to new conditions.

"The root of civic righteousness lies in education, in the creation of a powerful public conscience. We too often are satisfied to do as the majority says. The people can make terrible mistakes. A crowd is easily led to do wrong as well as to do right. The psychology of the mob is that it consists of unthinking minds—men who have not been trained to think or act; hence they go wrong.

Urges Public School Reform.

"The greatest need of our cities is a public school system which will turn out good citizens and not simply machines. How about the Chicago system? Is it turning out boys and girls who understand their relations to each other and to society, or those who will become idlers? Unfortunately they are taught to become idlers in many cities.

"We turn out girls 14 years old without a trade or a means of livelihood, with serious dangers to their morals. It is true, also, of boys who leave school at 14 years. What becomes of them? The shops are closed against them and they become derelicts.

"We arrest them and put them in jail, and yet we, as society, made it impossible for them to do otherwise.

"Suppose Chicago changes her school system and establishes industrial education side by side with cultural education and gives the child what it is best fitted for, you then will turn out boys and girls who will take their places in the industrial life of the city. You will dignify labor. You will put it where it belongs, on the plane of the highest accomplishments.

Self-Government Big Problem.

"The ninety millions of the American people have undertaken a most stupendous task in trying to work out the problem of self-government. We are striving to make a new Americanism and give liberty to many nations. Some have had handed down to them a Puritan conscience and yet in New England we have seen evils and corruption come in with the increase of prosperity. We must work together for the purpose of creating a correct public conscience."

The hunting season, which closed yesterday, cost 135 lives. In addition to the death toll, which is considerably larger than in any previous year, 125 persons were injured, several of them fatally.

One looks in vain for any new causes for the long list of casualties. A much greater number have shot themselves this season, by reason of careless handling of weapons, no fewer than thirty-seven having lost their lives at their own hands and twenty-four others escaping with more or less severe injuries.

The deadly companion was abroad this year, as usual, and to his presence were due twenty-four deaths. He also inflicted injuries on nineteen others.

Careless Hunters Slay 17.

The man who shoots every time he sees a movement in a bush, thinking it must be caused by some species of game, can reflect on the fact that that sort of hunting resulted in the death of seventeen and the injury of ten..

Drowning is well up in the causes of fatalities, sixteen hunters having found watery graves while in quest of game.

It is estimated that there were nearly 60,000 hunters in Wisconsin and Michigan and when to this number are added the thousands who took the trail in Minnesota, Maine, and New York the total number will reach well up to 100,000.

Hunters Growing More Cautious.

While the casualties seem great in number the record this year is considered by those who have been watching conditions to be one indicating a growing care on the part of hunters in the use of their weapons.

"You city people must realize," an experienced Wisconsin hunter said, "that this is not such a bad showing as might at first be supposed. With 50,000 to 60,000 hunters in the woods, all using high power, long range rifles, it is a wonder there are not more casualties, and that the death list is not greater must be credited to the greater care being exercised by hunters."

It is possible that an effort may be made in Wisconsin at the next session of the legislature to enact more stringent laws governing the use of weapons in the forests, but what the nature of the new laws will be can only be guessed. So far legislation has had little effect and upper Michigan, which has the strictest laws in America, has as large a percentage of hunters killed as Wisconsin.

Government Expert Victim.

In the list of killed is Prof. M. G. Hammar, entomologist of the United States department of agriculture. He, with a friend, C. J. Leland, was hunting near Roswell, N. M. Leland, not knowing Prof. Hammar was in the direction he saw two deer, fired with an automatic rifle. The bullet struck Hammar in the abdomen, killing him instantly.

H. D. Umbstaetter, formerly editor of the Black Cat magazine, while hunting near Kezar lake in Maine, shot himself just beneath the heart. Mr. Umbstaetter was hunting on the shore of the lake, when he stumbled in climbing a stone wall. The gun he carried was discharged and the bullet killed him.

Gets Ride on Deer.

Vernon Rider had a thrilling experience in the Adirondacks. He shot a big buck. He only wounded the animal, however, and the buck leaped to its feet and plunged at him. Grasping the deer by its horns as he rushed, Rider was thrown upon the animal's back, and then followed a nine mile run through the timber on the back of the deer. Peter Markle, an old hunter, seeing the buck and its rider, with careful aim broke the buck's legs, and Rider was saved.

A number of women joined in the hunt this year, among those taking out licenses in Wisconsin being Mrs. M. A. Paganinci of Chicago. Mrs. George E. Vincent, wife of the president of the University of Minnesota, formerly of Chicago, hunted moose in northern Minnesota.

PASTOR ATTACKS CHURCH DODGERS

CITES BIBLE EXAMPLES.

Explains Evangelical Church as Amalgamation of Denominations with Creed Common to All.

Excuses offered as reasons for not uniting in the fellowship of some Christian church were made the subject of a sermon yesterday by the Rev. Albert Joseph McCartney, D. D., in the Kenwood Evangelical church, at Greenwood avenue and Forty-sixth street, of which he is the pastor.

"In these days," he said, "when men are writing books that are read and plays that are put upon the stage which tend to compromise the church and hold up the clergy as a lot of ignoramuses and dupes, I want to speak out some strong and sure word of protest.

"I recognize Christianity is not a form, but a force; not a liturgy, but a life. But I also assert the church was organized by Jesus Christ, and there is no substitute for it.

"The church does not claim to be an organization exclusively made up of saints. It is rather a home where the higher sanctities of life, like flowers in a garden, can be cultivated."

Text from Luke.

The text was taken from Luke, the fourteenth chapter and the eighteenth verse: "They all with one consent began to make excuse," the answer given to the invitations of the man in the parable "who made a great supper and bade many."

"The feast symbolizes fellowship with God," the clergyman said, "and it is from the invitations to share in this fellowship that men turn away with a deaf ear.

"Some excuse themselves by saying, 'The current of my life is against it. My business will not permit me to identify myself with the church.'

"If there are currents carrying away from the Christian church, there are also forces urging you to it. It is for you to get out of the current carrying you away from God into the one that is carrying you Godwards.

Calls Excuses False.

"The excuses offered are false in character. There is an Indian fable that one Indian wanted to borrow a robe of another. 'I can't lend my robe,' said the Indian appealed to; 'I am using it to tie up sand in.' That is no use to make of a robe,' said the would-be borrower. 'O, any use is good enough when one doesn't want to lend his robe,' was the reply.

"One man in the parish who made an excuse was coward enough to hide behind his wife. Others do that today.

"Business, lands, oxen or horses, wives are all legitimate as objects of attention, and their enjoyment is perfectly right, but it is all wrong to let any of these things stand in the way of accepting an invitation to a feast of fellowship with God. They are not excuses, but subterfuges.

Explains Nature of Church.

This was the Sunday preceding the evening designated for the reception of members into the church. Dr. McCartney explained the nature of the church and the conditions for membership.

"This church," he said, "was formed by the amalgamation of various evangelical denominations and its creed contains only what is common and fundamental to them all."

A manual was placed in the hands of those who cared to read, in which the purpose of the church was further explained. The Scripture motto in the forefront is: "One Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all, who is above all and through all and in you all."

The only question on doctrine aked of a pastor or church officer when he is installed is: "Do you heartily accept as your own the confession known as the Apostle's Creed, and do you hold to that form of faith commonly called evangelical?" A promise "faithfully and diligently to perform the duties of your office" and "to adorn your profession of the gospel by the purity and exemplary piety of your personal life" is the only other question asked.

Offerings to Total $25,000.

In carrying out the union idea the annual benevolent offerings which will be reported at the annual meeting on Dec. 10 and will amount this year to $25,000 are distributed to organizations in various denominations and to those representing inter-denominational effort, like the associated charities, the Chicago Church Federation, the Anti-Saloon league, the Chicago Law and Order league, the Hyde Park Protective association, the Midnight Mission and many others.

The American board of the Congregational church will receive the foreign mission offering, the Presbyterian board the offering for home missions, the Methodists Episcopal church the offering for work in the south among colored people.

SUSPECT MAY BE MURDERER.

Negro Under Investigation in Connection with Death of Miss Ida Leegson.

Charles Dooley, a negro held at Woodlawn station on his confession of second story robberies in Hyde Park, is being examined on a more serious charge. Capt. Alcock admitted last night that a negro woman had advised him to investigate what Dooley knew about the murder of Miss Ida Leegson several weeks ago in the prairies southwest of Chicago.

The woman told the police she had been with Dooley two days after the murder. She jokingly told him she thought he was the one who killed the nurse.

"For God's sake, don't say that," she says Dooley begged.

The woman said the negro had lost all his positions as butler because of insolence to white women.

Inmates Climb Out Windows of Rooms on First Floor and Flee Institution.

Three inmates of the Chicago State hospital escaped last night by climbing from the windows in their rooms on the first floor. They are: Leo Ruhkowski of 1524 West Twenty-ninth place, Peter Malloy of 451 Root street, and Joseph H. Trico.

ASKS CONFERENCE TO MAKE PROGRAM OF LEGISLATION

President Calls Party Leaders in Congress to Prepare for New Session.

CURRENCY REFORM FIRST

Rural Credits, Anti-Trust Law and Fight on High Cost of Living Planned.

COLD STORAGE INQUIRY COMING

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—President Wilson has called a conference of the leaders in congress for this week to decide upon the legislative program to be adopted during the regular session, which will begin tomorrow. As far as disclosed, the program will include:

1. Currency reform.
2. Rural credits.
3. Amendment of the anti-trust law.
4. Abolition of interlocking directorates.
5. An international inquiry into the high cost of living.
6. Regulation of cold storage products.
7. Government construction and operation of railroads in Alaska.

Other Matters in Background.

Other matters undoubtedly will be considered, such as the regulation of water power concessions, independence of the Philippines, and the like. But they will not be pressed with the vigor of those named. The president is more determined than ever to secure the early enactment of the Glass-Owen bill, creating a new banking and currency system.

In order to suppress insurrection in the house on this measure, he agreed to advocate a national rural banking system. A bill for this purpose is being prepared now by his direction. The house Democrats also agreed in caucus to end interlocking directorates of banks. The bill which is being formulated will forbid interlocking directorates of all corporations.

The president and H. D. Clayton, chairman of the committee on judiciary, will colaborate in the preparation of a bill for the amendment of the Sherman anti-trust law. The measure undoubtedly will be modeled along the lines of the so-called "seven sisters" act, which Mr. Wilson forced through the New Jersey legislature.

Must Uphold Tariff Claims.

The enactment of these proposals is necessary, in the opinion of the administration, so as to to establish that the Democratic party is a party of construction. There remains to be done something to vindicate the new tariff law and to explain why it has not reduced the cost of living.

Those who know the president realize he is an astute politician, and it is not surprising, therefore, that he should want in some way to offset the feeling developing against the Democrats because of their failure to make good their campaign pledge to lessen prices.

The Republicans investigated and made elaborate reports on the high cost of living and the evils of cold storage. That all the information necessary is available is shown by the refusal of the judiciary committee to consider the Kincaid bill for an investigation of the beef trust, partly because of the facts obtained by congressional inquiry and partly by reason of the evidence taken during the latest trial of the Chicago packers.

Cold Storage Time Limit.

Through the enactment of a bill imposing a time limit upon which products shall be kept in cold storage, it is hoped to prevent the withholding of vast amounts of food from the market and thus make the supply more reasonable in relation to the demand.

The McKellar bill, drawn by Attorney General Wickersham, forbids the transportation of beef or its manufactures and products if kept in cold storage beyond seven months; veal, two months; pork, four months; sheep or goats, four months; lambs or kids, three months; poultry and game, three months; fish, two months; butter, three months, and eggs, three months or six months, if on inspection they are found sound and wholesome.

The McKellar bill was referred to the interstate commerce committee of the house, of which Congressman Adamson is chairman. He said today that he intends to call a meeting of his committee this week to consider various matters and that the committee might possibly take up cold storage.

Problem for Whole World.

Some of the administration leaders believe it politically advisable to convince the people that they are not alone in suffering from the high cost of living. This can be done through an international commission which will compare prices and wages the world over. Every country in the world is suffering from increased prices of food and clothing.

It is declared to be almost as absurd for the United States, on the basis of its own experience, to discuss the worldwide rise in the cost of living as it would be for a village on the Bay of Fundy to discuss the rise of tides. They experience this rise, but its causes lie far beyond their vision of control. Under the circumstances, it may be expected the president will be authorized to invite foreign nations to participate in an exhaustive inquiry.

The only features of the president's program which will not provoke a fight in his party are those for an inquiry into the cost of living, for government construction and operation of railroads in Alaska, and for prohibition of interlocking directorates. The question of currency reform already has provoked a bitter struggle among senate Democrats. That in connection with rural credits also will lead to a long debate.

First Campanini Concert Presents Wagner Program.

BY GLENN DILLARD GUNN.

THE first of the season's Campanini concerts was given at the Auditorium by the orchestra and a few of the soloists of the Chicago Grand Opera company—Mr. Campanini, however, conducting only two of the orchestral numbers and leaving the bulk of the directing to Arnold Winternitz. This was due to the program, which was made up entirely of excerpts from Wagnerian operas over which Mr. Winternitz is generally given charge during the season. The Wagner concerts invariably bring out a large audience of the faithful, and even the dismal weather conditions which prevailed did not prevent a considerable gathering.

Clarence Whitehill loomed up as the particular star of the afternoon, sharing a good portion of the honors with Marta Dorda. Together they offered the long duet from "The Flying Dutchman," and not even such a rare occurrence as befell Whitehill—a lapse of memory quickly caught by a glance at the pianist's score—marred its success. The slip was noticeable only to the eye, not to the ear.

To the baritone fell the first vocal offering, the Hans Sachs monologue from "Die Meistersinger," delivered with authority and ample beauty of tone. To him also was given the "Evening Star" aria from "Tannhäuser," a portion of which w: repeated. Elizabeth's prayer from the same opera was sung by Mme. Dorda. From "Siegfried" she presented "Ewig bin Ich," from "Lohengrin" "Elsa's Dream," and from "Tannhäuser," again, Elizabeth's great aria from the second act.

It was the soprano's first appearance in Chicago in Wagnerian music, and it suggests the welcome possibility that she will be given futher opportunities in this direction. Her voice proved sufficiently strong to be heard above the violence of a Wagnerian orchestra, and, despite certain faults of method, was of a pleasing quality in both full and lighter tones. She was cordially received.

The other principal vocal offerings were Dalmores' presentation of Siegmund's Spring song from "Die Walküre," and Lohengrin's aria of "The Holy Grail." In each he has sufficiently demonstrated on numerous occasions his adequate resources for presenting the tribulations of a German tenor. There remained the trio of the Rhine Maidens, Miss Keyes, Miss Wheeler, and Miss Riegelman, in the familiar offering from "Das Rheingold."

Mr. Campanini took the baton long enough to direct an inspiring performance of the "Tannhäuser" overture and repeat his interesting "stunt" of last year—allowing the orchestra to go ahead with the "Ride of the Valkyries" without visible direction by the leader. The surprising ability of those musicians to do it, and do it amazingly well, is a fair index of the responsible character of the corps Mr. Campanini has built up in his three years of service in Chicago. The other orchestral numbers were the overtures to "The Flying Dutchman" and "Rienzi."

London Opera House Closes.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Nov. 30.—With dramatic suddenness the directors of the London Opera house decided on Saturday night to shut down. No warning was given to the singers, who learned of the decision with consternation at the end of the performance.

With the 264 nights' run of the revue "Come Over Here" ended early in November, Director Stanley announced that he would reopen on Nov. 17 with "The Society Circus," which with a company of midgets would fill the bill until Christmas. The revue did not appeal to the public. The house, which accommodates 2,000, had only 500 on Saturday evening.

Mme. Clausen was prevented by illness from fulfilling her engagement with the Swedish National chorus at the concert of that organization last night in the Auditorium. Her place was taken by Mme. Rosa Raisa and Armand Crabbe, who added to the fine impression of their gifts and attainments obtained at the Saturday afternoon and evening opera performances. The chorus under the direction of Joel Mossberg sang admirably.

Paulist Choristers Attract Big Audience.

A GREAT audience greeted the Paulist choristers at their first concert for the present season yesterday afternoon in the Studebaker theater. Father William J. Finn, the conductor of the organization, offered a program that contained some things that the choristers have made familiar in former concerts, and many that were new. Perhaps its most pronounced departure from the traditions of organization was represented by the more liberal employment of soloists. The public seemed to approve of the innovation, since two especially attractive artists were presented to justify it.

These were Master Edgar Donovan, senior solo soprano of Grace church choir, New York, and George O'Connell, a resident tenor. Master Donovan has a voice of much more warmth and sympathy than the boy soprano usually is able to develop. He gave further evidence of admirable schooling by the precision of his enunciation and the intelligence with which he read the beautiful texts of his songs. Mr. O'Connell has a fine, resonant tenor voice of ample range. He too has enjoyed excellent training, for his song was endowed with many beauties of taste and feeling.

Among the new works presented by the chorus was a "Missa Solimnis," by J. Lewis Browne. It proved to be a scholarly work, in dignified and exalted spirit, melodious and well written for the chorus, though making slight use of contrapuntal means. Its performance supplied the one blemish of the afternoon, thanks to a mistake on the part of string players used in the accompaniment.

All the a cappella numbers or those presented with piano accompaniment were faultlessly done. The choir begins the new season with more and better vocal material. The sopranos still produce that tone of ethereal lightness and transparent clarity that distinguishes them. The contralto tone has all the richness of a wood-wind choir. The tenors and basses are splendid. The ensemble is perfect. The dynamics are marked by the same incomparable flexibility.

These assets were displayed effectively in Michael Haydn's "Tenebrae Factae Sunt," Leslie's "Lullaby," Rheinberger's "Quando Corpus Morietur," and Delamarter's "The De'il's Awa'," which, according to custom, was repeated at the insistent demand of the audience.

Mr. Clark's Recital.

For Charles W. Clark's recital a large audience gathered in the Fine Arts theater and listened to song interpretations that had every possible virtue of voice and of art to commend them. It was possible to hear only Mr. Clark's French and English numbers. But these were remarkable, especially attractive being Fauré's "Claire de Lune," wherein the singer sustained a tenuous, fragile tone of exquisite quality.

He presented two English groups. The first represented Arthur Dunham with his song entitled "Pilgrimage," a worthy work by a resident composer; Sidney Homer, with a new song called "Uncle Rome"; Kurt Schindler, with his "Scorned Love" and "The Fairest of All the Stars," and Campbell-Tipton, with a recent addition to his long and worthy list of songs called "Fool's Soliloquy." The last is one of the most effective songs yet written by an American, and Mr. Clark gave it with fine feeling, with amazing volume and flexibility of tone, and with a wonderful definition of text and mood.

The program closed with a group of four songs by Mrs. Lulu Jones Downing. These disclosed an attractive gift for melody that is admirably suited to the voice, a talent to devise effective piano figurations for the piano accompaniment, and an extended technic in harmonization. True fantasy was evidenced in the two manuscript songs, "A Vision Beautiful" and "June," and the latter so pleased the audience that a repetition was demanded. Mrs. Downing played the accompaniments to her own songs. Mr. Campbell assisted Mr. Clark in his other numbers.

Weisbach Plays New Sonata.

Harry Weisbach, concert master of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, gave his annual recital in Orchestra hall, where he was heard by a small audience. He is an interesting artist and had the weather been less inclement one is persuaded that his listeners would have been numerous. Those present were cordial in their reception of many things presented. In his choice of his opening number Mr. Weisbach was not altogether wise. Inspired by the praiseworthy ambition to begin with a novelty, he brought forth a sonata for piano and violin by an unknown composer named Rossler.

Judged by this work its creator must have lived and labored about the middle of the last century. Its melodic patterns are well worn; its harmonic scheme is hackneyed; its figures have been exploited in a dozen volumes of etudes for the piano or the violin. Assisted by Rudolph Reuter, Mr. Weisbach gave it a beautiful performance. Either artist achieved marvels of facility and each disclosed a fine regard for the values of tone and contrast.

The same qualities of tonal refinement and technical mastery found more sympathetic material for display in Mr. Weisbach's reading of the Mozart D major concerto. The program contained further the Vieuxtemps A minor concerto, "Romance," by Sinding, and the Kreisler version of Paganini's "Ipalpiti."

News Notes of the Theater.

It is announced, though unofficially, that when Bayard Veiller's "The Fight" comes to the Blackstone the brothel scene, removed by the New York authorities, will be put back.

"High Jinks" will end its season at the American Music hall Saturday night. Beginning Sunday afternoon McIntyre and Heath will reappear in "The Ham Tree," remaining two weeks.

"Dave" Lewis will start a four weeks' engagement at the La Salle Opera house Sunday evening, Dec. 14, in a musical play with the somewhat frayed title of "September Morn." The engagement will not be under the Askin management, but under that of Rowland & Clifford, who will on this occasion make their loop debut as producers of $1.50 entertainment. "A Trip to Washington" will go on tour under the management of Frederic Edward McKay, who for the last ten years has been the manager of Miss Blanche Ring. He recently expressed so much satisfaction with the La Salle cast that retention of their present parts is a matter for the members to decide.

Chicago Pulpits Indorse Sunday School Campaign.

SERMONS indorsing the seven day money raising campaign to be launched tomorrow for the benefit of the Sunday School association were preached yesterday by ministers of several denominations.

"'All at it and always at it until we get it,' should be our motto in this worthy campaign," said Bishop Samuel Fallows from his pulpit in St. Paul's Reformed Episcopal church. "The sum of $100,000 must be raised for the benefit of the great Sunday school convention to be held in Chicago next June and the proper financing of the organized Sunday school work in this country. Chicago men cannot afford to let this go by default.

"We must not underestimate the value of organized Sunday school work, and we certainly cannot overestimate it. The Sunday school is the feeder of the church; through it most of the strength of the church is derived."

The Scandinavians of the city were represented in their expressions of indorsement of the campaign by the Rev. C. W. Finwell, pastor of the Logan Square Norwegian church.

Campaign headquarters have been opened on the eleventh floor of the Mallers building, East Madison street and Wabash avenue. Many of the business men interested in the movement will take a vacation from their business during the week and devote all their time to the raising of the $100,000 fund. William A Peterson, chairman of the finance committee; J. Grafton Parker, and H. W. Allen have charge respectively of the north, south, and west districts.

Discuss Proposed Charter.

The proposed new charter for Chicago was discusssed yesterday afternoon at the forum in the City club. Leon Hornstein, assistant corporation counsel, and Elbert C. Ferguson of the Association of Commerce argued for the new charter, but expressed a doubt whether the public yet was ready for the change.

Mr. Hornstein pointed out that the majority of laws passed by the state legislature are peculiarly applicable to the city of Chicago and were necessary because of the provisions of the present city charter. He argued for a consolidation of the local governments. He said at present the powers granted the city are express grants limiting the power of the city.

"I doubt seriously," he said, "whether we are ready for a new charter. It is probable if we are granted a new charter we will not get the provisions we desire."

Bethel M. E. Church Dedicated.

The Bethel Methodist Episcopal church, Cullom and Ridgeway avenues, was dedicated yesterday. The $5,000 necessary to cover all indebtedness was subscribed in the three services under the appeal made by the Rev. James Rowe, secretary of the city missionary society. Bishop W. F. McDowell preached the morning sermon, the Rev. J. S. Dancey of Auburn Park preached at 3 o'clock, and the Rev. L. F. W. Lesemann, district superintendent, preached in the evening. Ten ministers were present at the afternoon service.

Societies Seek Old Record.

The Chicago and Illinois Historical societies are expected to bid on an early document giving in detail the purchase of the entire state from the Indians. The document is now on sale in New York.

It is a forty page record book of the United Illinois and Ouabache Land Companies, the first realty company in the state.

How to Earn Money at Home.

Hand Decorated China Made at Home.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

HAVE you thought of china for your Christmas list? Really well decorated china is hard to find isn't it? But there isn't anything that makes the home woman happier than to have some good china for the special festivity of her table, is there? Wouldn't you appreciate a particularly dainty nut set?

I have always thought the best test for buying Christmas presents for my friends was the test of whether I wanted that particular thing or not. For instance, I never could bring myself to buy a gorgeously decorated vase for a friend of mine, because I wouldn't want one myself. Vases are meant, first of all, to hold flowers and to serve as a background for them. They aren't meant to be more conspicuous than the flowers. So that when I made up my mind that I'd buy a vase for a friend I tried to find the kind I'd like myself.

You'll be surprised when you come up to the exhibit room to see that all of the china is the sort that you would like to have yourself, and, of course, the kind that you will want to give to your friends.

There's the nut set that you'd like. It's of luster, with a band of gold around it. There are six little nut cups and a fancy china basket for the extra supply of nuts. Then there are salt and pepper shakers that will gain many friends, I'm sure. They're all painted in the conventional designs that are so pretty. The colors are dainty. They have gold tops. And all of that daintiness and usefulness can be bought so reasonably that you can't help wondering how a home worker can make any money at her work.

If you prefer a sugar and creamer you can find sets here that will please you, I'm sure. Isn't there something unusually attractive about the conventionalized flower treatment of designs? It seems to me that decorated china was never so attractive as it is now. In these new designs you can find plates of all sizes and shapes. Cake plates, there are, and breakfast plates, and bowls, and nut dishes—every variety of plate that you can want you will be able to find.

There is a large chop plate in a rose design that caused the comment the other day from a visitor to the exhibit room: "Isn't it lovely?" The woman who made this one will make as many more for you as she has time to. She will make in the same design cups and saucers if you want them.

And most novel of all there is a mug for a baby with conventionalized rabbits on it—the very thing that would make a child so happy that he would dance up and down for joy.

Wouldn't you like, perhaps, to give to some friend some dainty shades to make her table even more charming? The home workers make the pretty silk ones so reasonably that you will feel that you can afford them, I'm sure.

There is the cunningest little copper candlestick made by the artistic fingers of one of the home workers. Wouldn't it be lovely dressed up in a home worker's dainty shade and tied with holly ribbon? Wouldn't it surprise you? Then don't you think it would make your friends just as happy as it would make you?

Don't you think that home-made articles are full of the Christmas spirit? Won't you come down, then, and see all of the lovely homey things that the home workers have made?

DRY SUNDAY FOR CINCINNATI; EVERY SALOON IS CLOSED.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—Cincinnati today for the first time in over half a century, saw every saloon closed. This is the first Sunday since the new liquor license law went into effect and the 802 newly licensed bars, according to positive police information, closed. Saloonkeepers say this will mean a loss to them of more than $100,000.

Mrs. A. K. Wilson, vice president of the W. C. T. U. of Ohio, in commenting upon the situation said probably a great part of the $100,000 will "be spent for useful Christmas gifts."

State President John Schwab of the German-American alliance said the Ohio state "reformers" are compelling this to become a whisky-drinking nation.

"Where a man spent a nickel or a dime in a saloon on Sunday for beer he will now be tempted, I believe, to buy a quart."

NEWS OF CHICAGO CLUBS AND SOCIETY WORLD.

Chicago Society Finds Interest in New Songsters.

THE first week of opera has gone and in its passing it has brought before the Chicago public several new songsters in whom society may find special interest.

Many of the women of the box group had heard Rosa Raisa last Monday morning when she made her first American appearance at the Tiffin musical, but none had heard her in opera. The large number of teas no doubt kept many of the regular attendants away, but as it was the box circle was well filled and the body of the house contained many of the society folks who also are music lovers.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter—the latter wearing a gown of scarlet satin and a dainty little hat of black velvet with aigrette trimmings, were in one of the boxes, and Mrs. W. W. Kimball had with her Mrs. Warren Salisbury, Miss Keep, and Mrs. Norman Williams, the latter in black velvet and lace afternoon gown with a black velvet hat. Mrs. Arthur Ryerson, Mrs. Hermon Butler, and the Misses Suzette and Emily Ryerson formed another box party, and Mrs. Redmond Stephens had a few guests, including Mrs. William Paul Martin and Mrs. Joseph Winterbotham. Mrs. Charles Munroe (Rhea Logan) and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Stuart Logan, also had a number of friends in their box, Mrs. Logan wearing an attractive costume of black velvet with a short jacket of Japanese silk.

Mrs. George M. Pullman was a box hostess and Mrs. Carter Harrison—in blue velvet trimmed in black, with a touch of gray fur—and Miss Nellie Carpenter were in an adjoining box with some friends. Mrs. Benjamin Winchell—in mauve chiffon velvet—had Mrs. E. F. Carry and Miss Helm of Hannibal, Mo., among her box guests, and Miss Dorothy Linn, Miss Virginia Whitehead, Miss Eleanor Hamill, and Lawrence Robbins. Floyd Evans and James Waller Jr. were an interesting box company of young people.

Of the others seen in the boxes or the seats there were Mrs. Potter Palmer Jr., Mrs. J. E. Strong, Mrs. Luther Bodman, Miss Cornelia Conger, Mrs. George A. McKinlock, Mrs. James Heyworth (who had in her box her granddaughter, Miss Julia Heap, Mrs. C. P. Dexter, and Mrs. A. D. Bevan); Miss Elizabeth McCormick, Mrs. Fletcher Dobyns, Mrs. William Waller Jr., Mrs. J. E. Baum, Miss May Peabody, Miss Lucy Knott, Mrs. Burton Hanson, Miss Aerielle Frost, Mrs. C. C. Chickering, Mrs. Jessie Crane, and Miss Dorothy Crane.

Tonight brings the opening of the "Poor Little Rich Girl" at Powers' theater, which has a double social import since it also is to be the benefit night for the nursery ward of the Home for Destitute Crippled Children. The Rosemary club—an organization of former Rosemary hall girls—is in charge of the nursery. Among the boxholders for the evening are Mrs. Alfred Baker, Mrs. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Graham Harris, Mrs. Ogden Armour, Mrs. Colin Fyffe, Mrs. Charles Dawes, Mrs. C. H. Besley, Mrs. Clarence Peck, Mrs. George Pullman, Mrs. Charles F. S. Spaulding, Miss Ethel and Miss Marion Forgan.

Saturday with its downpour was not an ideal day for the giving of presentation receptions, yet it was one of the busiest of the debutante days. Miss Helen Morton was introduced at a tea dance given at the Blackstone hotel by her mother, Mrs. Mark Morton of Lake Forest, with Miss Mary Armour of Kansas City, who is Miss Morton's guest, and Miss Rosalie Selfridge (both of whom were Miss Finch's schoolmates of Miss Morton) among the assistants. This evening Mrs. Morton will give a dinner at the Blackstone for Miss Armour and Miss Selfridge.

Miss Katharine Keep, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Keep, was another debutante of the day, the reception having been held at the family residence, 2825 Prairie avenue. Mrs. James C. Hutchins Jr. (Margaret Keep) and a group of the debutantes assisted. Mrs. E. Vincent Gale, assisted by her elder daughter, Mrs. Alexander C. Scully, presented Miss Katherine Gale during the afternoon also at a reception given at the residence, 75 East Division street. With the Chicago buds who assisted in receiving were Miss Virginia Ferguson of Little Rock, Miss Helen Logan of St. Louis, and Miss Helen Cruickshank of St. Louis. A dinner-dance followed in the evening.

Of the other debutantes there were the Misses Illsley, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Illsley of Evanston. Mr. and Mrs. John Boyce Smith of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Illsley, Mr. and Mrs. John Slade, and Mr. and Mrs. Rollin A. Keyes, and a large company of the Evanston debutantes assisted during the afternoon. A young people's dinner-dance followed.

In addition to the debutante dances following some of the teas of the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Foley and Miss Virginia Foley of Astor street gave a dinner-dance for Miss Mary Josephine Williamson, one of the interesting buds of the winter. Twenty-seven young people were asked to the dinner, with an additional forty coming in later for the dance.

The calendar is filling up rapidly now that the season is on in earnest. The latter part of last week brought many invitations to the desks of the socially elect. Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hamill have issued cards for a dinner dance which they are to give at the Saddle and Cycle club next Saturday. Mrs. John C. Black is to give a luncheon and bridge on Thursday, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson are to give a dinner dance on Saturday, Dec. 27, for their nieces, Miss Suzette and Miss Emily Ryerson. The Misses Ryerson recently came on from the east with their mother, Mrs. Arthur Ryerson, and have taken a Rush street residence with the intention of remaining here throughout the winter.

The Crusaders did not give their first dinner on Saturday night, as they had intended. The Crusaders go forth to find and visit the unusual. They had decided to see the Bal Tabarin at the Hotel Sherman and then Mayor Harrison made a decision of his own, and the party was called off.

Mrs. R. T. Crane is to open the big Tudor house up on the Lake Shore drive tomorrow for a lecture by Alexander A. McCormick. The talk is to be given under the auspices of the Chicago Equal Suffrage society, and is one of a series. This is the first time Mrs. Crane has opened her residence for such an event—significant in the light of woman's achievements in the cause of suffrage in the state.

Mr. and Mrs. George Higginson and children are expecting to leave today or tomorrow for Boston, where they will join the other members of the family circle in celebrating the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Higginson of Boston later in the week.

Edward Sheldon, the playwright, who has been abroad for several months, has returned to New York, and will come to Chicago to be present at the coming out reception for his sister, Miss Mary Sheldon, which Mrs. Theodore Sheldon will give in the rooms of the Fortnightly on Saturday next. Mrs. Sheldon had hoped to give the reception at her residence at 38 Bellevue place. In this she has been disappointed, as the house has been rebuilt during the summer, and the delay has made the change in plans necessary.

A bazaar is to be given tomorrow for the benefit of the Church Home for Aged Persons in St. Paul's parish house, at 4945 Dorchester avenue. The money earned will be use for the new building.

Mrs. Charles R. Vincent will play melodies by Schumann, Sibelius, and McDowell and Miss Marion Tracy will appear in Russian and Polish dances, after which there will be general dancing at the "open evening" of the Girls' Friendly society, to be held in St. James' parish house, 666 Rush street this evening at 8 o'clock.

The entertainment is planned for the benefit of Holiday house, Glenn, Mich., which is not now large enough to accommodate members and their friends. Building plans have been prepared for an "annex." It was announced at the recent annual meeting of the Girls' Friendly society that Mrs. Robert B. Gregory and A. Tracy Lay had promised large donations, provided the remainder of the sum necessary for the erection of the building was raised by members of the society within three months.

A reception in the English room of the Blackstone hotel was given Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred M. Castle in honor of their son's bride, Mrs. Alfred Cavanna Castle, who before marriage was Miss Helen Walsh of Chicago. Assisting in the reception were Mrs. C. M. Chamberlain, Mrs. Robert W. Walsh, Mrs. Harry Dubia, Mrs. Story, Mrs. A. E. Stewart, and Mlle. De Buc of Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. James I. Lyons of Hubbard Woods celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage at their home on Saturday evening. The house was decorated with silver tinsel. The most interesting feature of the evening was a phonograph guessing contest, in which each of the guests was required to record his or her voice on a phonograph record. Prizes were given to the guest who recognized most of the voices recorded. The invitations to the anniversary were written on the backs of the wedding invitations printed twenty-five years ago, which had been carefully stowed away by Mrs. Lyons after their marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. James Carson Rogers of Kenosha announce the engagement of their daughter, Katherine Augusta, to James Malcolm Kehlor of Kenosha. The wedding will take place in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Puster of 3549 Monroe street announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret, to Earnest A. Milchert of Chicago.

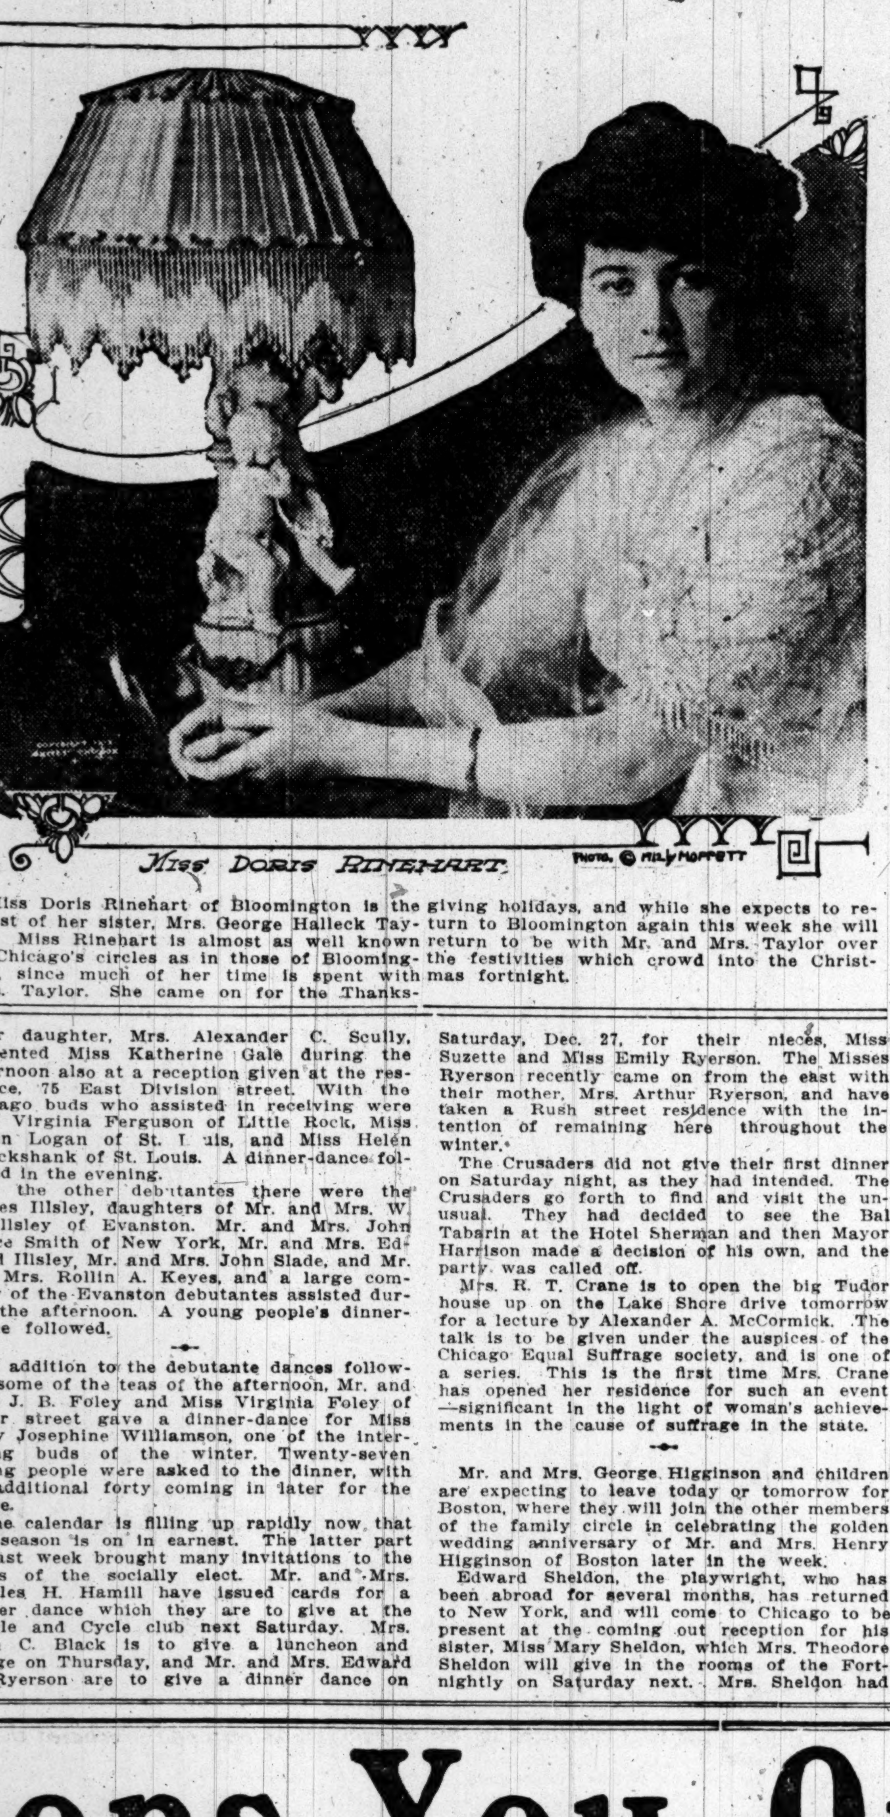

Mr. and Mrs. Claude C. Hopkins of the Chicago Beach hotel announce the engagement of their daughter, Geraldine, to Adiel Yeaman Dodge, son of Mr. A. L. Dodge of the Windermere hotel.

The marriage of Miss Marjorie Henderson Davis, daughter of Mrs. Katherine Wallace Davis, to Thomas Eugene Thompson took place Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at St. Peter's Episcopal church.

The marriage of Miss Grace Lillian McGill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert James McGill of 7015 Normal boulevard, to Kenneth Cornell Goodspeed took place Saturday evening in the Normal Park Presbyterian church. The Rev. Olin Mason Carvard read the service.

The marriage of Miss Hilda Calendin Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Johnson of 5414 Lakewood avenue, to John Adrien Carlson of Spokane will take place Wednesday evening, Dec. 10, at the Trinity Lutheran church.

The marriage of Miss Agnes Regina Fanning, daughter of Mrs. John Fanning of 2 West Walton place, to Edward Modisett Fleming of Virginia, nephew of John Barton Payne, took place Saturday evening at the residence of Mrs. Fanning. Father O'Brien of the cathedral read the service. The bride was gowned in white satin with princess lace and pearl ornaments. Miss Annie Fanning, the maid of honor, wore yellow satin with lace. Earl Fleming, the brother of the groom, was best man.

Miss Doris Rinehart of Bloomington is the guest of her sister, Mrs. George Halleck Taylor. Miss Rinehart is almost as well known in Chicago's circles as in those of Bloomington, since much of her time is spent with Mrs. Taylor. She came on for the Thanksgiving holidays, and while she expects to return to Bloomington again this week she will return to be with Mr. and Mrs. Taylor over the festivities which crowd into the Christmas fortnight.

Mexico Protection Society.

Lack of attendance and interest in the organization of a new society for the protection of American interests in Mexico, which was called for yesterday in the Hotel La Salle, caused a postponement until next Sunday. The meeting was called to order by A. E. Gage, who had given the name "La Junta Mexicano" to the proposed society, and before the meeting adjourned another name, the "Society for the Protection of American Interests in Mexico," was adopted, after it was suggested by a reporter covering the meeting.

Explorer at the Press Club.

James Sutherland, F. R. G. S., explorer and big game hunter, will give an illustrated lecture at the Press club this evening on his experiences of eighteen years, mainly in equatorial Africa. He will be assisted by Capt. G. H. Anderson of the British army, his companion in several of the hunts. On Thursday evening Prof. N. S. Amstutz, secretary of the Illinois Microscopical society, will give an illustrated lecture on work in his field. Miss Fanny Amstutz will assist in a musical program.

Local Jews Give Aid to 'Back to Palestine' Plan.

MORE than $1,000 was raised in five minutes yesterday morning by subscriptions among the congregation of the Isaiah temple, Vincennes avenue and East Forty-fifth street, for the support of the Bezlel school in Palestine. Mme. Bella Pevsner, who is lecturing in this country in the interest of the "Back to Palestine" movement among the Jews, told of the work that is being done in the school and of the plan to establish a refuge in Palestine for the oppressed Jews in all European countries.

"Russia is by no means the only country where the Jews are oppressed," said Mme. Pevsner. "The conditions in the Balkan country under the Greeks are far worse than under the government of the Turks. The oppression that prevails now is indescribable."

Mme. Pevsner said that the "Back to Palestine" movement was not based upon charity, but rather upon economic principles that afforded the only true salvation for the Jewish race. Continuing, she said:

"Palestine affords a possible home for hundreds of thousands of our people. It is a great agricultural country. Natural resources also give it promise as a manufacturing country. But in order to make the new Palestine what it should be we must provide our people with means of education. This we are trying to do at the Bezlel school.

"One of the leading features of this school is its work along technical lines. Although the school has been established but seven years we already have made great progress in arts and crafts work. The rugs, silver, and ivory work being made at the school is now being sold throughout Europe and is gaining recognition for its artistic worth. We plan to extend the work of the school through branches in all parts of Palestine."

Gunsaulus Commends Charities.

The Associated Charities of Chicago was commended yesterday morning by the Rev. F. W. Gunsaulus in his sermon at the Auditorium theater.

In urging an offering for the society Dr. Gunsaulus said:

"Central church coöperates with the Associated Charities because we feel that the method is the most economical way to administer benevolence. It puts common sense into the distribution of gifts, takes away much of the sickly sentimentality often made as the basis of an appeal, and places the city's charities on a broad and more substantial basis."

"When I was a boy," he said in speaking to his text, "Prepare to Meet God," I used to hear about God coming as a thief in the night, and I thought of him as waiting around the corner to clutch for me. 'Like a thief' simply means that God comes to us silently as a thief moves. He is coming to us all of the time and we ought to receive him in love."

Christian Science Lectures.

Judge Clifford P. Smith, C. S. B., of Brookline, Mass., member of the board of lectureship of the mother church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., will deliver a lecture at Twelfth Church of Christ, Scientist, Temple Sholom, Pine Grove avenue and Grace street, tonight and tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The lectures are free to the public.

Says Piety Still Is Potent.

"Sex lines are intrusive and superficial," said the Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones in his sermon yesterday morning at All Souls church in Abraham Lincoln center. Dr. Jones drew lessons from the life of Monica, the mother of Augustine, and declared that piety and sainthood are still potent.

Asks for Discarded Glasses.

"DO YOU think it possible there may be a discarded pair of eyeglasses somewhere? I will pay postage and return them if they do not fit my eyes. I gave my mother's away to a deserving woman ten years ago, never thinking I should ask for a pair for myself. I am 58 years of age and near sighted, and unable to buy a pair. I will be glad of any kind if I only can see through them. I give you a cake recipe for orange cake, as the holiday season will soon be here: Four eggs, two cups of sugar, a cup of cold water, one orange (grate and peel). Use all but the seeds; two cups of flour; three tablespoons baking powder. This will make three layers, and must be baked in a quick oven. I use soft filling, one and a half cups pulverized sugar, moistened with sweet cream. It takes so little cream one should be careful. I make the icing while the cake is baking.

"MAGGIE S."

Unless you may have a stigmatism or other peculiarity of vision it is quite likely glasses suited to the eyes of a person near your age may be of use to you. Such coincidences are not unusual. I publish your request with the probability in mind. It is not uncommon to see a person try on the glasses of an acquaintance with the remark, "They suit me even better than my own." We thank you for the recipe.

Hints for the Home.

"Can some Cornerite advise me as to where I can obtain pine needles to fill a pillow for one who suffers from insomnia, and what kind of needles are used? If those who own ferns and palms will feed them a tablespoonful of castor oil once a month they will see a decided change in the growth and appearance of the plants. I make cucumber pickles which every one thinks fine. It may be that some Cornerite might like to try it. Pack fresh cucumbers in jars. Those that are too large should be cut up. To each quart jar add a teaspoon of white mustard seed, two teaspoons of sugar, and two teaspoons of salt. I usually pack half a green pepper on top of my cucumbers. Fill the jar with cold white wine vinegar and seal. These will keep indefinitely and remain crisp. Cider vinegar turns cucumbers black and makes them soft. I shall make my big request last. Has any one a baby bassinet and an iron crib? My husband has just recovered from a siege of typhoid fever. We have one little one. Mrs. H. B. S."

Pine needles must be gathered in the woods. Balsam trees yield the most fragrant, although the common white and yellow pine may be used. Cut the sprays with a knife, bring them home, and with a pair of scissors clip off the needles and dry in an airy room out of the sun. Fern growers will note the prescription. We insert the recipe, albeit is is late in the year for cucumbers. It is good enough to keep over to another season. If there be a bassinet or a crib the former occupant has outgrown it will be a pleasure to notify you should it be placed at the service of the Corner.

No Acknowledgment Received.

"Some time ago I sent a Bible to Miss E. I do not recollect the town and did not save her letter. The request came through the Corner that some one would send her one. I wrote to her and told her to drop me a line when she received the Bible. As yet I have not heard from her. Kindly put a line in the Corner. I should like to hear if she received it.

"MAUD E. S."

I am unwilling to believe that the gift of a Bible has been passed over in ungracious silence. It is more likely that it never reached Miss E. Will she set our minds at ease upon this head? If she has not received the book we will try to secure another and to see that it is sent safely.

Some Problems in Cleaning.

"I have a teacher's Bible to offer, and a large number of magazines. I expect to move soon, and want to dispose of them. I notice you speak of washing flannels. I always supposed that hot or cold water would shrink flannels. I use warm suds, with borax in the water, both in rinsing and washing the garments, and my flannels always come out clean and soft, like new. I wonder if you will tell me how to clean a leather pillow cover and a hand painted velvet one? MAD M. F."

Gifts and household hint are thankfully acknowledged. I should hardly dare to clean either of the cushions if they are valuable. If they are not worth sending to a professional cleaner you might try the valuable gasoline upon both, taking care to have no artificial light in the room. Sponge the material lightly, and when the velvet is dry raise the pile by steaming over boiling water. You cannot clean the painted pattern.

Oyster Stuffing for Turkey.

Make a mixture of a large cup of dry bread-crumbs seasoned with parsley, thyme, and sweet marjoram, moistened with melted butter. To this add twenty small oysters chopped fine. Stuff the breast of the turkey with this. If you prefer you may use the oysters unchopped. —Request of Mrs. L. J. O.

Pumpkin Pie.

To two cups of stewed pumpkin add the beaten yolks of four eggs and one cup white sugar, one quart milk, one teaspoon of mixed cinnamon, mace, and nutmeg, and, last of all, the whites of the four eggs whipped stiff. Mix well, stirring up from the bottom at the last, and turn into pie tins lined with pastry first slashing these in various places. Bake in a steady oven until firm.

Certificate of Birth.

"Will any of your English correspondents tell me to whom I should apply for a certificate of birth? Should it be to the church where I was christened? For business reasons I have to obtain a certificate of birth. I left England when a young girl. I have no one there to ask and have been here for over thirty years. I trust some one will be kind enough to help me. Also will some one tell me the name of an Episcopal church in Walsall, England? There were a great many stone steps to climb. It was at the end of some street. M. K. B."

In the parish register of every "English" church the names of baptized children are kept, likewise a register of all burials and marriages in which rector or curate of the parish officiated. The Church of England has kept these records for hundreds of years. Write to the rector of the parish for the entry you want. All that he will need is your name and the names of your parents, with the date of the year in which the baptism took place. Your second query is referred. It is quite possible it may be answered by a native of the town you name, or by a tourist who has visited the place.

Makes a Good Gravy.

Fry a few slices of breakfast bacon, mix a large spoonful of flour with the dripping, add a pint of milk and as much water. Stir until smooth and thick. This makes a good gravy. —Kindness of L. H.

Ads in Religious Papers.

"Kindly inform me whether you know of any Presbyterian or other religious paper which publishes 'help wanted' or 'situations wanted' advertisements. If so, I should like to have the address. ANXIOUS."

So far as my observation extends, every religious paper of any note will publish advertisements for situations in schools and of instructors wanted in private families and neighborhoods. I do not recall any for places as clerks and domestics. Probably the limited space allotted to advertising in periodicals of this character may be one reason of the exclusion of such matter. Yet it would seem a charitable deed to bring together the housemother and a faithful, conscientious maid.

Cleaning Maribou Neckpiece.

"I should like to receive instructions through the Corner as to how to clean my white maribou neckpiece. WILHELMINA S."

A correspondent says that white maribou feathers may be cleaned by making a rather thin starch and adding more bluing than would be used in clear starching. Let it get cold and dip the feathers in it. Hang up to dry in a sunny window. When the feathers are perfectly dry shake out the powder. It should leave them clean. Repeat it if they are still grimy. Curl by holding over a heated range, shaking all the time.

Muffs Growing Larger in Spite of Opposition.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.] — No amount of encouragement could possibly have been any more effectual in stimulating the vogue of the all embracing muff than the violent opposition it has encountered these last months. From all sides it has been frowned on, systematically, vigorously. Fashion authorities, headed by Poiret, have united in their efforts to combine wondrous sleeve and cuff effects of sumptuous fur to act as substitutes. They have tendered them in all sorts of charming color combinations and modish styles. But the muff has held its own.

Stubbornly it has refused to yield its ground and with popular favor back of it has emerged huger than ever and indulging itself in a greater variety of shapes, colors, and prices. The bolster muff is one of the most popular and much latitude of shape is allowed it. As a rule it hangs loose and rather sloppy in the middle and narrows decidedly at the ends.

The trade in foxes here shows no signs of slackening. One muff of the whitish yellow fox Callot is so fond of showing was displayed here recently and reached really enormous proportions. It measured three feet from end to end, the center bagging in any but an attractive way and the ends closing in narrowly.

Other muffs are so broad from top to bottom they could better be called hand scarfs. Moleskins, doubly lined, first with chiffon, the same tone as the fur, and then under that with the same shade charmeuse, make a stunning muff. Moleskin is an essentially fragile fur, but its suppleness has an appeal which many women find impossible to resist. Chinchilla, too, which is hard to secure, as it is high priced and comes far from the heights of the Andes, is shown up in pillow effect muffs. The small rounded end marks a muff now as being of the latest mode. An imitation chinchilla muff is of squirrel dyed to resemble the chinchilla, gray fox tails being added as an attractive finish.

No one shape, however, could be said to have gained much vantage over any other these last weeks, for muffs are being displayed in every and all shapes. There is the huge muff made up into a perfect square and others that are deeper than their length, while still others are considerably wider at one end than at the other. The extremely soft muff, which crushes readily into almost every conceivable shape and is pliable in the extreme, is popular just now.

Metal brocades are also figuring in the muff line, shading in with the tone of the suit or contrasting vividly according to individual taste. One suit of Venetian velvet brocaded in gold and blue was worn with a muff of the same material. A wide flaring directoire collar of gray fox closed the collar of the coat and edged the muff. The latter was lined with brilliant cerise brocade.

Russian chipmunk is much in favor, because of its extreme suppleness and striking markings. Tassel ornaments are still being combined with muff and stole effects, chenille balls used with the fur.

Free Park Concert Draws.

Despite the rain, 200 men, women, and children were interested listeners at the fourth of the series of concerts under the auspices of the Civic Music association held in the field house in Sherman park, West Fifty-second street and South Center avenue, yesterday afternoon.

The program included Miss Vera Poppe, cellist; Mrs. A. M. Wood, accompanist, and Miss Helen Lawrence, pianist.

Juvenile Marriages.

A NOTED English physician recently made the following statement in regard to juvenile marriages:

"There cannot exist any doubt that we owe directly to marriages between young and immature men and women a great deal of the delicacy and ill health which are so prevalent among the working classes at the present time. When one comes to give the matter consideration it becomes very apparent that unduly early marriages must greatly hinder and mar the welfare of the race."

There are a great many people who advocate early marriages from a purely romantic viewpoint. But when the question is viewed from a practical and common sense point of view the physician's statement must be credited with much more than the proverbial "grain of truth."

Take a young man of 21—a clerk, perhaps, or in a similar position, earning, say, $12 a week. Away from home and in lodgings which are not at all homelike, he meets and falls in love with a girl of 18 or 20. She is more than likely to be an underpaid typist or woman clerk. She is not very robust. Neither is the young man. On the argument that it is as easy for two to live on $12 as one they marry. Not for a moment does it occur to the young people to take the state of their health into consideration.

They get married, and although it is rather a pinch to make ends meet, all goes well—for a time.

The cares of the head of the house, the worries of a breadwinner, the responsibilities of a husband and father weigh heavily against a none too robust constitution. The child wife becomes a mother before her system is fit to stand the strain. And the offspring of such a juvenile couple is most apt to have a delicate constitution which predisposes it to all the little illnesses which childhood is heir to. Of course, if there is no organic disease the child will in all probability outgrow its delicacy, but the point to be emphasized is that the suffering in its childhood could be avoided in nine cases out of ten by postponing the marriage of its parents until such time as they may reach physical maturity.

Twenty-five years in the man's case and 22 or 23 in the woman's is quite an early enough age for a couple to marry.

The conditions of life in the present day are much more strenuous than they were twenty or thirty years ago, when juvenile marriages were not discouraged. The conditions of work are different, the cost of living higher; hence the reason for advocating physical fitness and maturity before marriage.

She's 16; He's 45.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl of 16 and in love with a man of 45. It is agreeable with my father, but not with my mother. Please give me some advice about it. BERTIE."

You are entirely too young to be receiving attentions from a man of 45. Have nothing more to do with him. Make friends among the girls and boys of your own age, and don't think of spending your girlhood in this way.

An Unhappy Courtship.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am 19, and have kept company with quite an elderly man. From the first time I met him I have highly respected this man, and learned to love him very much. Everything went all right up until about a month ago a friend of mine who introduced us told me he was married, and I told him (the elderly man), and he said he wasn't at first, and then finally owned up to it. Telling me his marriage had been a fake. It wasn't home for him, and he could live happier with me, and that his wife was nothing to him, and has begged so earnestly for me to stay by him. Now, I love this man very much, but my pride and position has made me feel above him, but down in my heart I love no other. I never heard or saw anything of him for a month, and he has now a position where he is in our town every day, and he also writes me. If he did not write me I could learn to like another, but his letters torment me. Two or three weeks ago I had a long talk with him and he says he just stays with his wife for the children's sake. He always refers to me as his 'baby wife.' Now what shall I do—leave my job and go home for two or three weeks or stay and listen to him? I never talk to him, but he writes. Of course, I speak, so people do not catch on and he doesn't want me to talk to any man. We had always gone together on the sly, only my chum and her friend knew it, as her friend works in the same place. They both keep after me to stay by him, as he has no pleasure in life. I told my friend she'd better look after matters and see if her friend is also married. Should I go about with this girl or go and leave all behind and forget it? I'm well spoken of in our town and hold a responsible position as bookkeeper, have good wages, etc. Tell me what to do. I've just let my young life waste away for a year, always kept things to myself, and not a loud sort of a girl. Never attend dances and skating rinks. UNDECIDED."

Don't hesitate a moment. Go back to your home and try to be happy and make good friends. It is wrong for you to have anything to do with a man who is married, and you must feel that down in your heart. Don't you? You will be able to forget all about him, I'm sure, if you try.

Why Is It?

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl of 23 and have traveled around the country a great deal in the last four years. And, of course, during that time I have met a lot of men. I am rather nice looking and considered very attractive. There is no one likes to go out for a good time more than I do, to theaters especially, and to cafes once in a while. I will admit there are times that I go out with men that appear to be nice and I was not very well acquainted with them. I always act like a lady, no matter who I am with. I am a sociable and a jolly girl, but somehow or other, nearly every man I go out with treats me mean. Why is it? L. W."

You should not accept invitations from men whom you do not know. Don't you know that no man has a great respect for a girl whom he meets without an introduction? You cannot expect men to be gentlemanly toward you when you do not act like a lady.

She Has "Made Up Her Mind."

"Dear Miss Blake: I have been keeping company with a young man for two years and he has asked me to marry him, but I was not ready then. Now I have made up my mind and don't know how to let him know. Will you please advise me? ANXIOUS."

I am afraid that you will have to wait until he asks you again, as he will surely do before long.

Shall She Speak First?

"Dear Miss Blake: I am in trouble and feel as though you can help me. When meeting a young man on the street is it proper for the lady or should the gentleman speak first? Being at a party when a young man asks the lady for supper what should the lady answer? Please help me. ANXIOUS."

The lady always speaks first. When a young man invites a young lady to supper with him at a party she might say, "Yes, with pleasure," or merely "yes" and smile.

Asked Her to Lunch.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a young lady of 23 and I met a very nice young man of 30 and he has asked me to go out to lunch with him. Also has asked me to go to a show. Now do you think it would be right for a young lady to go out to lunch and to shows with a nice young man? GRACE."

I see no reason why you should not accept the invitation of the young man if you're sure he is nice. Has he called upon you and met your father and mother? If they approve of your accepting the invitation, there is no reason why you should refuse to go with him.

American Fashions.

[Copyright: 1913: By Lillian Russell.]

THERE is no such thing as American fashions for Americans nor English fashions for English women. All we can lay claim to as being originally American is the Indian style of dress. And today the most fashionable trimmings in Paris are the Indian bead trimmings, which they call "American embroidery" and are classified as is Irish lace and English embroidery.

When Americans speak of being obliged to modify French clothes for the Americans I cannot help saying that they are mistaken. The Americans have a decided tendency to add to, not modify, garments.

When a garment is shown on a model in Paris it is perfect in every detail. If a flower is needed, it is placed in its proper place. But when the dress leaves Paris it is then that it becomes distorted.

In place of one flower of a certain color being placed in just a particular spot for an effect some dressmaker will put a bunch of flowers, of perhaps inharmonious coloring, upon a dress, which will change the idea of harmony completely.

Then, again, a scarf of linen may be put on the neck of a waist with an attention of desired importance. An American dressmaker will change the whole idea by replacing that effect by some lace or a silk collar.

Lillian Russell Answers.

MISS K. C.: With the care you give your hair it should be in good condition. Instead of massaging the scalp "once in a while" massage it every night for about ten minutes. I would advise you to consult a good scalp specialist and take treatments. Electrical treatments may do you a great deal of good. Massage with a good tonic is also beneficial for falling hair. I shall be glad to send you instructions and formula for a hair tonic if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope. This is an excellent tonic and has helped a great many of my readers. It stops falling hair, itching scalp, and dandruff.

HELEN C.: Some people haven't the half moons on the finger nails and if they will not show with constant and proper manicuring there is nothing that will make them come up. Manicure your nails faithfully once a week and each morning after washing the hands, while the cuticle is still soft, wrap a piece of cotton around the large end of the orange wood stick and gently push back the cuticle. This is the only thing that will make the half moons show.

SALLY C.: It should not be difficult for you to gain in weight. You have easy working hours, nothing to worry you, and are perfectly healthy. It is not hard to gain in weight. Exercise and plenty of fresh air are essential in gaining flesh. After office hours or before breakfast take a long walk. If you can walk to work, do it. Practice deep breathing when walking. Eat plenty of good food, drink plenty of water between meals, no tea or coffee with meals, but drink milk and chocolate in its place. I shall send you a dietary for gaining flesh if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

A Scientific Menu.

WHEN people who know dietetics can cook, and people who can cook become dietitians [we may use the English word dietist, but good American usage favors dietitian), we are going to have the most helpful cook book in the world. But at present the science of eating is too new for us to have much of this difficult, or, perhaps it is better to say tedious, work done.

Our agricultural departments got a good start in working out a scientific diet for beasts before they began to see or give attention to the fact that it would be an even finer thing to be able to gauge a man's health and output with the same certainty that they gauge a cow's, by exact feeding.

Last year a man long connected with agricultural experimental stations, Whitman H. Jordan, now at the New York station, put out a book called "Principles of Human Nutrition: A Study in Practical Dietetics." The first part of the book is devoted to principles and the second to practical dietetics.

Mr. Jordan says that "no money can be invested at a higher rate of interest than purchasing food materials in considerable bulk." He gives and contrasts two menus for a day which cost 17 and 19 cents per person with two which cost 30½ and 58 cents per person, and says there is "no disadvantage in the simple fare as to nutritive efficiency and a probable advantage as to health."

Of course, it is impossible to give all his comments as to the criticisable lack of fruit in the first menu, but here are the two at smaller cost:

NO. 1.

Dinner—Mutton stew, dumplings, riced potatoes, bread and butter, poor man's rice pudding, coffee. (Note: Mr. Jordan has some revised recipe for this pudding evidently, for, as devised when eggs would not sell for more than 5 cents a dozen and when every family raised its own eggs, it makes an expensive pudding for today.)

NO. 2.

Breakfast—Pancakes, sirup, tea. (Not many dietitians would O. K. this.)

These menus are planned for six persons, and Mr. Jordan gives a table showing the proportion of the three main food elements in each food with the price of each. The number of calories supplied each person are given as 2,570. A scientific woman cook and a good shopper could probably do better than this. Here are quantities and prices:

NO. 1.

| Oz. | Cost. | Oz. | Cost. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 4 rolled oats | $0.025 | 8 crackers | 0.005 |
| 84 milk | 0.08 | Tea | 0.005 |
| 48 potatoes | 0.060 | Coffee | 0.01 |
| 4 macaroni | 0.040 | Total | $1.14 |
| 4 cheese | 0.050 | Cost per person for one day | |

| Oz. | Cost. | Oz. | Cost. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 40 corned beef | $0.30 | 8 butter [not today] | 0.15 |
| 32 potatoes | 0.04 | M sugar | 0.003 |
| 12 eggs [today 0.80 to 0.50] | 0.16 | Cost per person for one day | 16.5 cents |
| 32 bread | 0.08 | | |

Mr. Jordan says: "The ultimate aim of scientific knowledge relating to human nutrition should be to promote the healthful and economical use of food. . . . This knowledge must have practical application, and it means work on your part and mine."

ANNA GOULD PAYS LOAN SHARK WHO HAD SPOUSE IN CLUTCHES

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, Nov. 30.—A claim of $4,000 made by a money lender against the duc de Talleyrand-Perigord, who married Anna Gould after her divorce from Comte Boni de Castellane, has been settled by the duchess, who paid the money rather than permit an auction sale of personal property of her husband.

Yellow posters were displayed on walls in the fashionable quarter for several days announcing that the property of the duke, seized by the sheriff, would be sold in the ducal mansion in the avenue Malakoff. A list of the effects follows: They included seven pipes, gloves, a derby hat, a black suit, three cambric handkerchiefs, a cigar holder, a scarf pin, an imitation pearl and an ivory back scratcher.

Nobody went to the house to attend the sale and the duke and duchess were at first inclined to let the sheriff take all he wanted of the things. Finally a settlement was reached and the amount of the claim paid.

The duke has already paid $400,000 worth of debts to money lenders since his marriage.

"South America is the white slave market of the world. It is the highest bidder to what appeals to pride and passion.

"I visited remote mountain towns which were hell's back parlors. Seaport cities were cesspools of sin, where the devil's imagination was overtaxed to invent new devices for his worshippers. This is the land where police and procurer work hand in hand.

Miss Margaret Wilson Calls Meeting of Capital Organizations—Hopes to Prevent Money Waste.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the president, is the leader in a welfare movement for the District of Columbia. In compliance with her suggestion, a conference of 100 heads of various welfare organizations of the city will be held tomorrow night at the White House.

Miss Wilson believes the activities of these organizations should be concentrated in order to prevent waste of effort and money.

A bill will be introduced in congress for the concentration of authority and for its control over athletic fields, swimming pools, evening recreation centers in schools, branch libraries, course for playground teachers in normal school curriculum and industrial work.

NEW YORKER BUYS HALF OF RED SOX

TAYLORS TAKE CONTROL.

Price Paid for 50 Per Cent of Boston Club's Paper Said to Be in Excess of $220,000.

New York, Nov. 30.—[Special.]—A big baseball deal, involving the sale of half the stock in the Boston American league club for more than $220,000, was clinched late last night when Joseph Lannin, proprietor of the Garden City hotel, and a Long Island real estate man, obtained the shares held by President James R. McAleer, Secretary Robert McRoy, and former Manager Jake Stahl.

The formal transfer of the stock will be effected on Dec. 10 and new officers of the club will then be elected. Gen. Charles H. Taylor and his son, John I. Taylor, who own the other half of the club's stock, will remain in baseball, and it is believed John I. Taylor will be elected president. This office he held until the fall of 1911.

Taylors Anxious to Buy.

B. B. Johnson, president of the American league, visited Boston last week to consult with the Taylors, who were anxious to buy the McAleer-McRoy-Stahl holdings themselves. The Taylors originally owned the Red Sox outright, but in the winter of 1911-12 they sold half the stock to McAleer, McRoy, and Stahl for $170,000. McAleer was elected president and Stahl was appointed manager, a combination that worked in such harmony that the Red Sox won the American league pennant and the world's championship a year ago this fall. Incidentally the club made $400,000 on the year.

The new partnership began to lose favor in Boston before the 1912 world's series had ended. Trouble grew out of the organization of a "Royal Rooters club," and this tangle was taken up by Mayor Fitzgerald, who sought to make political capital out of it. Fitzgerald at one time demanded the withdrawal of McRoy from the club, but finally let the matter drop.

Stahl's Humiliation Causes Breach.

More trouble was in store for the club when the Red Sox, at the outset of the recent campaign, became crippled by the loss of Joe Wood and other valuable players. As the team dropped into the second division there was serious friction between McAleer and Stahl, with the result that Manager Stahl was summarily deposed by President McAleer in mid-season.

Ban Johnson was hot under the collar when he learned Stahl had been publicly humiliated in this manner, and he promised to take the matter up at once. He scored McAleer and declared the American league did not believe in such methods. Johnson hurried west after this, prepared to take McAleer to task, but when they met in Chicago there were no developments for publication.

The sudden improvement of the Boston Nationals under the management of George T. Stallings caused many Boston fans to turn away from the once popular Red Sox, so that the other American league club owners became alarmed. Ban Johnson meanwhile was planning to get McAleer out of the Red Sox, being convinced that this move alone could restore the American league's prestige in the Hub.

Taylors Sanction New Deal.

After several conferences with C. A. Comiskey of the White Sox, before the latter started on the trip around the world with McAleer as his guest, Johnson obtained the consent of McAleer to swing the deal. The Taylors were ready to take back their original holdings and were willing to pay $220,000 for them if no other purchaser could be found. Last Tuesday they learned from Johnson that Lannin was eager to buy out McAleer, McRoy, and Stahl for more money. As Lannin had Johnson's indorsement, the Taylors promptly agreed to sanction the deal, and Johnson came here on Wednesday to see Lannin. The matter was discussed at length and Lannin was told he would receive a final answer Saturday night.

Accordingly, Johnson telegraphed Lannin that he could have the McAleer-McRoy-Stahl holdings at the figures named, and Lannin accepted without further delay, naming Dec. 10 for the final settlement of details.

Ten days ago Lannin was elected a director of the Boston Nationals at the request of President Gaffney. Lannin, however, will send in his resignation to President Gaffney tomorrow and will sell his stock in the Boston Nationals. That will give him a free hand as half owner of the Red Sox.

NEWS TO SECRETARY M'ROY.

Secretary McRoy of the Boston American league club, returned yesterday from a trip to Hot Springs, Ark., to close arrangements for the next spring training trip of the Red Sox, and declared it was news to him that his holdings in the Hub club had been disposed of. He said it was the first he had heard of it, but that the deal might have been consummated without his knowledge.

Garland Stahl, former manager of the Red Sox, declined to discuss the matter in advance of definite information regarding the transfer, but said it came as a surprise to him. Whether or not it was a pleasant surprise could not be determined.

At the residence of President Johnson of the American league it was reported that he was not at home. McAleer is on the Pacific ocean.

FEDERALS TO QUIT CHICAGO, ACCORDING TO GOTHAM STORY.

Report Says Local Franchise Will Be Shifted to Milwaukee—Racey Knows Nothing of Change.

New York, Nov. 30.—[Special.]—The Federal league promoters have decided to abandon Chicago and are planning to take Milwaukee into the circuit, according to a rumor started here today. James Gilmore, who backed the Chicago Feds last year, has come to the conclusion that it would be a waste of good money to compete with the White Sox and Cubs for patronage next year, continues the story.

The promoters, it seems, gradually are steering away from a conflict with the major leagues and are scheming to make headway against the class A A American association.

Milwaukee, in their opinion, can support two teams with nonconflicting schedules, and for that reason the league is ready to transfer the Chicago franchise to Milwaukee, where the American association had a pennant winner this year.

Vice President E. C. Racey of the local Federal league club said last night the story from New York was news to him. He asserted that President Gilmore had been placed in charge of affairs, and did not know what he had done in the last week. Furthermore, Mr. Racey said he has not taken an important part in the business transactions of the club since the season closed. Mr. Gilmore was in Pittsburgh yesterday.

He will remain in this city three weeks before undertaking the journey to his home in Maine. Coombs contracted an affection of the spine last spring. After convalescing at his home, he attempted to get in the game again towards the end of the season, but suffered a relapse. Coombs expects to be in shape to join the Athletics next year.

Jake Daubert's batting supremacy in the National league is disputed by a couple of irregulars, according to the official averages for the season of 1913 just promulgated by Secretary John Heydler. As neither of the Brooklyn star's rivals figured in half the season's games, however, the laurels rightfully belong to Jake.

Daubert batted .350 in 139 games. Pitcher Yingling of the Dodgers compiled the high swat average of .383, but took part in only forty games, in several of those as pinch hitter. Charles McDonald, who played partly with the Reds and the rest of the time in Boston, attained .355 in seventy-three games. He is not the Eddie McDonald who was disposed of by the Cubs early in the season.

Cravath Leads in Homers.

Cravath of the Phillies ran second to Daubert among the regulars and also led the league in the number of home runs. He made nineteen of them during the year. Fred Luderus of the Phillies was second in the matter of four baggers, with eighteen. Vic Saier made fourteen home runs and his performance really was the best in the league, as he did not have the help of as many short fields as the Phillies did. Saier was aided only by a short right field at the west side park. A good healthy fly is likely to bound, into the unscreened seats in left or center fields at the Phillies park and any good, tall wallop will clear the right field wall there.

Heine Zimmerman, who topped the league last season, fell down to fourteenth place this year, but still proved the best sticker among the Cubs, with an average of .313. Saier was second best of the Cub regulars, with a mark of .289. Tommy Leach, veteran of the west side bunch, was close behind Vic with an average of .287.

There were twenty-three men in the National league, who swatted themselves into the .300 class this year, but only fourteen played in one-third of the season's schedule, and it is easier to attain high figures over a short route than over the longer one.

Team Honors to Giants.

The New York Giants led the league in team batting, with Brooklyn second and Philadelphia third. The Cubs stood sixth in team batting, fourteen points behind the Giants. New York easily led the league in base running with almost 300 steals. Cincinnati was second to the Giants. Max Carey of the Pirates was the best individual thief, as he purloined sixty-one bases. Ralph Meyers, the first baseman whom Boston sold to the minors, was next to Carey in stealing, with a total of fifty-seven. Hans Lobert stole forty-one bases and George Burns annexed forty.

Tommy Leach and Max Carey were the best run getters, each of them scoring ninety-nine tallies. Vic Saier led the league in the matter of three baggers, with twenty-one to his credit. J. C. Smith of Brooklyn gathered in the greatest number of doubles—forty. Otto Knabe proved the most prolific sacrifice hitter, as he committed suicide successfully forty-one times.

The Boston team used the largest number of players during the season, having forty-six in action at different times. Cincinnati was a close second, using forty-five different athletes. The Giants used the fewest men, thirty-two being sufficient to annex the old league's pennant.

PYNCHON TO HEAD SYNDICATE.

Gotham Man Will Direct Construction of Yacht for America's Cup Trial Races.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 30.—G. M. Pynchon of New York, owner of the racing sloop Istalena, will look after the interests of the syndicate of Philadelphia, New York, and Boston men who will finance a seventy-five foot sloop to enter the America's cup trial races next year. The design as drawn up by George Owen of this city provides for a draft of thirteen feet on an overall length of 108 feet. The contract for building the boat is expected to be awarded within a week, probably to builders at Bath, Me.

ROUGH PLAY SHOCKS WILSON.

President Displeased with Tactics in Army-Navy Gridiron Battle—Congress May Investigate Matter.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—President Wilson is reported to have been greatly shocked by the brutal playing that cropped out in the football game yesterday between the Army and Navy. Several times during the game he made plain his displeasure at the unusual roughness which characterized the play. Some of the senators and congressmen who saw the game today said it was the most brutal exhibition they ever had seen. They contemplate bringing the matter up in congress.

CADETS HOLD FREAK PARADE TO CELEBRATE NAVY DEFEAT.

Six Hundred Students Haul Stage Carrying Squad—Vernon Prichard to Lead Next Year's Team.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 30.—The Army football team, exultant over its victory from the Navy, returned to camp at noon today. The squad was met at the wharf by 600 cadets of the battalion and hauled up the long hill in the ancient stage which has been used for that purpose for many years. Six hundred pairs of willing hands was the motive power.

A real army mule, taken from the pack train on duty here, with a "Navy" goat strapped to its back, was a feature of the parade. The goat was bound fore and aft with a sailor's knot twisted by the army cadets to resemble the figures "22," the Army's winning score, and the "dead" Navy mascot rested on a black pall thrown over the mule's back.

The players elected their next year's captain on the train trip home this morning. They chose Vernon E. Prichard of the second class as their leader. Prichard has played quarter back on the team for two seasons and got in every game except one on the Army's schedule this season. His brilliant forward passing, spectacular open field running, and excellent generalship have made him one of the season's leading quarter backs. He is 22 years old, was admitted to West Point from the Eleventh congressional district of Iowa in June, 1911, and will be graduated in 1915. His election was unanimous.

MOLANDER SLATED TO LEAD MAROON BASKETBALL QUINTET

Player to Fill Vacancy Left by Ousting of Vruwink—Prospects for Winning Team Bright.

Charles Molander is slated to lead the Maroon basketball team during the present season. John Vruwink was elected captain at the close of the season last year, but he was declared ineligible for conference competition and dismissed from the university and the captaincy left vacant.

Molander and Norgren are the only third year men among the regulars. Molander was a close competitor with Vruwink before the election last year. Norgren was honored with the football captaincy, so the selection practically narrows down to Molander. He played a consistent game and was considered one of the best forwards in the conference last year.

Coach Pat Page will call his men together this afternoon for the first official practice session. The outlook is exceptionally bright. There are eight veterans back and five promising sophomores are on the roll. The first game is looked for Jan. 17, when the locals meet Iowa in Bartlett gymnasium.

The veterans who will report for practice are Molander, Des Jardien, Norgren, Stevenson, Baumgartner, Goettler, Kennedy, and Gorgas.

PACKEY AND BRIDE WILL TOUR WORLD

McFarland to Exhibit in Foreign Countries After Marriage in the Spring.

BOUT CARDED THIS WEEK

BY KNOCKOUT.

Jimmy Callahan and his White Sox players and John McGraw and his battling Giants, who are on a world's exhibition tour, will have nothing on Packey McFarland, the clever and scientific boxer, whose engagement to Miss Margaret Loughlin of Joliet became known yesterday.

As soon as the knot is tied Packey and his bride will start a tour around the world on their honeymoon. McFarland will give exhibitions abroad, but under no conditions will he engage in real battles. The pride of the south side and Manager Emil Thiry are outlining the trip and several favorable offers have been received.

Packey believes the money which he will earn through exhibitions will more than pay the expenses of the tour. McFarland yesterday admitted he had won the girl whom he wooed persistently for three years. The wedding will take place in the early spring. Packey is anxious to give his first exhibitions in Ireland.

Packey yesterday was the recipient of congratulations from his many friends. He could not understand how news of his engagement leaked out, but when caught with the "goods" he proudly admitted the facts. He is undecided as to whether he will continue boxing after his world tour. This phase of his future rests with Miss Loughlin, and he said he will live up to her wishes to the letter.

McFarland will continue training today at Lewis' gymnasium for his ten round bout with Harry Trendall at St. Louis on Thursday. He will return to Chicago after the contest to work for his ten round clash with Jack Britton in Milwaukee on Dec. 8. Packey will not make weight for Trendall, but the notch agreed upon for the Britton contest will be 137 pounds at 3 o'clock.

Steve Ketchel, who fought a ten round draw with Stanley Yoakum at Denver last Wednesday, returned to Chicago yesterday. Steve will engage in another fight in Denver on Dec. 9. Ketchel will do light training at O'Connell's for the remainder of the week and will leave for the west next Sunday. Manager Larney Lichtenstein will accompany him.

Jimmy Clabby, the Hammond middleweight, who stopped "Soldier" Frank Logan in the fourteenth round of a scheduled twenty session contest at San Francisco last Thursday, is due here today. Promoters in Jimmy's home town have made arrangements to give their pride a rousing welcome. Efforts will be made to match him with George Chip or Jack Dillon. The contest may be staged in Hammond during Christmas week.

"Young" Sinnet, the Rock Island bantamweight, Manager Lichtenstein, and Johnny Coulon, bantamweight champion, will hold a meeting this week for the purpose of opening bids and awarding the proposed ten round bout between Coulon and Sinnet to one of the Wisconsin clubs.

TWO MARKSMEN SHARE HONORS

Silver and Winkler Divide Four Events in Shoot at Chicago Gun Club Traps.

Edwin Silver and A. H. Winkler, local amateur marksmen, divided honors yesterday in the weekly shoot of the Chicago Gun club. Silver won the two fifty bird events from sixteen yards and Winkler captured the two fifty target distance handicap contests. Because of the unfavorable weather conditions only twenty-five shooters took part in the competition. Scores:

DAMEN BLANKS SETTERS, 8 TO 0

Shanley Strikes Out Twenty-four Batsmen and Slip Robs Him of No-Bingle Contest.

Damen Council blanked the Father Setters nine of the K. C. league at Douglas Park hall yesterday, 8 to 0. Shanley of Damon fanned twenty-four batters, and the only safe hit he allowed was a scratch by O'Rourke in the seventh. The Damen shortstop fell in fielding the ball, robbing Shanley of a no-hit game. Two other Setters batsmen reached first on passes. Damen pounded Immel throughout, gathering eleven bingles. Score:

Basketball League Starts Today.

Seven games will mark the opening of the preliminary schedule of the Chicago Basketball league this afternoon. In the heavyweight section the following games have been arranged: Lake View at Lane; Englewood at Parker, and Hyde Park at Calumet. The lightweights will hook up as follows: Lane at Lake View; Crane at McKinley; Lake at Englewood, and Calumet at Hyde Park.

Rain Prevents Soccer Match.

The soccer battle between Hyde Park Blues and Pullman for the leadership of the Association Football League of Chicago, scheduled at Pullman yesterday, was postponed because of rain and wet grounds.

Busch to Captain Carlisle.

Carlisle, Pa., Nov. 30.—Announcement was made tonight of the election of Elmer E. Busch, right guard, as captain of next year's Carlisle Indian football eleven. Busch is a member of the Pomo trib and comes from Potter Valley, Cal.

In the Wake of the News

BY R. W. LARDNER.

LOIS ENTERS THE RACE.

BY BILLIE.

Dear Wake: I'm very glad that you,
So boastful of your George or Jake,
Have opened up and let a few
Of us proud parents in the Wake.

My Lois, she is just as fine
As ever lived. She takes the cake.
She never tried to make the Line;
She doesn't know there is a Wake.

But she enjoys the limelight, so
And when she's old enough to know,
She'll be so glad she made the Wake.

BORK TAKES CITY PIN LEAD

Member of Drug Bowling League Topples 645 Pins.

ANDERSON SECOND WITH 607

Ollerman and Taylor Top Two Men Teams with 1,116 Count.

Charles Bork of the Drug league leaped into first place in the singles of the City bowling tourney at the Randolph alleys yesterday, turning in a count of 645 for his three games. Bork started with 214 and came back with 233, then with a record in sight he dropped to 198 in his last effort. Anderson of the Golden Rods and Pinkowski of the Imperials also registered double century averages, the former totaling 607 and the latter 604.

Opening play in the doubles was mediocre. Ollerman and Taylor marked up 1,116 for the best count of the early pairs.

Golden Rods ousted the leaders in the five men event with a total of 2,612, made on the late shift Saturday night. The special prize of $5 for best individual game went to G. Erickson, who toppled the pins for a 221 count.

CHICAGO BOWLER TAKES LEAD

Bangert of Mineralites Rolls 634 in Singles of Midwest Tourney at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—G. Bangert of the Mineralites of Chicago toppled the pins for a 634 mark in the singles of the mid-west bowling tournament today, thereby jumping into the lead in the individual competition. The best previous score was W. O. Ferguson's 627. Bangert opened with 198 and followed with 212 and 224. Following are the scores made by other Chicago bowlers: W. Lee, 561; H. Buckett, 535; E. Blouin, 611; W. V. Thompson, 616; W. Mrosek, 567; R. Wagner, 521; H. Lemphul, 527; H. C. Kohl, 596; W. A. McCoy, 432.

VICTORY OF ARMY BOOST FOR WEST

EASTERN ATTACK WEAK.

Final Drive Lacking, While Maroons and Gophers Both Gain When Needed Most.

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

The curtain game of the 1913 football season, resulting in a 22 to 9 victory for the Army over the Navy, further demonstrated the superiority of the western gridiron game over the eastern style of play during the most successful year since 1905.

Up to the time they played the Soldiers, the Sailors had met and defeated such strong elevens as Pittsburgh, Georgetown, Dickinson, Bucknell, and Penn State. The large score which the Navy piled up against some of its opponents led followers of football to believe the Annapolis eleven would defeat its ancient rival by a comfortable score.

When the Soldiers were beaten by Notre Dame, the Army coaches learned something. They paid close attention to the manner in which the western players executed forward passes and obtained a good idea of the formations from which the pass was hurled. The team then was pointed for the Navy battle and stress laid upon the execution of forward passes.

Yost Helps Drill Army.

In addition to the ideas received in the Notre Dame game, the services of Fielding H. Yost, the Michigan coach, were engaged immediately after the Michigan-Pennsylvania game. Yost undoubtedly showed the Cadets a few of his pet plays and with the coaches and team working in unison, an attack was developed, which resulted in the downfall of the strong and powerful Navy eleven.

Notre Dame, one of the claimants of the western championship, journeyed to West Point and defeated the Soldiers, 35 to 13, on Nov. 1. This game was stubbornly fought in the first two periods, but in the second half the South Benders opened up and successfully executed thirteen out of seventeen forward passes. The Cadets were unable to solve the bewildering attack.

As long as strong teams continue to be developed in the west, style of play in this section will rank above the caliber of eastern football unless eastern coaches teach a more advanced system of football. Harvard's strong eleven was unable to score against either Princeton or Yale by straight football, because the Crimson team did not have the necessary offense to make ground when close to its opponents' goals.

Attack Stronger in West.

In striking contrast to the situation in the east was the play of the western elevens in the crucial struggles. Minnesota defeated Wisconsin without the aid of field goals and Chicago won from the Gophers as a result of two well earned touchdowns. The leading western elevens had the necessary punch to gain when distance was needed, a feature Harvard did not possess.

Coach Harper and his great Notre Dame machine have returned from Austin, Tex., where the South Benders closed a successful season by winning from the Longhorns last Thursday. Harper said there is no chance of a post-season game, but he is of the opinion his eleven is superior to any aggregation in the west. At any rate the western season of 1913 will pass into history without a unanimous champion.

NOTRE DAME KNOCKS ON DOOR.

Catholic University to Apply for Admission to Western Conference at Next Meeting.

Notre Dame university, which always has been a factor in western athletics, will apply for admission to the western conference at the annual meeting of the faculty representatives of the "big nine" at the Auditorium hotel on Saturday.

Although Notre Dame will file its application, final action cannot be taken on its request until the June meeting, as the standing of the South Benders will have to be referred back to the faculties of the various conference universities.

Nebraska, which applied for membership last June, will know its fate after the meeting. Athletic Director E. O. Stiehm is in Chicago and entertains hopes of having his university admitted to membership. In addition to taking up the Notre Dame and Nebraska applications, the committee will award the outdoor conference track and field meet and take up other routine business.

HYDE PARK TO PLAY LOUISVILLE

Chicago League Champions Will Tackle Manual Training Eleven at Kentucky City on Saturday.

Hyde Park High school, champion of the Chicago High School Football league, will play Louisville Manual Training at Louisville on Saturday. Negotiations for the contest were completed yesterday, when the faculty representatives of both schools signed contracts. The local party, consisting of nineteen players, Coach Smith, Faculty Manager Miller, and Student Manager Lorne Fisher, will leave Friday night, arriving in Louisville early Saturday morning. Strenuous efforts will be made this week to bolster up the weak spots.

JUAREZ RACE RESULTS.

MEET TO DISCUSS INSURANCE COSTS

State Commissioners and Casualty Men Will Hold Conference Today.

Agents Will Urge Modification of Ruling Promulgated in New York State.

BY C. M. CARTWRIGHT.

The conference of state insurance commissioners and casualty men to be held in Chicago today is a most important one and involves an issue that is close to the heart of the insurance people. The meeting is an outgrowth of the ruling made by State Insurance Superintendent W. T. Emmet of New York, placing a limit on the acquisition expense of liability insurance.

The insurance people are not objecting to the limit of 17½ per cent ordered by the New York department on workmen's compensation insurance, as they believe that that ratio is just, and that it behooves the state departments to keep the expense ratio on workmen's compensation indemnity to the lowest possible figure.

Merely for self-protection, if nothing else the insurance companies issuing workmen's compensation policies realize that those who are injured, or the families of those who are killed, must receive the largest possible proportion of this fund.

Concerns Face State Insurance.

If private companies are not able to satisfy the public on this point, the state will assume their functions. In fact, there is a strong tendency toward state insurance in the minds of many people, who have not thoroughlyy investigated the results of state insurance in foreign countries. The insurance companies feel assured that they can conduct this line in a muche more satisfactory way than the state governments, and that the cost and results will be even more satisfactory.

Supt. Emmet in issuing his edict as to workmen's compensation insurance, therefore, has met with the approval of insurance companies and agents.

The point at which the New York department and insurance people differ is the order limiting the acquisition cost of other lines of liability insurance to 20 per cent. The insurance people take the ground that there is much difference between these other lines and workmen's compensation.

Hold 20 Per Cent Limit Small.

In the other lines of liability most of the premiums are small. The insurance is more difficult to solicit. The expense is greater in securing it and more time is involved. The argument is made that with a 20 per cent acquisition cost it will be impossible to interest agents and brokers in it to any considerable extent, and the business that is produced will be that which comes naturally without any extended solicitation.

It is contended many people now protected under different forms of liability insurance will allow their insurance to expire because agents and brokers cannot afford to give much time and attention to them with the small commissions allowed. Agents in other sections of the country outside of NewYork take the ground that while the acquisition cost in New York City may be higher than it should be, owing to the sharp and severe competition, yet in other sections this may not be the case.

Questions Justice of Ruling.

Some of the agents question the right of the New York department to dictate to all other sections of the country as to acquisition cost. The New York department in its order made it incumbent on a company not to exceed 20 per cent in its entire acquisition cost. This applies to its general operations all over the country.

There will be many representatives of casualty companies at the conference. The officers and executive committee of the National Association of Casualty and Surety Agents will be here, as will be other prominent general agents of casualty companies throughout the country. The National Association of Local Fire Insurance Agents will have some of its officers at the meeting, inasmuch as a large number of fire insurance men handle liability lines. The Insurance Brokers' association of New York City will send delegates, as will the Insurance Brokerage association of Chicago. There will be many officers of casualty companies present.

All Phases to Be Discussed.

The commissioners, therefore, will get the viewpoint of the various elements in the business. So far as can be learned the insurance people are coming to the conference with sincere motives in desiring to have an equitable solution of this problem of acquisition cost. There are many sides to the question coming from the public, stockholders, company officials, general agents, sub-agents, and brokers. The insurance people desire that the insurance commissioners view the question from every angle and from its broadest standpoint.

It is not thought that the commissioners will attempt to take any action that will reduce the efficient service now being given, nor will they wish to decrease the number of people now protected by liability policies of different kinds.

Not alone are the liability insurance men interested in this problem, but the conference will look into the expense of all casualty and surety lines, with the endeavor of arriving at some equitable solution of the vexing question.

Agents Urge Service Element.

The insurance people desire that the element of service and efficiency be not lost sight of, which is coming to be an important element in contracts of insurance. The insurance contract is more than mere indemnity. The factor of service should be recognized by the public, and if proper service is granted the public is willing to pay for it.

The insurance men who are seriously and legitimately in the business believe that the acquisition cost of all kinds of indemnity can be decreased, if some order can be devised to eliminate the incompetent and ignorant producer of business.

O'CONNOR ON THE BENCH TODAY

Successor of Judge Ben Smith Will Be Inducted Before Sullivan Clan.

John M. O'Connor will be sworn in this morning as judge of the Superior court. He will succeed Judge Ben M. Smith, who refused to run for reelection. Judge Smith will resume the private practice of law. Members of the Sullivan branch of the County Democracy, with which O'Connor is allied, will attend the inaugural ceremonies in a body. O'Connor's elevation to the bench leaves a vacancy in the state senate from the Twenty-ninth district. Gov. Dunne my call a special election.

STATISTICAL REVIEW OF FINANCIAL WEEK THE WORLD OVER

New York stock exchange sales fell nearly to 500,000 shares in dullest trading of many years. Monday's sales of stocks smaller than those of any previous full day's Wall street business since 1888. Price movements of no consequence, reactions later in week offsetting a substantial improvement on Tuesday. Call Money rises to 10 per cent on Friday, righest rate of year. Gold exports to Canada amount to $11,200,000. Currency shipments to San Francisco reach $1,900,000.

RAIL EMPLOYES FETE MELLEN.

Labor Organizations of Boston and Maine Railroad Give Former Chief Dinner at Boston.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 30.—Charles S. Mellen heard himself eulogized today by the heads of all the labor organizations connected with the Boston and Maine railroad.

WOMEN FAIL IN CARD PROTEST.

Few Respond to Call for Attack on Government for Opposition to "Closed Clubs."

The scheduled protest against the government's opposition to the "closed card clubs" did not materialize yesterday. Only a half dozen devotees gathered in Colonial hall, 5436 Wentworth avenue, in answer to the call of Mrs. Sarah Foster of 214 West Garfield boulevard, the principal figure in the case. The others, Mrs. Foster explained, had kept away on account of the rain.

TEAMSTERS QUIT IN INDIANAPOLIS

SOME CLASSES EXEMPT.

Drivers of Milk, Hospital, Mail, and Express Wagons to Remain at Work.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 30.—The teamsters' union, which voted unanimously late today to go on strike at midnight, quit work at that hour. The union, which includes the commercial chauffeurs, is one of the strongest in the city and has between 1,500 and 2,000 members.

A special dispensation for milk wagons driven by union teamsters was made at the meeting on the suggestion of Thomas J. Farrell, general organizer of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen, and Helpers of America. Drivers of hearses are exempt from the strike order.

Farrell also announced there would be no interference with the mail or other government wagons or automobiles, or with the wagons or machines of the express companies. He said arrangement would be made for delivering supplies to hospitals, so that there would be no added suffering among the sick.

Strikers to Picket Lawfully.

Several employers have signed the agreement, but their men will join the strike to make it more effective.

The men were ordered not to report at their respective barns tomorrow morning, but to picket the barns in a lawful manner.

Employers of teamsters who are members of the National Vehicle Owners' Protective association have practically decided to abandon all attempt to move their wagons on the first interference. They say they will put their wagons in the barns and send their horses to the country and await developments.

Wholesale dealers have notified their customers they will not attempt to make deliveries in case there is any interference with their wagons or automobiles.

Teamsters Submit Their Demands.

The demands of the teamsters were drafted last Sunday and submitted to the employers during the week. The demands include a wage scale and changes of working conditions, which vary according to the kind of work done. The wage scale for drivers of horse wagons range from $13 to $18 a week, and for chauffeurs from $14 to $18 a week. The hours of labor range from eight to twelve hours a day.

The union did not demand a "closed shop," but that there should be no discrimination against union men.

In addition to the extra patrolmen, 250 business men were sworn in as a reserve force this afternoon. These men were provided with uniforms and guns and are quartered in Tomlinson hall, where they will be held until the strike is settled. The men are commanded by officers of the Indiana national guard.

HIGH STOCK PRIZE TO TEXAS

W. N. REED LEADER OF ALL.

Lone Star Man Best Judge of Show; Foreign Expert Pleased.

Texas romped away on Saturday with the prizes for efficiency in students' judging at the International Live Stock exposition. Yesterday's announcement gave first place to the students from that state and also to the individual student representing Texas.

In the general college contest Texas scored 3,654 points, Missouri ranking second with 3,495, and Purdue a close third with 3,494.

The rest of the colleges followed in this order: Ohio, 3,470; Iowa, 3,460; Ontario, 3,413; Manitoba, 3,409; McDonald (Canada), 3,290; Kansas, 3,290; Oklahoma, 3,184; Pennsylvania, 3,177; Nebraska, 3,166.

The individual ranking of students engaged in the judging of all classes was led by W. N. Reed of Texas, with a total of 819 out of a possible 1,000. Second prize was captured by Fred Haepfner, with 758 points. Frank Beall of Purdue was third, with 750 to his credit.

There was a big crowd in attendance at the International amphitheater during the day, although there were no arena events, except for the practice given the horses by their riders. Interest attached to the comments of J. R. Campbell of Scotland, foreign judge of cattle at this year's show. He expressed a high degree of satisfaction with the show.

"Nothing could be more surprising to the foreign stock raiser," he said, "than the great progress made by American breeders and demonstrated here. It can't help but make the judges enthusiastic."

The first parade of prize cattle will open tonight's show, the bulk of which will be given over to a display by the horses, this forming an important event in the season's horse shows. There have been extensive box reservations by Chicagoans and outsiders.

NIGHTINGALE RENEWS ATTACK ON STATE EQUALIZATION BOARD

Progressive Member Tells Evanston Congregational Church Class Chicago Concerns Are Discriminated Against

Harry T. Nightingale, Progressive member of the state board of equalization from the Evanston-Lake county district, renewed his attack on fellow members of the board in an address yesterday before the current events class of the Evanston Congregational church.

His criticism of his colleagues and the methods of the board was largely a repetition of his statement in THE TRIBUNE a week ago. He charged that the board is a farce; that its members are inefficient and know nothing about their work; that they rarely attend committee meetings and that in assessing taxes against corporations they "soak" Chicago concerns to almost the total exclusion of corporations elsewhere in the state.

December Coupons

THE Income Tax Information Bureau maintained by this bank has compiled a list of corporations which have announced their intention of paying the normal income tax on bonds issued by them. If you are in doubt concerning the exemption of any of your December interest coupons this department will investigate the situation for you free of charge upon request.

The Treasury Department has just issued a new ruling for the purpose of protecting the identity of investors. These regulations, together with the new form of printed blanks to be filed by investors with the government, are now in the press and will be supplied upon application.

TWO BATTLESHIPS DANIELS' PROGRAM

Secretary Urges 8 Destroyers and 3 Submarines Also for Each Year.

INDORSES NAVAL HOLIDAY

Annual Report Declares Estimate Is Based on Lowest Figures Possible.

Washington, D. C. Nov. 30.—Two dreadnaughts, eight destroyers, and three submarines is the yearly naval building progam Secretary Daniels recommends in his first annual report to President Wilson. The program is somewhat less than recommended by the navy general board, principally because Mr. Daniels believes it is as heavy as the revenues of the government will permit.

Second only in interest to the secretary's building program is an indorsement of Winston Churchill's proposed naval holiday, with a recommendation that the United States take the initiative in arranging a conference of the powers on the subject.

Urges Consideration of Revenues.

Regarding his building program, Secretary Daniels says:

"The wise naval policy for the United States at this time is to find the golden mean. It can not wisely by itself reduce the construction of dreadnoughts or compete with other great powers in burdening taxpayers to hasten the construction of a navy larger than our conditions demand.

"The estimates of the navy department show a decrease in the ordinary expenditures. The program of the department may be summed up in the phrase, 'More money afloat and less ashore.' I therefore recommend the authorization by the present congress of the following building program:

"Two dreadnaughts.
"Eight destroyers.
"Three submarines.

"This is not, it will be observed, a large program, but it is a progressive one. It meets the demand to go forward in the continuation of 'an adequate and well proportioned navy.' We have now under construction six battleships of the largest and most approved type.

Program Held Sufficient.

"With the authorization of two of the largest battleships ever constructed, before the close of the present administration, the United States will have enough ships to have always a creditable and capable fleet in both the Pacific and Atlantic oceans.

"These, together with the smaller ships under construction, will make the American navy one of strength and power, ready for the protection of American shores and American interests. A steady building program of advancement from year to year will be necessary to give us 'an adequate navy,' the goal of American needs and desires.

"Those who bid us stand still in construction will not approve the conservative program. Those who wish to hasten more rapidly in construction will not give it their approval. It has been recommended after mature consideration as a middle course of wisdom.

Justifies His Program.

"'It is a condition and not a theory that confronts us.' The revenues of the country do not permit as large an expansion in naval building as the department might desire to enter upon at this time.

"In its recommendations it has kept in view the probable revenues and other demands and placed the new construction at the very lowest program that could meet the needs of the country or carry out the pledges made to the voters.

"It is not believed it is dealing honestly with congress to make large estimates in the expectation that the national legislators will use the pruning knife. I have reduced the building proposed by the general board not because of opposition to the progressive plans of that able body of naval statesmen, but because it is deemed wise to suggest a budget that will be within the resources of our government."

Indorses "Naval Holiday."

In indorsing a naval holiday the secretary says:

"The growing cost of dreadnaughts, of powder, and of everything that makes an efficient navy gives reason for pause. This heavy expense commands national and international consideration.

"No single nation with large interests can safely take a vacation in the building of battleships. That much to be desired vacation must come through concerted action. The suggestion of a vacation for one year in battleship building has met with hearty approval, and I venture the earnest hope that this will bear fruit in a well considered plan by navy building nations not to let the unnecessary competition go to further lengths.

"It is manifestly not possible for the proposed cessation in battleship construction to be declared at once. It is not a vacation we need, but a permanent policy to guard against extravagant and needless expansions."

Dewey Asks Twenty-eight Ships.

Admiral Dewey's views of the naval program the United States should adopt if it is to guard its international policies in the family of nations are transmitted to President Wilson with the report of Secretary Daniels.

The admiral's views, which embody the recommendations of the navy general board, are that the fleet should consist of forty-eight battleships of the line before 1920, if possible, and that the building program should begin this year with four dreadnaughts, sixteen destroyers, eight submarines, and minor craft.

Admiral Dewey points out that if four first class ships were laid down this year they would not increase the strength of the navy, but would only replace the Indiana, Massachusetts, Oregon, and Iowa, which he declares should be withdrawn even from the reserve line.

F. E. ROWLEY FUNERAL HELD.

Conduct Services for Newspaper Man at Graceland Chapel, but Burial Awaits Future Date.

Funeral services for Frank Ellis Rowley, formerly managing editor of the old Chicago Chronicle, were held yesterday afternoon at the chapel at Graceland. The body was placed in the vault and burial will be at a future date. Friends and newspaper associates of Mr. Rowley and of Mrs. Rowley, who as Pauline Fitzgerald was widely known in newspaper work, attended the services. Leroy W. Bennett, formerly a reader in the Christian Science church, had charge. Miss Sarah Burdick and Kirk Towns sang.

Peacemaker Stabbed Four Times.

Joseph Hodur of 524 Armour street attempted the rôle of peacemaker between two men fighting at Keith street and West Chicago avenue early yesterday. A short time later he was taken to the county hospital suffering from four stab wounds.

FIX UP CURRENCY MEASURE

Senate Democrats in Conference Work on Disputed Details.

READY FOR NEW SESSION.

Plan to Settle in Committee Any Difference Which May Crop Out.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—Determined to have the administration currency bill ready for consideration by the senate as a Democratic party measure when the new session of congress opens tomorrow, the senate conference of Democrats tonight worked far into the night settling the disputed details of the bill.

As finally agreed upon, the measure was little different from the draft presented to the senate by Chairman Owen and the five other administration Democrats of the banking and currency committee.

The conference decided, however, that if disputed points of importance became apparent in the course of debate on the floor each difference among Democrats as it arose would be taken into the conference, the party disagreements straightened out, and the majority united to act on the floor.

Report on Disputed Proposals.

The administration members of the banking and currency committee reported to the conference tonight on practically all of the disputed propositions in the bill.

The conference adopted the recommendation for a plan to guarantee the deposits of banks which enter the new system. This would provide that after the new regional banks have earned a 6 per cent dividend on their stock and established a 40 per cent surplus the excess earnings shall be divided half and half. One part shall be devoted to a guarantee fund and the other shall be paid to the government as a "franchise tax."

The conference also adopted the suggestion of the committee that the federal reserve board, which will control the new system, should consist of the secretary of the treasury and six members to be appointed by the president.

Will Refund 2 Per Cent Bonds.

The final decision of the conference, reached just before midnight, wrote into the bill a new plan for refunding the 2 per cent bonds on which the present bank note currency is based. The plan was evolved by Secretary McAdoo, and provides for the retiring of $25,000,000 of the bonds each year. The federal reserve banks would take over that amount of bonds, paying par and interest to the banks now holding them.

Provision is made for the pro rata distribution of the retirement among banks which apply to have their bonds sold. The money paid for the bonds would be used to cancel the notes outstanding against them, and the surplus paid to the banks whose bonds and notes were retired.

The conference agreed to extend the Aldrich-Vreeland emergency currency act, now in force, for one year, until June 30, 1915, to cover the period when the banks will be shifting from the present to the new system.

KAISER TAKES UP THE CASE OF CITIZENS SEIZED BY ARMY.

Minister of War to Report and Emperor Sends to Seabern, Alsace, for Details of Arrests.

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—Maj. Gen. Erich von Falkenhayn, the minister of war, has gone to Donaueschingen to make a personal report to the emperor on the situation at Seabern, Alsace.

The emperor has also ordered the civil and military authorities at Seabern to send him reports immediately.

Soldiers Patrol Seabern Street.

SEABERN, Nov. 30.—Soldiers patrolled the streets today in order to hold in check the townspeople, who are highly incensed at the repressive measures of the German army officers and the arrest and detention for alleged disorderly conduct of thirty citizens, who, however, were discharged by the civil courts yesterday.

OLD TIME CHICAGO RESIDENT FALLS TO DEATH FROM WINDOW

Patrick Coyle, for 57 Years a Dweller in "McFadden's Patch," Will Be Buried on Wednesday from Son's Residence.

Patrick Coyle, who for 57 years was a resident of Chicago, in what is known as "McFadden's patch," was killed early Sunday morning by falling out of a window at his residence, 1466 Indiana avenue. He will be buried Wednesday from the residence of his son, Sergt. Edward D. Coyle, 6234 Champlain avenue. The services will be held at St. John's Catholic church, Eighteenth and Clark streets, in which parish he lived since it was founded.

The decedent was born in Ireland in 1840. He came to Chicago at the age of 16, and was employed for several years by the Illinois Central railroad. In recent years he was a city employé at the Fourteenth street pumping works.

ROBERT C. BUTZOW SUCCUMBS.

Was Treasurer of Chicago Real Estate Board and Prominent in Business Circles.

Robert C. Butzow, treasurer of the Chicago Real Estate board and for many years an active figure in local real estate affairs, died yesterday at the Butzow residence at 1236 Hinman street, Evanston. He was born in Chicago, Dec. 16, 1858, and first was identified with the printing and publishing business.

In 1887 he entered the realty firm of Snow & Dickinson, and five years later on the organization of the present firm of Edgar M. Snow and company became a member of the firm.

Mr. Butzow is survived by the widow. The funeral will be held at the residence at 2 p. m. today and burial will be at Evansville, Ind.

LIFE SAVING STATION CLOSED.

Jackson Park Government Crew Go to Homes, but Others Along Lake Delay Action.

The Jackson park life saving station closed at midnight for the winter. Other stations along the lakes usually close at this time of the year, but because of continued navigation this year they will not close until later in the month.

OBITUARY.

SISTER HELENA FITZPATRICK, who last year celebrated the golden anniversary as a sister of Loretto, died yesterday at Loretto convent, 6541 Stewart avenue. She was 73 years of age, and a native of Guelph, Ont., and for eighteen years has resided in Chicago. The funeral will be held tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. at the convent, proceeding to St. Bernard's church and thence to Mt. Olivet.

GOTHAM BROKERS STILL KEEP BUSY

WALL STREET WAITING.

Traders Take Situation Philosophically and Scorn to Make Economies.

New York, Nov. 30.—Any one turning into Wall street from Broadway last Monday would never have known, from outward visible signs, that a low record of twenty-five years in stock exchange business was being reached that day.

No windows of brokerage houses were boarded up or marked "To Let"; no brokers were discovered sitting on the curbstone idly whittling sticks; no auctioneer was calling a crowd to come and buy old furniture. On the contrary, the offices all were occupied, and people came and went as usual.

The street crowd was as large as ever in the big days of 1901, 1906, and 1909, and it was necessary to turn from sidewalk to the street to make rapid progress. The limousines, with their silk hatted, prosperous looking occupants, came and went in rapid succession; the workers for the Y. M. C. A. fund darted from place to place, garnering the checks that were to make up their $4,000,000 building fund.

Exchange Lively Despite Dullness.

In the last two weeks only a little more than a million shares of stock have been sold on the stock market, yet the floor of the exchange, for so dull a place, has been remarkably unlike any other inanimate thing. There has not, it is true, been any body of 800 or 900 brokers caught in a great, struggling mass, swaying and roaring as they carried on their trade.

But even on Monday, when only 57,000 shares were done, there were 400 members on the floor, and with that attendance increased by 200 pages in uniform and 300 telephone clerks, anybody who came in expectation of finding a few brokers and gold braided attendants dozing at the numbered posts, with cobwebs being spun from visitors' gallery to the arbitrage rail beneath, was quickly disillusioned.

The hum of a thousand voices, the occasional shrill yell of a trader seeking or making a sale; the passing to and fro of brokers and pages; the constant tearing up by the brokers and scattering about of bits of paper—all this gave the uninitiated anything but an impression of prevailing dullness.

Floor Noise Small Criterion.

It was conceivable, no doubt, that those members who moved about the most did so to get the cramp out of their legs, or that those who shouted loudest were calling across the board room to make personal engagements. But whatever their reason, the floor looked "active."

As a matter of fact, the noise that comes from the floor is not an altogether safe measure of actual speculative business. On the right, near the Steel post, one saw during business hours yesterday a knot of brokers in earnest conversation. What they were discussing was not Steel, but the season's football scores. At one of the other posts several floor traders were talking loudly. They were not dealing in Reading, but arguing the respective merits, as sport, of rabbit shooting and deer hunting.

The harmless tittle-tattle of the clubs; the wife's losses at bridge; the new golf record set by an exchange member; the rising cost of gasoline—discussion of these subjects and others as varied, and the execution of a few stock orders, served to make up a broker's day on the exchange this week.

No Attempt at Economies.

Wall street men are said to complain about everything; they protest against their laundry and grocery bills and against the payment of $2.50 for a pair of gloves. That all may be. But that is away from the exchange. Brokers are not making office expenses out of their stock trade, yet you may go from one end of the financial district to the other and not see the smallest sign of that fact.

You find little visible economizing. May be some clerks have been laid off here and special wires dispensed with there, but the big expensive offices are maintained and the deep leather arm chairs still wait to receive into their comfortable depths the occasional customer who wanders in from the street.

Economy is not openly practiced. It may be because Wall street men do not know what they can dispense with. Clerks cannot all be let go; sentiment for one thing forbids, and then there may be a crying need for clerks a few months hence. Many special wires are leased and leases cannot be abrogated.

Former Luxuries Now Necessities.

The truth is, business luxuries and personal luxuries have become necessaries in recent years. The line is not at all so finely drawn as it was, for instance, in 1893. In the summer of that year word that a man outside in New street was selling straw hats for 25c nearly emptied the stock exchange of its membership. Straw hats were a luxury then, as one of the members proved when, in casting aside his derby and donning the straw, he quoted, "Give us the luxuries of life and we'll dispense with its necessaries."

One curious result of the dullness upon the brokers themselves has disclosed itself. Some of them it is making more frivolous, others more intellectual. With fewer than a handful of orders to execute between the hours of 10 and 3, they all have sought something to do—some occupation that would banish from mind their besetting troubles. A few can be seen on the floor daily, spending idle moments poring over pocket chess boards; other are playing with puzzles. Still others are reading periodicals and books.

Yesterday in one of the upstairs rooms of the exchange a group of brokers applauded the efforts of one of the governors to learn a new tango step.

Few Brokers Plan to Quit.

There are stock exchange members, one hears occasionally, who plan to pull out of business on Jan. 1. Those members form a very small minority. For, complain as he may, the average Wall street man has laid enough by from the palmy days of 1905, 1906, and 1909 to tide him over the lean days which are now upon him. Today brokers in good standing do not wear the same suit of clothes for a week at a time; their living has not been reduced to such threadbare, barefoot terms that they cannot get $10 for an Army-Navy football game ticket, and an extra $25 or $50 to wager on the game to make it "interesting."

"O, well," one of them said, "Paris once had a dull time, and right after that it was found necessary to close the entrance to Quincompoix street to stop the rush of crazy speculators. Only twelve years ago after a dull stretch the New York exchange had to close for a day to keep us from breaking down. The world is not yet at an end."

LEGAL NOTICES.

TO JOHN SZPILAK, FORMERLY OF PLAINview, in the Province of Saskatchewan, in the Dominion of Canada:

Take notice that the Standard Trusts Company of Winnipeg, in the Province of Manitoba, has entered an action against you, John Szpilak, Genie Finjanski, American Abell Engine and Thrasher Company Limited, and Rumely Products Company by writ of summons issued July 31, 1913, claiming judgment on the covenant and foreclosure of a mortgage made by you, the said John Szpilak, on the 13th day of May, 1911, for $500.00 on the following described land, viz.: the southeast quarter of Section Twenty-eight [28] in Township Twenty-five [25] in Range Eight [8] west of the second principal meridian, in the Province of Saskatchewan, particulars of which claim are filed in the office of the local Registrar of this court at Melville, in the Province of Saskatchewan.

And you are notified that if you dispute the said claim, either in whole or in part, you do within thirty days from the last insertion of this advertisement cause to be entered for you in the office of the said local Registrar an appearance, and within six days thereafter file with the said local Registrar a statement of your defense.

AND TAKE NOTICE that in default of your so doing the plaintiff may proceed in said action and judgment may be given in your absence and without further notice to you.

This notice is published in accordance with an order of His Honor, J. H. Parker, Master in Chambers, made herein October 27, 1913, which orders such advertisement to be good and sufficient service of the writ and statement of claim herein on you, the said Szpilak.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE CORporate name of The Windsor Folding Bed Company was changed to The Windsor Furniture Company at a special meeting of the stockholders held at the office of the company, 1429 Carroll-av., Chicago, Ill., on Nov. 28th, at 2 p. m.
